Lee Cook To Resign Post As 2nd Ward Councilman

Purina Official Promoted To Richmond Plant

Vacancy On Council To Come In August; Decision Important

Lee Cook, who was appointed to the post last year to fill a vacancy, disclosed today he will soon give up his job as councilman for Circleville's second ward.

Cook, who is now assistant credit manager at the local plant of the Ralston Purina Company, is being promoted to credit manager of a new plant the firm is building in Richmond, Va. Cook said the next meeting of council will probably be the last he will attend here.

He received notice of the new assignment about one week ago and since that time has been making the necessary arrangements to leave here. Cook, married and the father of twin daughters, lives at 379 E. Franklin St.

Cook said news of his promotion was somewhat unexpected, but he added he was looking forward with enthusiasm to his new duties in Richmond.

HE WAS appointed to council last year to fill a vacancy caused when Ray Cook moved from Circleville to Byesville, O. Since taking over the councilmanic post, Lee Cook has been a quiet but important figure in study and action on several top pieces of legislation.

He was a vigorous supporter of the defeated move to rezone residential acres north of Hargus Creek to clear the way for a shopping center.

Naming of Cook's successor by council will be an especially important move because of the top-ranking projects already before the lawmakers and still others in the preparation stage. Cook himself said he has not had an opportunity as yet to recommend someone to take over his job.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook traveled to Richmond last weekend to view the new plant being constructed there for the big grain concern.

Cook is to report for his Richmond duties on August 27 when the still incompleted Ralston-Purina unit will be operating as a warehouse. Completion of the new plant is scheduled for next December, Cook said.

* * *

MEANWHILE, he will be in charge of the warehouse operations.

Though pleased with his promotion and the opportunities it will afford, Cook said he will leave city council with reluctance.

"I was just beginning to get my feet on the ground in council," he explained. "I was just beginning to find out what it was all about."

'Blackout' Blamed For Auto Tragedy

TROY (AP) — A Troy woman "blacked out" yesterday as she drove on a residential street. Her car killed one little girl and seriously injured another.

The car of Mrs. Evelyn Wright, 28, climbed a curb and rolled into the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smitley. Their 5-year-old daughter, Kathleen, was killed. A neighbor playmate, Beverly Slack, 9, suffered skull and pelvis fractures. Her condition is fair.

Police still were investigating the tragedy. Mrs. Wright told them she has been suffering severe headaches recently.

U. S. Winding Up Marine's Trial

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP)—The government expects to complete its case today against Marine Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon for the death march of Recruit Platoon 71.

McKeon is the 31-year-old Worcester, Mass., drill instructor who led that platoon in the tide-swept waters of Ribbon Creek marsh here last April 8. Six of the recruits drowned.

Yesterday the seven-member court-martial panel heard that McKeon had been drinking before he led his "boots" into the marsh.

McKeon, eyes closed and body rigid, heard the statement he made after the march read into the record.

In the statement, dated April 9, McKeon recounted his disciplinary difficulties with Platoon 71. Then, he wrote:

"About 1300 (1 p. m.) I got the idea to take them out into the swamps that night, thinking I could teach them some discipline.

* * *

"ALL DURING the afternoon I had some drinks from a bottle, I think three or four drinks.

"Three fourths of the platoon were squared away but the rest were full balls."

The drill instructor told of marching the platoon in column of twos into Ribbon Creek.

Previously, the prosecution had raised the possibility that McKeon may have been drunk when he entered the creek.

This suggestion brought defense attorney Emile Zola Berman of New York City to his feet in roaring protest.

Maj. Charles B. Sevier, prosecutor, gained permission to enter the results of a midnight test for intoxication into evidence.

Navy Capt. Irving N. Klein, the court's law officer, ruled it was not admitted as evidence of intoxication, but only as evidence that McKeon had been drinking.

The record of the test on McKeon was brought into court by Navy Hospitalman 1c Billy G. Redmond of Nashville, Tenn.

Under direct examination, Redmond said the alcoholic content of McKeon's blood was .015 per cent. The test was taken at midnight. Platoon 71 entered the march about 8 p. m.

Sevier sought at one point to obtain an evaluation of the .015 reading, but the defense objection was sustained by Klein.

Postal Truck Deals Rapped By Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee today accused the Postoffice Department of illegal procedures in buying trucks from Twin Coach Co., Kent, Ohio.

The government operations subcommittee found evidence of "a certain affinity" by the department for Twin Coach products, although it also reported no sign of "culpable conduct" by any specific person.

At issue were three contracts with Twin Coach in 1954 for 250 light, sit-stand trucks for postal use. The contracts totaled $717,500.

The subcommittee said that originally two lower bids than Twin Coach's were submitted for the 250 vehicles, but the lower bidders took certain "exceptions" to the Postoffice bid specifications.

The Postoffice subsequently decided to negotiate a contract with Twin Coach instead on the grounds the purchase was for "experimental purposes," the subcommittee said. It added:

"The weight of the evidence points to the fact that the designation of the vehicles as 'experimental' was a thinly disguised attempt to avoid a competitive procurement."

The department had said it made the move to avoid litigation over the contracts.

Plastic Eyes Don't Match, But Boy Happy

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Mike Sibole's two artificial eyes don't quite match but it doesn't worry the happy 4-year-old.

He's glad to get the bandage off.

"Do I look pretty again?" he asked his father after an artificial left eye was fitted yesterday.

The Rev. James Sibole assured his son he did and the boy went home happy to play on the swing set in his back yard.

It was only a week after an operation removed Mike's cancerous eye. But the bandage bothered him when a heat rash broke out under it and he asked for his new eye.

The surgeon who removed Mike's right eye two years ago and the left one last week approved the boy's request. He had expected it would be several weeks before an artificial eye would be fitted over the plastic sphere inserted at the time of the operation.

An optical firm representative from New York also was caught by surprise and didn't have an eye that quite matched Mike's right one. A better matching job will come later.

Mike is getting around the house well, his father reported, and is looking forward to going to Miami next month where he will attend a preschool class for blind children.

Star Gets Divorce While Lying Abed

ENCINO, Calif. (AP) — Actress Marie McDonald won a divorce from her wealthy shoe manufacturer husband while lying in bed in her air-conditioned boudoir.

The 32-year-old actress, who is expecting a baby in September and has been ordered to stay in bed until the event, donned a coral chiffon nightgown and bed jacket for the special court session in her home yesterday.

She broke into tears twice while recounting some of the details of her stormy marriage to Harry Karl, 48, whom she accused of cruelty.

Melon Price Drops; Fruit Given Away

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A farmer who wouldn't sell a truckload of cantaloupes at the market price of 25 cents a bushel gave them away.

Norman R. Satterfield left the Birmingham Farmers Market when the price of cantaloupes dropped from 50 cents to 25 cents a bushel. He parked his truck downtown and passed out the cantaloupes to passersby.

"I believe in selling things, but selling them for two-bits a bushel just wouldn't be selling," he said.

Satterfield estimates he gave away about 250 cantaloupes in 20 minutes.

Ohio-Midland Asking PUCO For Increase

The Ohio-Midland Light and Power Company has asked the Ohio Public Utilities Commission to authorize its first increase in electric rates in 25 years.

An application to revise the firm's rate schedule was filed with the PUCO Wednesday.

Ohio-Midland supplies power to customers over a large portion of Pickaway County, chiefly in the section northeast of Circleville.

The new proposed schedule calls for a "very slight" increase in residential rates and a "moderate" increase in rates for commercial and power consumers. A spokesman for the firm did not specify the amounts of increase, and did not immediately know how many customers in Pickaway County county would be affected.

If the PUCO grants the increase, the return on the estimated present value of the property used in providing electric service will still be less than three percent, according to a company statement.

Woman Mistaken For Prowler, Is Shot By Husband

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mistaken for a prowler by her husband, Mrs. Marjorie Woodruff, 35, was shot in the head and critically wounded today at her home on Ohio 125 near Bantam, Clermont County, police reported. She was rushed to a hospital here.

Russell Woodruff, 35, said he mistook his wife for a prowler several hours after they and their 14-year-old daughter, Sandra, saw a man hiding in the bushes near the living room window.

He reported the three of them watched the man for some time, then the daughter went to bed.

Then, he continued, he saw the silhouette of a head at a bedroom window and "when it appeared the second time I fired."

It was his wife, however, Woodruff said. He said she had slipped into the bedroom while he still thought she was behind him in the living room.

Akron Couple Wed For 73 Years

AKRON (AP)—Thomas W. Lee, 94, and his wife, Elizabeth, 91, today observed their 73rd wedding anniversary.

"I can sleep and eat fine but I can't walk so good," said Lee.

They make their home in Copley Twp. with a daughter, Blanche Hart, an Akron school teacher, and her husband, C. W. Hart.

The Lees were married in Bellaire and made their home most of their life in Massillon.

Young Actor Still Nailed To Cross

REYNOSA, Mexico (AP) — That young actor is still nailed to a cross here. Yesterday, it was reported that he had given up his exhibition and had headed south.

But an American reporter trekked to this village today and found the 25-year-old ventriloquist still in town and still undergoing his strange stint.

The young man said he learned to bear pain by sticking cactus spurs into his flesh as a child. And he expressed hope of remaining 15 days on the cross to which he has been nailed siice Sunday.

The ventriloquist, known as Tagore, lay on the cross as he talked through an interpreter. His hands were still nailed to the cross. His feet, bandaged on the bottom, had been removed from the cross but the nails were still in them.

He said they hurt but he gave no indication of suffering great pain. He did not appear to be in a trance.

Tagore was dressed in a white silk suit. The cross, supported by two carpenter's saw horses, was in a small room he rented near the bull ring where a crowd of 5,000 persons paid admission to see him nailed to the cross at sunset Sunday. The cross, which was never raised to an upright position, was carried to the room an hour later.

Tagore, who comes from Villa Gomez, Chihuahua, and whose real name is Ijenio Garcia Carmona, said he was putting on the exhibition solely to make money.

Tagore said he will donate 10 per cent to the Roman Catholic Church in honor of the Virgin of Gaudalupe.

"Have church officials authorized this exhibition?" the reporter asked.

"I talked to them about it and they didn't seem to mind," he replied.

Earlier Father Jose Castillinas, a Reynosa priest, said neither he nor his church had given permission for the exhibition and that as far as he knew the church would not get any of the money.

Tuesday the mayor of Reynosa ordered that Tagore's permit to charge admission for an exhibition be canceled.

Tagore said he had been nailed to a cross on three previous occasions, once for 15 days.

Tagore said he planned to remain on the cross if he could stand the pain and if government officials would grant a special permit for the exhibition.

Window Smashed In Phone Dispute

Incident Reported At Exchange Located Near Steubenville

A brick was thrown through a large plate glass window of an exchange in the Steubenville area today as union and management spokesmen prepared to renew their efforts to end the Consolidated Telephone Company strike.

Negotiators seeking to end the 12-day walkout of 600 operators and service personnel are holding their meetings in Portsmouth. The window-smashing incident was reported from the Smithfield exchange in the Steubenville area.

Two supervisory men, James Dunn and Leyton Roan, both of Celina, were on emergency duty in the exchange when the window was shattered. Neither was hurt.

Pickets and onlookers were gathered around the exchange building at the time, but police said none of those present admitted knowing who tossed the brick.

AT PORTSMOUTH, there was little optimism.

Company spokesmen and officials of the Communications Workers of America (CWA) met twice Wednesday without any apparent progress toward an agreement on a new one year contract. The old contract expired at midnight July 14.

Meanwhile Richard N. Cole, company vice president has inferred that strikers are responsible for several acts of vandalism against Consolidated property.

Officials of the CWA have said strikers were not involved in the destruction of company property.

But Cole replied in a formal statement:

"Even though the union consistently denies responsibility for the acts of vandalism, these acts necessarily are intertwined with the strike activity. The six cable cuts that have occurred could only be made by persons having intimate knowledge of the company's cable distribution system."

The company serves parts of 24 southern Ohio counties.

Hodge Seen As 'Shield' In Illinois Scandal

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Orville E. Hodge, deposed Illinois state auditor, takes full responsibility for the $1 million scandal in his office but, says a prosecutor, it sounds as if Hodge is "shielding someone."

This was the summary of Hodge's 176-page statement on missing state funds as presented by George P. Coutrakon, Sangamon County (Springfield) state's attorney.

Coutrakon interviewed the one-time big man in the Republican state administration after the scandal broke and, on the basis of the interview, a county grand jury returned 46 indictments against him Tuesday. Each was based on the fraudulent cashing of state warrants (checks).

These indictments were in addition to 54 indictments returned last week by a federal grand jury in Chicago, which accused Hodge, his office manager Edward Epping and the former president of Chicago's Southmoor Bank and Trust Co., Edward A. Hintz, of mishandling $872,000 in federally insured bank deposits.

All told, money missing from the state treasury is estimated to amount to more than $1 million.

Coutrakon said the implication of Hodge's statement was "I'll take full responsibility." He added:

"He could be shielding Epping. He could be shielding Hintz. It could be somebody we don't know about."

Congress Eyes End Of Session

Adjournment Expected To Come Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (AP)—An adjournment-bent 84th Congress tackled another heavy load of work today with many of its weary members expecting the final gavel to bang—sometime tomorrow.

A few optimists thought there was a faint chance to get through late tonight. Some pessimists talked about Saturday. The Senate worked last night until 11:48, putting in a 13-hour session.

These were the major bills left to be sent to President Eisenhower before final adjournment:

A $3,766,570,000 foreign aid money bill on which conferees reached final agreement. The House was expected to act promptly on this and send it to the Senate.

A Democratic-sponsored Social Security bill permitting disabled workers to draw benefits at 50 and women to receive retirement payments starting at 62. Conferees also have agreed on this, but must polish the language.

* * *

AN OMNIBUS housing bill which both the House and Senate passed and headed toward a conference to resolve conflicts. The Senate bowed to the House and held the public housing program to the two-year total of 70,000 units asked by Eisenhower.

The $2,315,000,000 second supplemental appropriations bill, the last money measure of the session, which was passed by the Senate and sent to conference with the House.

The Senate also passed the compromise version of the first supplemental appropriations measure and sent it to the President. It contained $1,691,000,000, most of it for military construction.

The Senate planned to work today on a depressed areas bill to establish a broad new program of federal aids to areas of chronic unemployment; and a $1.6 billion bill already passed by the House, to authorize rivers and harbors projects all over the nation.

Playwright Cited In Congress Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Playwright Arthur Miller today faced possible prosecution for refusing to give the House Committee on Un-American Activities the names of persons with whom he attended Communist party writers' meetings in 1939 or 1940.

The House voted 373-9 yesterday to cite Miller for contempt of Congress and to send his case to the Justice Department.

Miller, now honeymooning in Britain with Actress Marilyn Monroe, told the committee last month that he never was a Communist party member, but he did concede past associations with various Red front groups.

Dior Now Shows 'Magnet Line'

PARIS (AP)—Christian Dior electrified Paris today with his new "magnet line," puffing out the hips and emphasizing the bust.

Gasps and applause seemed to assure another "scandalous success," as the French call it. Unless the critics puncture it, Dior may have another New Look.

The magnet line rounds the shoulders, bust and hips, and often drops necklines daringly low. Skirts are wider at the hip than at the hem, being set-in in soft folds at the natural waistline.

1,709 Rescued, But Big Italian Ship Goes Down

Vessel And Swedish Liner Crash In Fog Off Atlantic Coast

NEW YORK (AP) — Two great transatlantic liners, laden with thousands of carefree passengers, collided with a rending crash in dense fog off Massachusetts last night. One, the Italian liner Andrea Doria, keeled over and plunged beneath the sea at midmorning today.

But before the luxurious Andrea Doria vanished beneath the gentle swells of the relatively calm sea 45 miles south of Nantucket Island, its 1,709 passengers and crew were snatched to safety by other ships in history's greatest rescue operation.

Four died later. An undetermined number were injured.

The Andrea Doria had collided shortly before midnight off Nantucket Island, Mass., with the Swedish liner Stockholm.

The Andrea Doria went into the watery deep in just a little less than 11 hours after the collision.

The end came at 10:09 a. m.

This succession of radio messages from a Coast Guard cutter at the scene gave this dramatic picture of the multi-million-dollar liner's final moments:

"Settling rapidly, abandoned by captain and senior officers.

"Sinking. Just her fantail is showing."

"SS Andrea Dorian sank in 225 feet of water at 10:09 a. m."

* * *

THE CAUSE of the staggering collision remains a mystery. The Andrea Doria was equipped with modern radar facilities which should have enabled it to spot another vessel miles away, even in fog.

Its skeleton officer crew managed to start pumps going and for a time managed to halt the increase in its starboard list. But the effort finally failed.

A news reporter flew over the scene shortly after daylight.

Despite a heavy haze which clung to the sea, he said he could see that the Andrea Doria looked like a "broken toy" and that the Stockholm's bow looked like a "bowl of spaghetti."

This would indicate that the Stockholm had struck the Andrea Doria amidships.

The Stockholm was damaged but not dangerously, and aided in the rescue of Andrea Doria's personnel.

Capt. Piero Calamai and a handful of senior officers stuck grimly with the stricken Italian vessel for hours, but finally were forced to abandon her.

One of the dead was identified as Alf Johannsson, 30, a crew member of the Swedish liner. He died after being flown by helicopter to Nantucket Island, about 45 miles north of the crash area. He was one of five persons, including a 7-year-old girl, taken off the Stockholm by helicopter.

DROODLES

"LONG TIME NO E"

As this Droodle is based on a complicated non-Aristotelian pun (i.e. it is sort of coo-koo) I decided I'd better see what public reaction to it would be, so I took a survey in one of the busiest sections of Manhattan. The consensus turned out to be split right down the middle. Fifty per cent of the people I showed it to said it "didn't make any sense" and the other fifty per cent stated that I was dropping cigarette ashes on their lapels. But later, as I was riding home on the Fifth Avenue bus, I did meet one old lady who said it was the funniest thing she'd ever seen. Made me feel so good I was almost tempted to scrooch over and give her half of my seat.

chant fleet, was inbound to New York from Genoa, Italy, carrying many Americans.

The 11,000 - ton Stockholm had sailed eastward out of New York yesterday.

The crash occurred shortly before midnight at a point about 200 miles northeast of New York. Heavy fog shrouded the area, but the seas were relatively calm.

Frantic SOS calls came from the Andrea Doria as it began tilting over at a dangerous angle, and other vessels raced from all directions for the rescue.

Upon arrival, they spewed lifeboats into the sea at feverish haste toward the Andrea Doria, which could not lower its own craft because of its 45-degree list.

Within five hours, all but a handful of its passengers and crew had been lifted to safety.

Among the rescue vessels were the giant French liner, Ile De France, which took aboard about 730 persons; the United Fruit Company freighter Cape Ann, with 168; and the military sea transport Thomas, with about 165.

All headed for New York, with arrival times listed as late today.

The Stockholm also was returning to New York. She had 425 of the Andrea Doria's passengers aboard.

Officials of the Italian line in Genoa said they "could not imagine" their ship might sink.

They said she was divided into 111 security compartments "which should keep her afloat even with grave danger." They said the prow and engine sections of the ship had a double hull.

No Need Seen For New Tax Levy In Ohio

IRONTON (AP) — Michael V. DiSalle, Democratic candidate for governor, sees no need for a state income tax or, for that matter, for any additional taxes whatsoever in Ohio in the next two years.

The former Toledo mayor told an audience here last night:

"I'm convinced that barring any economic depressions or severe changes, the state can be operated during the next two years without an increase in taxes."

DiSalle added: "Nor do I feel that there is a need for a state income tax. I believe the cities which are now using the income tax to solve their local financial problems should not have that source of funds jeopardized."

He said entry of the state into the income tax field would force the cities out, since the law would not permit both to levy the same tax.

DiSalle was to travel to McConnelsville and Caldwell before going to the Monroe County Fair at Woodsfield and the Knox County Fair at Mount Vernon today.

Earlier yesterday, DiSalle took in the Fayette County Fair in Washington C. H. While there, he visited the "Friendship Booth" set up by Republican backers of Sen. George Bender.

Residents Warned Concerning Trash Tossed In Streets

City residents are being given another warning about throwing trash in the streets.

Service Director Dewey Speakman said that unless the situation comes to a stop, some residents will face arrest. He pointed out that there is a city ordinance which calls for fines of $10 to $50 for this offense.

"Lots of people mow their lawns and then either leave the clippings piled up or they throw them in the street," he noted. "Then, the mess blows over to some neighbor's property and we get a call from that neighbor complaining that someone else's trash is cluttering up their property.

"You would be surprised how many calls of this kind we get. We just can't spare the men to go out and clean up the mess every time someone calls us."

Quakers Rip Conduct Of Red Probers

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The conduct of a House UnAmerican Activities subcommittee hearing here last week was under fire today by nine leaders of the religious Society of Friends.

The nine Quakers sent a letter of protest to the seven members of the committee who did not attend the hearings here, conducted by Reps. Francis Walter (D-Pa) and Gordon Scherer (R-Ohio). Copies of the letter also were sent to Walter and Scherer.

The Quaker leaders said they made the strongly worded letter public today "because we earnestly believe that the issues raised by the conduct of this hearing are of grave significance to democracy."

The letter contended that the two congressmen "slanted" the hearing in such a way as to make it critical of the Plymouth Meeting, a Quaker group, for retaining Mary G. Knowles as librarian of the Jeanes Library, operated by the Meeting, despite the fact she pleaded the Fifth Amendment in an appearance before the committee in Washington. Mrs. Knowles recently was cited for contempt of Congress.

Mrs. Downs added that growers may obtain loans on their corn after harvest, providing the moisture content is not greater than 20½ percent.

Poll Reveals Nixon Still Top Choice In GOP

Party Leaders Fail To Be Impressed By Stassen's Maneuver

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon still is the overwhelming favorite of Republican leaders across the country for another nomination as President Eisenhower's running mate.

An Associated Press poll of GOP governors, state chairmen and national committeemen showed today that Harold E. Stassen's bid to unseat Nixon in favor of Massachusetts Gov. Christian A. Herter caused hardly a ripple in Republican organizations.

Many kind words were spoken about Herter. But the GOP leaders made it plain Nixon still is their man even though Eisenhower has not tapped him specifically for the nomination.

The great majority voiced confidence their state delegations to the nominating convention feel the same way.

Stassen didn't give up his campaign, a one-man drive so far, to ditch Nixon. He hinted he hopes Eisenhower will give it some encouragement. Presumably he means the chief executive might say something to the effect that the vice presidential nomination still isn't settled and that there are a lot of good possibilities around, such as Nixon and Herter.

* * *

STASSEN HINTED, too, at more blasts of his own, including release by the weekend of results of a poll of strength of various vice presidential possibilities which he said he and four or five others financed. Stassen said preliminary results give Nixon the poorest showing of eight possibilities listed. Of the eight, Stassen would name only himself, Nixon and Herter.

But the AP toll turned up no Republican leaders who seriously doubted Nixon has a solid grip on the nomination. The Stassen-for-Herter drive seemed to have collapsed, 24 hours after it started, with Tuesday's announcement that Herter will put Nixon's name in nomination at the convention.

Stassen said that creates "some difficulty psychologically," but still doesn't rule Herter out.

An AP poll among the state leaders last March showed Nixon was a definite 13-1 choice to succeed himself, with support rising to 16-1 if you counted those who said they wanted Nixon if Eisenhower did.

In the new poll, which included 110 of a possible 165 state leaders this is the score:

Flatly for Nixon — 73.
For Nixon if Ike wants him—14.
Undecided, or "Let's leave it to Ike" 12.
For Nixon unless Ike vetoes him — 4.
For Nixon "as of now" — 3.
Leaning toward Nixon — 3.
Leaning away from Nixon — 1.

Except for Herter and a few favorite sons, such as former Colorado Gov. Dan Thornton, not a name was mentioned by any of those replying as a possible substitute for Nixon.

Motorist Crashes Lowered Gate At Railroad Crossing

An elderly Columbus motorist took big risks here Wednesday when he drove right through a lowered gate guarding the railroad tracks on S. Court St.

Officer Leroy Hawks, who investigated the accident, said 85-year old Charles A. Argarbuight claimed he did not see the lowered gate nor the flashing red lights signalling, nor hear the warning bells.

Argarbuight's southbound car broke two sections of the gate and the neon tubes which outline the gate at night. After crashing the barrier, Argarbuight stopped his car between the two sets of double tracks at the crossing.

Although Argarbuight's car was damaged, he was not hurt. He told Officer Hawks he had been headed for Wellston.

Portsmouth OKd For Air Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil Aeronautics Board Examiner John A. Cannon recommended today that Lake Central Airlines be given a temporary permit to stop at Portsmouth, Ohio.

This, he said, would make Portsmouth a stop on a Lake Central Cincinnati-Columbus route and for the first time link Portsmouth by air with the East, West and North.

Cannon told the board that Lake Central should be given this Portsmouth stop until a current proceeding on Great Lakes local air service is settled.

Flood Of Beer-Wine Permits To Be Issued By State Soon

COLUMBUS (AP) — The State Liquor Department expects to issue several hundred new beer and wine carryout permits throughout Ohio as a result of a Franklin County court decision upholding the department's new "freeze."

The new regulation takes the lid off beer and wine carryout permits. Forty carryout permit holders from Hamilton and Franklin counties had filed action in common pleas court here seeking to knock out the new regulation.

Had they succeeded, part of the old regulation freezing issuance of new carryout permits would have continued in effect.

All their suit did was delay the effective date of the new "freeze" regulation on hard liquor permits, thereby opening the floodgates to permits for selling liquor, beer and wine by the glass.

State Liquor Director William C. Bryant said there were 482 applications on file in mid-June for 3.2 beer carryout licenses and 837 for high-powered beer and wine carryouts. New permits can be issued, he said, as soon as Common Pleas Judge George B. Marshall puts the final entry on court records here.

* * *

JUDGE MARSHALL held yesterday the Liquor Board's new regulation, which was to have become effective last May 28, is not unreasonable, as contended by the Hamilton and Franklin County interests.

The new regulation replaces a seven-year-old freeze knocked out by the Ohio Supreme Court last March 31. The high court order did not apply to sections of the regulation limiting carryouts.

Under the new regulation, the number of permits (liquor and beer and wine-by-the-glass) that may be issued will be based on a license-population ration as of April 1, 1950, applying that ratio to 1956 population figures (number of licenses to increase in proportion to the population increase).

Bryant said he hopes to have the 1956 figures within a week. They are being compiled by an expert hired by the Liquor Department.

The number of applications for new permits of all kinds, which totaled 4,136 in mid-June is dropping off each week, the liquor director said. In the last two weeks, he noted, the new applications came in at the rate of only 30 per week.

Cedar Heights Rd. Area Street Work Nears Completion

Street work in the Cedar Heights Rd. area is nearing completion according to Dewey Speakman, city service director.

Speakman said that the primer cost is now being placed on the streets, with the sealer coat expected to be put down next week. This will take care of an area where residents have often complained of poor streets.

For several years, home owners in the Cedar Heights Rd. vicinity have declared that the streets were unpaved and "full of ruts." During heavy rains, the area frequently becomes flooded, with water backing up into basements and back yards.

Autoist Liability Ruling Outlined

COLUMBUS (AP)—Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill has ruled that Ohio statute requires drivers or owners at fault in traffic accidents to post deposits sufficient to satisfy any judgments against them regardless of reimbursements other drivers or owners involved might get from their own collision insurance.

The opinion, interpreting a section of the state motor vehicle financial responsibility law, had been asked by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Relief Cases Up Due To Steel Strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — The nationwide steel strike has caused a sharp increase in the number of persons seeking relief here, Cuyahoga County authorities report.

County Welfare Director John Schaffer said approximately 55 steelworkers had applied for relief benefits this week, bringing to more than 100 cases being processed by this department. He said the cases are linked directly to the strike, which has idled approximately 22,000 employes of steel plants here.

Ohio Crude Oil Production Up

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Petroleum Institute reports daily average gross crude oil and lease condensate production increased 26,850 barrels in the week ended July 20.

Daily average crude oil and condensate productions, and changes from previous week were:

Ohio—southeast, 4,100 barrels; increase, 100 barrels.

21 Kids Ready To Testify For Cocker Spaniel

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Twenty-one children waited patiently through hours of judicial procedure yesterday for a chance to tell Police Judge Edward J. Burleson how they felt about Blackie, a 4-year-old cocker spaniel.

Blackie, the pet of the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan G. Kasper, is charged with biting a 3-year-old neighbor girl. If convicted the dog can be ordered either confined or destroyed.

The complaint against Blackie was brought by Mr. and Mrs. James C. Shuszer. They said their daughter Lynn received a bite on the lip which required four stitches to close. The Shuszers seek a court order to prevent the dog from biting anyone else.

When the Kaspers' attorney asked for witnesses, hands shot up all over the courtroom. Judge Burleson allowed six youngsters to testify. They ranged in age from 5 to 15.

Some appeared awed in the witnesses stand and cracked bubble gum nervously. They all agreed, however, they had played with Blackie before and after the incident and that the dog was "fun."

Judge Burleson took the case under advisement until next Wednesday.

Ashland, Wooster Get Heavy Rainfall

ASHLAND (AP) — Two and one-quarter inches of rain drenched Ashland in 90 minutes today.

The rain flooded many buildings, including the new City Hall.

Meanwhile, a cloudburst poured an estimated 4 inches of rain on Wooste.

Park picnic tables were washed into a creek and carried downstream. Small bridges were wrecked.

Almost every business establishment in downtown Wooster had flooded basements, with the waters reaching 3 feet deep.

Steel Accord Delayed For About 24 Hours

Negotiators Reported Stumped At Writing New Union Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Final agreement on a new contract ending the 26-day-old steel strike was put off at least 24 hours today.

Meetings scheduled to present a new contract to union chieftains for their approval were postponed until tomorrow.

Neither steel nor union spokesmen would go into details. It was understood that while general outlines of the new contract have been accepted, the negotiators are having trouble putting detailed provisions into contract language.

However, John A. Stephens of U. S. Steel, chief industry negotiator, and David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, have not denied the accuracy of widely circulated reports that a three-year no-strike contract was all but signed.

Arthur Goldberg, general counsel of the union, was smiling and apparently undiscouraged when he left the hotel conference room at 1 a. m. today, after eight hours of intermittent meetings.

* * *

HE SAID THE lengthy closed-door conferences were "normal operation procedure at this type of meeting," and admitted the negotiators had "been doing some drafting."

The negotiators were said to be struggling to put into contract language details of the agreement reportedly reached orally and generally two days ago.

Meanwhile, the presidents or top executives of the 12 major steel firms involved in the talks arrived in New York, apparently to be on hand for an official settlement announcement.

The reported agreement is said to contain a 50-cent hourly package increase spread over the three years. From 20 to 25 cents of this would be given in the first year.

Of this, 9 cents would be direct wages, 5 cents toward a 52-week layoff pay plan, and the balance for pensions, insurance, premium pay for Sunday and other benefits.

Prestrike pay in the industry averaged $2.46 an hour.

Some 650,000 steelworkers walked out July 1 when contract talks here broke down.

Another 103,000 persons, employed in allied industries, have been laid off.

Shortly after announcement of a settlement, most observers expect the Big Steel companies to boost prices. Some small steel mills already have hiked their prices in anticipation of a settlement with the USW.

Eventually, the observers say, these price increases will be passed on down the line so that the ordinary consumer finds himself footing the bill. Such a procedure has been virtually automatic in the past.

Lack Of Materials And Big Equipment Holding Up Repairs

Lack of materials and equipment is holding up repairs on several city streets, according to City Service Director Dewey Speakman.

One big project, the widening and improving of S. Pickaway St. is being delayed because the city has to wait on a contractor to move sufficient equipment there to get the job sarted, Speakman explained. He said the city does not own such machinery and therefore cannot proceed on its own.

"Some day," he said, "the city is just going to have to invest in some big equipment. We just can't keep going on this way."

Walnut Creek Pk. Undergoing Some Extensive Repairs

Walnut Creek Pk. is undergoing some extensive repairs, according to Pickaway County Engineer Henry McCrady.

He said that a layer of crushed rock has already been put down on the northbound lane to seal up some holes. Patching of holes in the road has continued for several months.

Next month, the county expects to pave approximately four miles of the road with asphalt, McCrady added.

Let's All Go Shopping!

By MRS. LEORA SAYRE
Home Economics Agent
Extension Service

July is the time to enjoy fresh small fruits. So let's all go shopping for cherries and berries.

This is the time when food-shoppers will find Ohio grown sweet and sour cherries, red and black raspberries, blueberries and currants at local counters and at roadside markets.

These fruits make wonderful pies, cobblers, muffins, and jams and jellies. They are excellent ingredients in salads, milk desserts, frozen desserts, or just as is—with some cream and sugar.

Shoppers should take advantage of the current somewhat lower prices and prepare for later wants, needs and interests by freezing or canning.

* * *

CHERRIES CAN freeze quite satisfactorily. The berries are especially good frozen. Use top quality, fresh fruit and remember—the quality of the final product can be no better than the food with which you start.

Berries to be cooked are best packed in dry sugar or unsweet dessert are best packed in syrup. If the stems are off, the resulting broken skins of fruits hasten deterioration.

One pound of fresh cherries will yield about 2 and ¾ cups of stemmed and pitted fruit. Two quarts of fresh cherries or berries usually will yield three pints of the frozen or canned product. When making jelly, plan on one quart of berries yielding one cup of juice.

Currants have a short life and should be used within a day or two. Handle these small fruits carefully. Store in containers so they may spread out. If they are piled too deeply, the weight of the fruit may damage that which is on the bottom.

The fruit, if it is firm ripe, should be kept in refrigerated storage, covered loosely with waxed paper. Moisture hastens molding and breakdown of fruit in storage.

Have you tried adding fresh cherries to cottage cheese, or currants to a gelatin salad?

ACCORDING TO Dr. Hazel K. Stiebeling, director of the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics Research, U. S. Department of Agriculture, "Nutritionally, the difference between good diets and usual diets lies chiefly in the larger quantities of protective foods." (By protective foods, she means fruits, vegetable, milk and its products and eggs.)

Currently, we have plenty of available nutrition protection in the fields, gardens and markets. Reports from cabbage producing areas indicate that good quality Ohio grown cabbage is available. Other economical aids to colorful nutrition are the small red and blue fruits, green onions and lettuce and red beets.

* * *

Extension Economists report that the spread between farm and retail prices of food has increased 83 percent since 1945 because of substantial increase in all costs of performing marketing services.

Food costs of the "market basket" for an urban family in the Spring of 1956 was at a monthly rate of $79 and required about 40.7 hours of a factory workers time. In 1952, it required 51.6 hours and in 1947-49 about 60 hours of the factory worker's itme.

Consumer spending, for food averaged $406 in 1955. This was only slightly higher than in 1954, and represented about 25 percent of disposable income. Present indications are that expenditure for food will continue at about the same level during 1956. Does this mean usual or good diets?

FROM THE FILE of Mrs. Winfred Bidwell, a local homemaker, comes a recommendation for a lime-cucumber salad as an aid in providing good diets. She says it is very refreshing on a hot day and even looks cool.

The recipe is: Dissolve one package lime-flavored gelatin in one cup of hot water, add ¼ cup vinegar, 1 teaspoon of salt and 1 teaspoon of graded onion. Chill until gelatin begins to thicken.

Stir in 1 cup of sour cream and 1 medium cucumber, coarsely grated. Pour into individual molds or a flat pyrex idsh. Chill until firm and serve on lettuce.

Leave the covers off your plastic containers when they are not in use. No odors developed this way!

40 Gas Stations Close In Protest

BEAVER DAM, Ky. (AP) — More than 40 local gas stations have closed to back demands for wholesale gasoline rates equal to those in adjoining Daviess County.

Spokesmen said Daviess County operators were given a 2.2 cents per gallon cut in wholesale prices recently while those in this county got only a 1.3 - cent reduction.

Local autoists can save two cents a gallon by buying their gasoline in Daviess County.

Widow Accepts Lump Sum Estate

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Constance Wilson has agreed in court here to take $1,263,700 from the estate of her husband, L. B. Wilson, instead of a life-long trust agreement.

Judge W. F. Blanton approved the settlement, which also gives Mrs. Wilson ownership of 300 shares of stock in Cincinnati Radio Station WCKY, but allows an employe group option to buy it from her.

Wilson, who also owned an interest in Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., died in Cincinnati after a heart attack in 1954. He left an estate valued at $4,226,732.

Mrs. Wilson last February asked the court to give her clear title to about one-third of the estate under a 1948 will.

The approximate cost of the Pentagon building in Washington was $64 million.

Virginia Coal Industry Sees High Prosperity

90 Pct. Of Export Total Goes Through Big Port Of Norfolk

By SAM DAWSON

RICHMOND (AP) — There's one fast growing Virginia industry that the steel strike is more likely to help than to hurt. That's the mining, transportation and exporting of coal.

Europe's waxing industrial activity and its waning coal output unite today to underwrite a market for the American product. Some of this coal is mined in southwest Virginia. And 90 per cent of all the coal going overseas passed through Virginia and out its port of Norfolk.

The Chesapeake & Ohio, Virginian and Norfolk & Western railroads are enlarging their terminal facilities there to expedite the shipping of coal through Hampton Roads.

The steel strike's impact, coalmen note, could be to make available for the export market more metallurgical coal — the kind sought by the European steel makers. And the railroads (with their domestic steel mill business lost for the time) may find more cars for the run across Virginia from the Appalachian coal fields.

But what a steel strike settlement might eventually do to the cost of coal and its transportation, coalmen don't like to guess.

Officials of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond see the export coal market as a steady one from now on, rather than the highly sporadic affair of years past. It started picking up in 1954, when Europe's industrial spurt ran into a storage of high grade European coal. In that year 15 million tons of American coal went overseas. Last year 34¾ million tons did. In the first six months of this year 22½ million tons have been shipped.

In Washington, F. F. Estes, executive secretary of the Coal Exporters Assn. of the United States, predicts that 1956 may see nearly 45 million tons exported to set a new record. That would contrast with 1950's less than 2½ million.

The boom seems to have firm foundations, in the opinion of a leading Richmond banker. He says England can't supply the European coal market adequately any longer and Germany is short of metallurigical coal. And any Communist move toward the Mid East oil fields would only increase the demand for American fuel.

Officers of the Federal Reserve Bank here, whose fifth district includes West Virginia and a few other coal mining centers, think the coal outlook, both domestic and foreign, will be bright — once the steel strike is over.

Westinghouse Sees Earnings Clipped

NEW YORK (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corp., back in production again after a five-month strike, earned $6,862,000 or 38 cents a share in the April-May-June quarter, the company reports.

This was 58.7 per cent below the $16,635,000 or 98 cents a share earned by Westinghouse in the like three months of 1955.

Backlogs, however, were 38 per cent higher than a year ago. Biggest gains were in orders for heavy industrial equipment.

Cleveland Mayor To Back DiSalle

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze is supporting Michael V. DiSalle, the Democratic nominee, in the campaign for governor and will serve on DiSalle's Mayor's Committee.

The mayor is a Democrat, but ran without organization support when he was elected in 1953 and repeated the victory in 1955.

DiSalle, former Toledo mayor, is opposed by Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill, Republican, in the governor's race.

Bond Issue Loses By Only 16 Votes

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Another 16 men or women were needed to plug up the floods in this Jefferson County village with a Dutch name.

A bond issue of $25,000 to control the flooding of Yellow Creek was defeated in a special election Tuesday. Sixty-five per cent of the votes were needed for approval and only 209 voted for and 135 against. Sixteen votes would have swung the approval.

Yellow Creek, floating down the middle of this village of 2,000, overflows its banks regularly and the Army Corps of Engineers figures damage at $10,000 a year.

STORAGE AND CARS

DESPITE THE huge increase in both commercial and farm storage for grain during the past five years, the grain belt may be up against the same old problem of finding room in the bins for the new crops.

Uncle Sam has a bin capacity of 984 million bushels. The commercial warehouses, under the stimulation of federal guarantee of occupancy and important tax concessions, have expanded by hundreds of millions of bushels. The producers have added nearly 300 million bushels of capacity to their farm bins since 1949.

But the federal glut is as formidable as ever. When new crops are harvested, the commercial warehouses are often so nearly filled that the harvests soon overflow them. The federal government does not always manage the situation so that its old supplies are moved out of the harvest area for the new grain. The railroads have their problems of shifting both old and new grain so there is room for all.

Though the rails have added 21,000 new freight cars to their fleets this year, compared with 9,600 last year, the old and new grain shipments are in tremendous volume. They are, of course, an important source of revenue for the railroads.

When order finally comes again, after disposal of a large part of the stored surpluses, there will probably be an over-capacity of grain storage. Whether there will be too many box cars as well doesn't necessarily follow. The rails haven't been accumulating rolling stock with the same enthusiasm the grain storage builders have shown.

NOT OUT OF WOODS

THAT PRODUCTION is the basis of prosperity has been known for centuries. Farms in the over-production, cut back phase are worrying others besides farmers.

Acreage has been reduced by many millions of units by farmer consent in approving the price support program.

One of the big worriers is the farm equipment industry. Its prosperity is derived from maximum farm operations. When farm operations slide, as they have the past two years, sales suffer.

Department of Agriculture experts figure that 50 million acres will be put into the soil bank in the next year or two. This will take total crop acreage back to the level of 1909 when the population of the U. S. was only 70 million.

Another worrisome thought is that the soil bank, after idling that much land for several years, will become effective and the over-production problem will return.

It is certain that the nation is not out of the woods on agriculture. Perhaps other and more drastic programs will be brought forward.

WHERE WERE THEY?

ILLINOIS investigators estimate more than $800,000 of fraudulent or forged state warrants were paid out from the office of Orville E. Hodge, state auditor, who has resigned under fire. Where were all the official checks against fraud which are supposed to be built into a state administration?

These things happen in business institutions as well as in government. It is always a mystery why no one on the scene ever becomes inquisitive and stops the crookedness before it has lasted many months and accumulated heavy losses.

Hodge was reputed to have abundant private means. Whether he was handing money not his own to his friends or was in fact insolvent, a lack of balance and moral fiber is evident in such conduct.

The point is that any government administration ought to be alert to the signs of crookedness which must be plain while such heavy and prolonged defalcations are under way.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

As the election approaches, the Republicans in New York State find themselves in a more desperate situation than most of them are willing to admit. They can lose that state with its 45 electoral votes because of an internecine fight over the candidacy for the United States Senate.

Thus far, the most successfully projected aspirant is Jacob Javits, the Attorney General, whom most Republicans do not want for many reasons, some of which no one wants to say out loud yet. On the other hand, there is a deal between Javits and Oswald Heck, a powerful member of the State Legislature who aspires to be the candidate for Governor.

Heck is hardly known in the New York City metropolitan area but is popular upstate; Javits has organized political power among the minority groups in New York City and has a following among the socialistic Liberal Party members but is disliked by up-state Republicans who wonder how he ever worked his way into the Republican Party. So Heck and Javits combined to boost each other—Javits for U. S. Senator in 1956; Heck for Governor in 1958.

The danger to the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket this year is that this plan is splitting the Republicans in this crucial state and that many will stay at home on Election Day rather than vote for Javits. If the Democratic candidate is Herbert Lehman, these Republicans will have no one to vote for. And this has nothing to do with anti-Semitism. It is just that most Republicans are conservatives and do not care to vote for Left Wingers.

So, they are pinning their hopes on the ability of the party management to convince Tom Dewey, the erstwhile candidate for the Presidency, to run for United States Senator. They hold that Dewey can win hands down. Thus far, Dewey has shown reluctance. He is said to be delighted with his private law practice and the comfort of earning some money after a long career in public life.

On the other hand, it is generally believed that John Foster Dulles is reaching a saturation point in the amount of intrigue he has to surmount in the State Department. With Harold Stassen, W. H. Jackson, C. D. Jackson (out of office), Dr. Milton Eisenhower, Paul Hoffman and now Sherman Adams, all putting their mixing spoons into the foreign affairs pot, with the Acheson left-overs sticking their legs out for Dulles and Herbert Hoover, Jr., to trip over, it is beginning to be a bit wearisome.

Therefore, if Dulles should resign after Election Day, if Eisenhower is re-elected, it is believed that the President would offer Dewey the Secretaryship of State.

Dewey would make a competent Secretary of State and would clean up the kitchen mess in which too many cooks have already spoiled too much. Harold Stassen is also said to aspire to this position or any other, but it is generally accepted that the President would prefer Dewey.

Therefore Thomas E. Dewey finds himself besieged by New York State Republicans to announce himself as an aspirant for the U. S. Senate candidacy; many national Republicans want him to hold himself in readiness to succeed Dulles; and his partners undoubtedly want him to stay with his present firm to which he has brought considerable business.

Challenge For Dr. Mays

A new novel by ELIZABETH SEIFERT.

© 1955, by Elizabeth Seifert. Reprinted by permission of the publisher, Dodd, Mead & Co., Inc. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

SYNOPSIS

A group of doctors in the Midwestern suburb of Burbank try to establish a free screening clinic despite lack of money and opposition from the County Hospital. Dr. John Blandin, a strong booster of the project, returns from a meeting and tells his wife, Helen, that enough money has been donated by the wealthy Mrs. Alice Milburn to set up the clinic. Mrs Milburn donates the money to spite the Women's Club because they voted against helping the project. Dr. Chad Mays, brilliant but eccentric young medical administrator, is hired to organize the clinic. Dr. Blandin and his associates feel that Mays will be more than a match for the opposition, led by influential Dr. Wilkins-Smith, head of the County Hospital.

CHAPTER 4

JOHN BLANDIN was as close to being a general practitioner as one is apt to find in the near-suburb of a large city today. So he was a busy doctor. At five that summer-rainy afternoon a half-dozen patients still sat in his waiting room when Helen hurried in to see John.

"I couldn't find him!" said Helen, softly but urgently. "Either he didn't come, or I missed him. You're sure he said Delmar?"

"Helen. You read the telegram. Chicago train at Delmar."

"He didn't come then. I couldn't have missed him. Only one man got off—he was fat, and elderly, and six women met him. Three of them called him 'Papa.' The photographers and reporters didn't think he was Dr. Mays, either."

She could see John's attention going back to his patients. "Something must have changed his plans. He'll get in touch with me," he said.

Helen had the car, and she decided to wait to take John home rather than come back for him. She snatched a magazine from the waiting room table and went out to the car parked in the lot behind the row of shops and office buildings. John would be more—well—expeditious if he knew she was waiting.

* * *

He was bare-headed, but otherwise the young man who accompanied John across the stretch of rain-dark gravel seemed well dressed. He wore a dark blue woolen suit, a striped tie, and carried two bags. He was a good six inches taller than John, and tilted his red-bronze head downward to talk to him as they approached.

Helen tossed the magazine into the back seat, opened the door and stepped out. The introductions were made—"Helen, my wife—Dr. Mays."

Helen, somewhat excitedly, explained that she had met his train—tried to—

"Yeah. I saw you. But doggone, you had reporters. So I rode on down to the main station."

Smiling a bit, John got under the wheel. "Could we invite the doctor for dinner, Helen?"

She got in beside him. "Of course. It's Monday night casserole, naturally, but—"

"I'm not a difficult feeder," said Dr. Mays, putting his bags into the back seat, joining his hosts in the front.

"I'll give a statement to the press later," he was telling John. "I like to pick my own time—also I'd like to know a little about what I'm supposed to talk about."

That seemed reasonable enough. When the newspapermen phoned, Helen said that Dr. Mays could be seen at their home later in the evening, and went back to her dinner preparations.

After dinner Dr. Mays glanced around their long and pleasantly worn living room. "That couch'll do me fine," he said absentmindedly.

Helen froze. She glanced at John, but he sat behind his pipe and offered no help.

"Oh," she said to Dr. Mays, "we don't have a guest room. And you know we have two children."

"I can sleep through thunder," said Dr. Mays, getting to his feet. "Now!" As if he had settled the whole thing, Helen thought darkly. "If you'll give me those directions, I'll go over to the clinic and look around. I'd like to go alone."

"How long will you be there?" asked Helen, her tone still prim with affront. "It will make a difference to the reporters who are trying to find you."

"What's all this about the newspapers?" Chad demanded.

"You're news, Doctor."

"What sort? Good? Or bad?" He spoke sardonically.

John flushed, and Chad nodded, as if satisfied to have accomplished something he wanted out of his way. He fished around in the side pocket of his coat, pulled out a glossy three-by-five picture, and handed it to Helen.

"This isn't you!" She shook the picture of the distinguished blonde gentleman at him.

"Of course not. Looks like he'd be a doctor, though. They'll be happy with it. They want a picture of the eminent Dr. Mays. Not one of me! Gad!"

He paced around the room, lifting his legs gracefully over the barriers of footstool and magazine rack.

"The point is," he said, turning to face his hosts, "I don't want the work I hope to do here identified with me. My name, perhaps. But I, in person, want to be completely free to operate—to circulate—to navigate."

Helen held up the picture so that John might see the neatly mustached gentleman it portrayed. "What," she asked their guest politely, "about a statement for the press? To go with this?"

"Oh," Chad said disinterestedly. Then he took out a handkerchief and wafted it toward the front door of the house. "If your reporters come . . ." he drawled. "Tell them, if they ask for my background—and they'll do that, too! Tell them I was born in India. Inja. Say it that way. They'll believe it. That my father was a geologist. An engineer."

John laughed, and Helen unwillingly joined him.

"You really mean that about anonymity, don't you?" John asked.

"There's no bigger help to a snooper," Chad Mays assured him, seriously.

He rattled along so rapidly that no word of protest could have been wedged in. "John, you're to give Helen here twenty-five a week out of my salary, give me fifty every Monday morning, and you keep the rest of it. I'll spend the fifty on Monday, and after that I'll try to mooch more. But don't let me have it."

John managed to keep his face and tone as calm as if this sort of arrangement was exactly what he could expect from any famous medical administrator. "What do I do with the rest of your money? Keep it on hand for bail?"

"Oh, no. Never bail me out. I like the pokey—get most of my reading done then. No, you send the rest of it, regularly, to the First National Bank of Little Rock, Arkansas. For deposit."

"In your name?"

"It's as good as any." He walked rapidly out of the house.

Some Serious Symptoms Can Show Up In Eyes

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

YOUR eyes are the gateway to your brain.

The human eye, you see, actually is a portion of the body's nervous system. Because of this, many serious conditions can be detected by a careful examination of the eyes.

For instance, various changes which might be occurring in your body such as development of high blood pressure, diabetes, atherosclerosis and various diseases of the blood might be diagnosed through ophthalmological examinations.

The ophthalmologist is the only one who can see living blood vessels in the back of your eyes and is able to diagnose any changes he might detect.

Even some strokes may be anticipated and avoided through such an examination. Transient blacking out of vision coupled with certain other neurologic troubles may be a warning of impending blood-clotting problems.

Recent experiments with certain drugs which slow blood-clotting appear to indicate that these strokes may be averted.

Ophthalmological examinations may also uncover tumors of the pituitary gland and even of the brain itself.

The first indication of a brain tumor sometimes is an alteration of the vision of one or both eyes.

By studying such alterations it is frequently possible to locate the trouble with great accuracy. And sometimes it is possible to predict the exact type of difficulty.

Prompt diagnosis, of course, is essential in all the cases I've mentioned if doctors are to be of much help. For this reason, you shouldn't pass off eye difficulties simply as "eyestrain" and let it go at that.

See An Expert

If your eyes give you any trouble at all—whether or not you wear glasses — see an ophthalmologist.

And if you're over 50, you should have an eye examination at least once every two years. If you have trouble with your vision, get a check-up more frequently.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

R. B.: I have excruciating headaches behind my left eye. What could be the cause of this?

Answer: There are numerous causes for this type of headache, such as nervousness, nervous disorder, a blood disorder, a tumor, migraine and other such diseases.

Gotham-A Small Town Now

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—In the good old summertime New York City becomes the biggest country town in America.

It is now not only a great place to visit, it's a swell place to live in.

For Gotham, unlike bears, which hibernate in winter, does its hibernating during the warm months.

Life slows to a dog trot and finally a lazy walk. All the two-and-three ulcer men, the nervous folk who live on pep pills, have fled to beach and mountain, leaving the city to those who love it for more reasons than the mere fact they make a living in it.

All the usual social bars are down. No velvet rope halts you in the night clubs. The headwaiter greets you as a human being instead of a sheep it is his distasteful duty to shear of its fleece.

The streets and subways are less crowded. You no longer have to write an indignant letter to the mayor in order to get a cab. Most of the Broadway theaters have seats for sale, and you don't have to go to your banker and float a loan to buy a ticket.

If you go through a revolving door, nobody gets in behind you and tries to come out ahead of you.

The stores are full of wonderful bargains. Luggage is 50 per cent off, sport shirts are marked down 25 per cent.

Everybody is relaxed and easy-going. The big town has time for all the little niceties that make living in a small town so pleasant.

You can get a haircut without standing in line. The cop on the beat gives you a nod or a cheery "Hello." Old ladies lean out of tenement windows, leaning on fat arms that look like white pillows, and talk comfortably.

Even in traffic jams the truck drivers cuss out the "civilian" drivers in a way that show they don't really have their heart in it.

The whip of tension that people usually live under here has been put upon the shelf.

Even the pickpockets take it easy here now. Most of the people with big wallets are out of town.

Now is the time for all good people to come to Manhattan if they want to see and enjoy it at its friendliest—in the good old summertime, when every night is like Saturday night back home.

Pin-Curling Hair Can Be Problem

How long does it take you to pin-curl your hair?

Some gals can do it in 15 minutes and look, no mirror. They sort of find the hair that needs rolling up and do it by the touch system. Others have to study every curl.

Whichever category you fall into, you will be delighted, so will your dentist, with the latest in bobby pins. They are made of plastic and there is absolutely no need to open them with your teeth, a habit that resulted in wearing unattractive grooves in front teeth. Think I was kidding about this? Ask that dentist.

Anyway the new pins really cut pin-curling time. They are designed with a short top, a longer bottom. The longer piece slips easily under the curl and, somehow, the top piece goes neatly over it without any prying open.

Oh, yes, there is one more advantage the pins have. They are pink and because of the color they do look prettier than just plain bobby pins. This is not to say they will make a girl a raring, tearing beauty when her hair is up. It is just to mention that they make the best of what is usually a bad situation.

At this point, the bobby pins are not sold separately. They come with a pin curl permanent that is new, too, because it has a lotion that is completely free of any unpleasant odor.

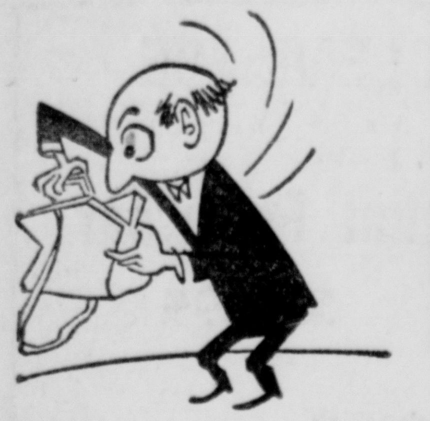
Once Upon A Time

There dwelt a husband who became weak and weary over the way his wife jam-packed even her biggest pocketbooks with a bewildering array of junk, all of which had to be plowed, furrowed and excavated every time the newsboy at the door needed a half-buck, or the guy paying garage rent needed a bill changed. (For lo, this was a sagey husband—in a way—who refused to take "petty cash" out of his own pocket, lest the idea become a costly habit.)



So, as time went by and the pocketbooks got bigger and the junk more bewildering, the husband did begin to talk to himself while clawing at the depths, until suddenly he got a humdinger idea. And quickly he purchased for a few pence one tiny flashlight, "for your convenience, my dear, to help you find what you want—when you want it."

Then he went off into a corner and snickered to himself, this sly devil, because he knew the little flashlight would be carried in the biggest pocketbook, and hence could be used to plow through the stuff and quickly locate the important dough.

Silly knave, and for shame!

Served him right when he discovered the flashlight itself was buried under everything else.

And that, when he finally found it, the battery was burned out long ago!

More than half the plane's left elevator control surface, part of the tail assembly, was knocked off or smashed.

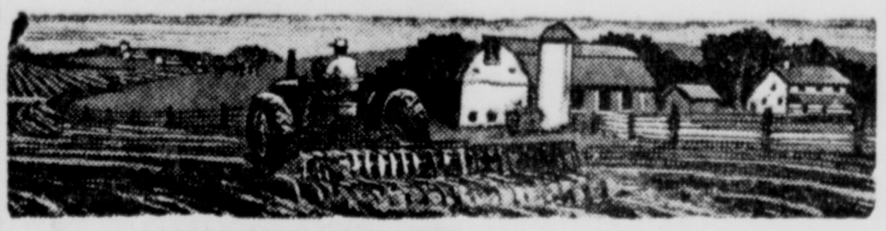
FARM NEWS and VIEWS



By R. S. SWENSON, County Agent

Fly Control:

There are two residual wall fly sprays which are very effective in dairy barns against DDT-resistant flies. They are Malathion and Diazinon.

Malathion should be mixed in the following manner: 1 gallon of 57 percent concentrate and 10 pounds of sugar in 50 gallons of water.

No sugar is needed in the Diazinon spray. Malathion will last 3 to 4 weeks and Diazinon 5 to 6 weeks if the material is properly applied. The spray should be applied to the walls and ceilings of dairy barns when cattle are out doors.

Malathion of Diazinon should never be sprayed on animals or used in the milk house. Manufacturers directions should be followed very carefully.

* * *

Parasite Control:

July or weaning time is the most effective time to drench lambs for stomach and tape worms with Phenothiazine-lead arsenate drench. The drench can be purchased ready mixed as a suspension.

As soon as the lambs are drenched they should be given clean pasture and should not be returned to the same pasture for about one month. Lambs usually become fairly heavily infested with worms before weaning time but may show no ill effects while they have plenty of milk and pasture.

On farms where worm infestation is a serious problem it may be necessary to drench lambs at monthly intervals.

Soil Bank:

According to Wallace Barr, Extension Economist, the soil bank payment rate for wheat in 1957 has been set at 60 percent of the price support level. If quotas are approved, the 1957 support price will be $2.00 per bushel nationally.

The national unit rate for wheat in the 1957 soil bank acreage reserve would be $1.20 per bushel. The rate for Pickaway County would be slightly higher than the national average.

However, if quotas are not approved price support on wheat would drop to 50 percent of parity. The wheat unit rate of the soil bank would also be 60 percent of the support price then in effect.

Field Days:

Pickaway County farmers may be interested in several field days scheduled during the next few days. The 29th Ohio Dairy Day will be held at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station on Friday, August 19, 1956.

Visitors will hear discussions on feeding of silage and hay, different kinds of silos, legume pastures, and may inspect the various exhibits and tests currently being conducted at the station. The Ohio Cattle Feeders Round-up is scheduled for the Madison County Fair Grounds at London on Saturday, July 28.

This annual Summer event of the Ohio Cattle Feeders is open to anyone in Ohio interested in beef cattle. The various activities of the Cattle Feeders, the National Beef Council, the Corn Belt Livestock Feeders, and the trends of beef cattle business will be discussed.

All Pickaway County beef cattle feeders and breeders are invited to attend.

Dewey is a peculiar personality in that while he makes few warm friends, he is admired for his ability as an administrator and his capacity to grasp the innards of a problem. He was an extraordinarily competent Governor of New York. Twice he tried for the Republican Presidential nomination—really three times, if all the facts are clear. He was beaten for election by his own obstinacy.

He, Sherman Adams and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., picked Eisenhower and boomed him so competently that Republican businessmen made pilgrimages to Paris where Eisenhower then was. They put Eisenhower over on the first ballot at the 1952 Republican Convention, although most of the professionals in the party favored Senator Robert A. Taft.

Taft followers have never forgiven Dewey for 1952. However, as a United States Senator, he will have opportunities to win them over for what political value they now have. As Secretary of State, he could only antagonize them. If the Republicans should succeed in organizing the Senate, Dewey's position would immediately become a significant one, for whereas he would be a junior in the Senate, he possesses marked seniority in his party.

Harriman Aide To Talk With Cleveland Boss

CLEVELAND (AP)—One of Gov. Averell Harriman's political backers has arranged another talk with Cleveland's Democratic mayor, Anthony J. Celebrezze.

Carmine G. De Sapio, the Tammany Hall leader who is helping the New York governor's presidential campaign, asked the mayor for a conference here next week, or in Chicago before the Democratic convention.

The mayor said "I told him I would be happy to sit down and talk with him."

The pair has had a number of conversations in New York, and once it was reported Celebrezze was seeking De Sapio's support for the favorite son candidacy of Ohio's governor, Frank J. Lausche. The mayor is on the Lausche slate of delegates.

De Sapio's request for a talk with the mayor came less than 24 hours after Harriman and Lausche had a dinner meeting in Columbus. After that private session, Lausche said no agreement dealing with presidency or the vice presidency had been made.

O'Neill's Next 'Picnic' Slated Tonight In Lima

NORWALK, Ohio (AP)—C. William O'Neill's next campaign picnic will be in Lima tonight. His seventh, at the Huron County fairgrounds Wednesday night, drew approximately 1,200 persons to the big tent.

Atty. Gen. O'Neill, who is the Republican candidate for governor, reveiwed his campaign platform and discussed such topics as highways, education, mental health and conservation.

He was introduced by Rep. A.D. Baumhart of the 13th Congressional District. Other candidates for state offices were presented briefly.

The picnic rally followed the same pattern established earlier in the campaign. A principal feature was a battery of photographers. They snapped hundreds of photographs showing O'Neill greeting visitors to the rally.

Sparrow Scores KO Of Big Trucker

CLEVELAND (AP) — A sparrow that flew into a truck cab on U.S. 21 between here and Akron has been credited with knocking out a 215-pound truck driver, stopping a 10-ton truck and obstructing traffic.

The driver, George Knapper, 61, of Broadview Heights, told officers he was delivering a load of caskets to Akron when the bird flew into his cab, hit him in the right eye "and knocked me out or at least almost unconscious" and then flew out.

Knapper said he remembered bringing the truck to a stop, but that traffic was blocked while he recovered. He was treated for a cut and bruise on the eye.

No Observances In Area Mark National Farm Safety Week

Women's Group Takes Survey On Accidents

Reflector Tape For Use On Machinery One Of Suggestions

National Farm Safety Week, now half gone, apparently has no special significance in Pickaway County. At least, no observances were planned.

Most people feel that this event only applies to the rural areas. Little if no attention is paid toward machinery which uses highways and even come into Circleville.

One method to cut down on accidents involving farm machinery is being adopted by Farm Bureau Women's groups throughout the state. They are distributing reflector tape for use on this machinery.

Although most of this equipment is used during the daylight hours, there are occasions when farm machinery travels at dusk and even night time. It is during these times that danger of accidents is at its greatest peak, according to traffic surveys.

* * *

THE WOMEN'S GROUPS conducted a door-to-door safety survey among the farm organization's membership. Here are some of the statistics they uncovered, which may come as a surprise to many farmers:

1. The average cost of each farm accident is $78 in injuries and $121 in property damage.
2. Each accident results in an average of 13.7 days in loss of work time. (This can be disastrous to a farmer during the planting or harvesting season.)
3. Men between 45 and 65 are the most likely to be involved in an accident.
4. The hours from noon to 6 p. m. are when the majority of farm accidents occur.

* * *

HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS head the list among Ohio farmers, followed by mishaps in the home and in the fields, according to the survey.

Mrs. Litta K. Roberson, director of women's activities for the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, said she believes the survey will result in many Ohio farm women "appointing themselves as unofficial safety director on their farms."

According to Mrs. Roberson, the purpose of the survey, which covered farm accidents reported in 1955, is to:

1. Make farm people more safety conscious;
2. Gain adequate statistics to know where to start in reducing accident hazards; and
3. Reduce insurance rates.

* * *

MRS. ROBERSON noted that women in many Ohio counties are already promoting safety projects. Not only are these women concentrating more on safety but they are also pointing out "danger spots" in roads to highway officials, she added.

"This is only the beginning," Mrs. Roberson declared.

State Fair Expands List Of Exhibits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bigger and better exhibits will be on display at this year's Ohio State Fair, says Fair Manager Sam C. Cashman.

Cashman, at a press luncheon Wednesday, said Aug. 1 is the deadline for entries by exhibitors in all classes. He expects entry lists to be bigger than they were last year in every department.

The 102nd Ohio State exposition opens Aug. 24 for eight days and Cashman said he hopes attendance will pass the 750,000 mark.

Premium awards for exhibits this year will total $278,169, or $26,005 more than in 1955, Cashman said.

More than 12,000 animals will be at the fair, which boasts of being the world's largest livestock exposition.

Highlights of Youth Day, scheduled for Aug. 24, will be dedication of the new Youth Center on the fairgrounds.

Grandstand attactions include five afternoons of harness racing, eight shows by native Ohioan Roy Rogers and stock car races.

One new attraction will be a farm animal babyland, featuring mothers and their young of domestic and farm animals.

The annual horse show is scheduled for six evenings and one afternoon at the Coliseum. Singer Pat Boone will fill engagements the other two nights.

The fair also will provide more than the usual number of commercial, agricultural, civic, state departmental and artistic exhibits, Cashman said.

Juvenile Delinquency Expert Comes To Defense Of Parent

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — An expert on juvenile delinquency today came to the defense of parents.

"The mothers and fathers are always getting the blame when their children get in trouble," said Sal Mineo. "I think that's wrong. Sure, some parents are responsible for delinquents because of neglect and poor upbringing.

"But more often it is the fault of the kids themselves. If a kid of 16 doesn't know the difference between what's right and what's wrong, there's something wrong with him."

Sal is 17 and an actor. How does he qualify as an expert on juvenile delinquency? Because he is the most notable portrayer of delinquents in films and TV.

He got his start in pictures playing Tony Curtis as a boy in "Six Bridges to Cross." That's the film in which Curtis pulled off a Brinks-like robbery. Sal got an Oscar nomination for his delinquent part in "Rebel Without a Cause" and is playing a troublemaker in the current "Crime in the Streets" and "Somebody Up There Likes Me."

He did still another in "Dino" on TV, and he'll repeat the role in the film version, his next assignment. Right now he's enjoying a respite from crime, playing a non - delinquent drummer in "Crazy Love." "But people will be expecting me to be taking injections in my arm," he laughed.

Aside for his portrayals of delinquents, Sal draws knowledge of the problem from his boyhood in New York City.

"I didn't grow up in an especially tough neighborhood," he said. "My mother and father did, and they were determined that their children would be brought up in a better place.

"But neighborhood doesn't mean everything. I remember seeing a young kid who lived near us. He was groggy from drinking too much. Two days later he was arrested for murder. Now he's serving out a life sentence.

"My point is that it's the kids themselves who are to blame most of the time. The parents have no way of knowing that their boys may be out with a bunch of tough guys getting into trouble.

"For instance, my mother wouldn't have known that I had gone out to a theater with 10 other guys and made a racket so that we were asked to leave. It was the kind of mischief that any kids might get into. But supposing it had been something worse. It would have been up to me to have the sense to stay out of it."

Most kids get in trouble in a bid of recognition, Sal observed.

"They want to distinguish themselves in some way," he said. "They think if they get in trouble it makes them bigshots.

"It's up to the city and state authorities to find other ways for them to get recognition.

Army Asks 3 More Ohio Training Units

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says it has recommended construction of three reserve training units, each to handle 400 men, in the Dayton, Ohio, area.

The Army request has been submitted to the Defense Department for further study before being included in a request to Congress for money to build the centers.

The Army wants one center built in 1958, another in 1959 and the third in 1960. A 300-man training center is being built in the Dayton area now for use by Army and Navy reserve units.

Design For Airpower

(Editor's Note: This column is furnished as a public service, by the Office of Information Services, Air Research and Development Command, U. S. Air Force.)

Shoveful of Airplane

A monstrous vehicle that makes toys has been developed for the Air Force to shovel crashed airplanes off runways in a hurry.

Called an "Aircraft Crash Pusher," the vehicle is designed to get crashed airplanes weighing as much as 400,000 pounds out of the way in less than 20 minutes. Formerly, it took from five to 15 hours to clear a wreck from a runway so that other aircraft could land and take off.

The pushers work in pairs, using scoops to shovel a wreck aside. This is done as carefully as time and conditions permit so as to keep additional damage to a minimum.

This airplane shovel on wheels—six of them, with a ten-foot diameter—weighs about as much as 45 modern automobiles. It costs over $150,000 and is one shovel your neighbor won't try to borrow from you.

Electronic Crystal Ball

Using a new electronic "brain," engineers will soon be able to "fly" a jet engine while it is still on the drawing board. This brain — a giant computing machine—could save up to two years in the costly development of engines for our latest airplanes.

Operating the computer, engineers become "arm chair test pilots" who, in a few hours, can put their blueprint engine through its paces and find out exactly how an actual model would perform under all operating conditions.

Developed for the Air Force by the General Electric Company, this electronic "jet expert" took six years to build and covers a floor area about that of three average-sized houses. To keep its 6,000 vacuum tubes and sensitive instruments at the desirable operating temperature, it needs as much air conditioning as 15 homes.

As engineers will start asking it questions about the performance of jet engines which have not even been built, the computer's answers will come quickly and accurately—but not easily. To think up its solutions it uses enough electric power to run from 30 to 50 electric kitchen ranges, with all burners and ovens going full blast.

Eyes Like a Cat

Cats reputedly can see in the dark. That's why "Cat Eye" is the popular name given to a new technique which is expected to enable airmen to do as well or even better.

Under development by ARDC's Wright Air Development Center in Ohio, "Cat Eye" is, in effect, a closed-circuit television system, consisting of a special TV camera and receiver. The camera is similar to the ones that televise boxing matches and live shows, except that it is expected to be a great deal smaller and thousands of times more sensitive.

The receiver is, essentially, the same as your television set but would also be much smaller and less elaborate. The receiver shows what is seen by the camera which is pointed toward the ground from an airplane.

No matter how pitchdark the night may seem, there is always a little light—not enough for the human eye to detect but enough for "Cat Eye's" supersensitive camera. The picture it sees below is electrically amplified millions of times and then reproduced clearly on the screen of the receiver in the cockpit.

When fully developed, "Cat Eye" will become an important aid to military aircraft night-prowling over blacked-out enemy country. Undoubtedly, there will be many other military and peaceful uses for it.

7 Boys Admit Trying To Derail Columbus Flyer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Seven youths, aged 7 to 12, whom police say admit trying to derail a passenger train in Columbus Tuesday night, have been remanded to the custody of their parents pending appearance in Juvenile Court.

Patrolman O. J. McDonald of the Juvenile Bureau said the youths admitted piling rocks, metal strips and a collapsible stretcher on the New York Central Railroad tracks just five minutes before the new experimental lightweight passenger train Xplorer was due through here on its regular Cincinnati to Cleveland run.

McDonald said a yard engine operating on the eastbound track forced the crack train to switch to the westbound track as it entered the rail yard, thus avoiding a possible derailment.

World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold E. Stassen has now put President Eisenhower on the spot by indirectly challenging him to say once for all whether he prefers Vice President Nixon to anyone else as his Republican running mate.

Eisenhower has never gone beyond saying he would be "delighted" to have Nixon on his ticket. His reluctance to express a preference has made it possible for Stassen to question Nixon's fitness and cause conflict in the party.

Republican hopes this year are entirely pinned on Eisenhower. Because that is so, there is no question he could name his No. 2 man anytime. If he had done so already — even if he had picked Nixon — Stassen almost certainly would not have attempted to interfere.

Stassen says he will drop his campaign — to have Nixon shoved aside in favor of Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts as the vice presidential candidate — if Eisenhower says he wants Nixon.

This is pretty much the same as laying down conditions to the President: unless Eisenhower speaks out more forcefully for Nixon than he has so far, Stassen will keep on shooting at Nixon and causing trouble in the party.

This creates an awkward situation for both Eisenhower and Stassen, who is the President's special assistant on disarmament.

It would seem the President now has been forced into one of four choices: speak out for Nixon; tell Stassen to pipe down; fire him if he doesn't; or say nothing while Stassen continues what is so far only his own one-man campaign.

The calendar of Eisenhower's comments at his news conferences this year — on the subject of Nixon and the vice presidency — shows how Stassen found room to do what he did:

Jan. 25. This was after Eisenhower's heart attack but before he said he'd run again. He was asked — if he did run — would he want Nixon with him. He avoided a direct answer. He said he had never talked with Nixon about it.

But he praised him highly: "There has never been a vice president so well versed in the activities of government." Nixon, he said, had his administration, respect and deep affection.

Feb. 8. Eisenhower was asked — if he didn't run again — would he want Chief Justice Earl Warren to seek the presidency. As he had about Nixon, Eisenhower said Warren had his admiration, respect and deep affection. But he added:

"I don't believe it really appropriate for me to go around asking someone to do such-and-such a thing because that implies, I suppose, that I think I can put him there."

Feb. 29. This was the day Eisenhower said he'd run again. He declined to say whether he wanted Nixon along. He said the vice president is always nominated after a party convention has chosen the head of the ticket. He said his choice of a running mate should be left until the convention.

March 7. He again declined to say whether he favored Nixon. But he said he had asked his vice president to chart his own course about wanting to run again.

In early March, New Hampshire Republicans showed an astonishing burst of confidence in Nixon by giving him 22,000 write-in votes in their presidential primary.

March 14. While Republicans still buzzed about this vote, Eisenhower said "I would be delighted to be on any political ticket" with Nixon. Then he said:

'Anyone who attempts to drive a wedge of any kind between Dick Nixon and me is — has just as much chance if he tried to drive it between my brother and me."

Eisenhower hasn't indicated yet whether he thinks Stassen was using a wedge. On April 26 Nixon said he wanted to run again. Eisenhower sent out word he was "delighted."

May 4. He said publicly he was "delighted" but said he didn't know what the nominating convention would do.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Leg of lamb and a mixed green salad, or fried chicken and salad, may be served in a good many homes this weekend.

At least that's the indication of things to come from the specials planned for the nation groceries. Lamb is down as much as 10 cents a pound in some areas, and frying chickens are from four to eight cheaper in many places.

Good weather in potato-growing areas seems to be the key to increased production that could increase the supply and drive prices down.

Sirloin steak and pork are from two to six cents higher in scattered areas, and eggs continue to show higher prices in many areas.

Other outstanding buys for the housewife at the vegetable counter will be beets, squash, cabbage and beans while carrots and peppers also are attractively priced.

Fall From Ladder Ignored By Painter

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Glen W. Dunning toppled eight feet from the roof of his house to the ground, but already had a ladder up and was ready to climb back to resume his house painting when police arrived.

They persuaded him to accompany them to a hospital, where he was found to have a broken back, body bruises and a concussion.

The hospital records also listed Dunning's age. He's 81.

Family Notes 4th Death In 3 Years

MARION, Ill. (AP)—The third and fourth deaths within three years struck the Pulley family of Marion Wednesday.

Three years ago the boys' father, Guy, was killed by an automobile while at work with the Illinois State Highway Department. Eighteen months ago another brother, Charles, was killed in an automobile accident.

The boys are survived by their mother and nine brothers and sisters.

(Veterans who have a question of interest to ex-servicemen should pass it along to Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer Jim Shea. His offices are in the basement of the courthouse at Circleville.)

* * *

Q—I am a World War II veteran. I have recently been discharged from a VA Tuberculosis Hospital. I am currently receiving 100 percent service connected disability compensation. My tuberculosis condition is arrested. What happens to my compensation now?

A—You will continue to receive your 100 percent rating for two years. Reductions will be made as time goes on. If your condition continues to be arrested, you will receive a statutory award of $67 per month. This award is not in addition to your compensation, but is paid to you after your rating has been reduced to zero. As long as your condition remains arrested, you will receive a minimum award of $67. If it ever becomes active again, your award will go back to 100 percent.

Q—I am in a jam. I am drawing service connected compensation. My trouble is financial. Can my creditors take my compensation?

A—All payments made to veterans by the VA are protected against seizure by the creditors of a veteran. Ohio courts have held that payments of benefits retain this protection so long as they are not mixed with other funds of the veteran, and so long as they are not used to purchase anything.

For example, if you were to use your compensation to buy an automobile, the automobile can be attached by your creditors. If you put your compensation in the bank with other funds, that bank account is subject to attachment. However, if you merely cash your check and put the money in your pocket, that is not attachable. If you maintain a bank account in which no funds are placed except your compensation, that bank account cannot be attached.

So long as the benefit money does not lose its identity as such, the money cannot be seized or attached under any legal process — other than that of the federal government for money which you may owe them.

Q—I am 65 years old today. When does my first VA pension check arrive?

A—Not so fast. The fact that you are 65 years of age, at the present time does not guarantee you a pension. You must be totally and permanently disabled and have an annual income of less than $1,400 if you are single, and $2,700 if you are married.

Now, if the new Veterans Security Bill passes, you may be eligible for a pension regardless of your disability, provided you are under the income limitation just mentioned.

Q—I am a veteran of World War I. I am receiving a 20 percent service-connected disability compensation. However, of late, my health has become so poor that I want to make application for total non-permanent, non-service connected pension. If I am granted this pension, will I continue to receive my service connected compensation?

A—The law prevents the acceptance of two benefits based on the same military service. Since your service-connected compensation pays you $33 a month, and the pension, provided it is alowed, will pay $66.15, you would naturally take the pension, which is the greater amount. You cannot draw both benefits.

However, by taking the pension, you do not lose rights that you are entitled to for the service connected disability, such as hospitalization and out-patient treatment.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Why is it that some people have so much difficulty trying to assert their right to proper treatment from others? I seem to try much too hard to put myself over. I extend myself, trying to prove my friendliness and my desire for the good will of others.

Meanwhile others seem to make a point of downgrading me, sensing intuitively that I am trying to forestall enmity and attacks. They invariably sense that I am helpless against aggression, and automatically exert pressure to crush me.

I realize that I am suffering from a badly abused ego that was systematically drained, in childhood, of the natural instincts of self-defense. But knowing the cause of my conditioning hasn't given me the stamina necessary to overcome it.

People who come from homes that gave them a healthy, firm resistance to opposition just naturally handle their problems without much difficulty. But when someone has been trained to back down from every threat and challenge, and to assume guilt at every accusation, and to feel absolutely worthless at the first sign of being "different" — how does that person begin all over, to develop real self-confidence?

L. D.

DEAR L. D.: Clear recognition of the background of the problem, and diligent efforts at emotional retraining, and anxious prayerfulness, aren't enough, taken together, to undo the damage of the destructive conditioning you've suffered—a fact that you've learned from experience.

Something more is needed, that you can't supply of yourself, that must be brought into play by an outside source — namely, spiritual therapy.

The rugged individualist American theory of "do it yourself" when your lot needs improving, just won't work, in the matter of ridding oneself of certain afflictions of soul. The gist of New Testament teaching has instructed us, for two thousand years, that prayer fellowship—i.e., another's "fervent effectual prayer" on our behalf: his "concern" for us, as the Quakers say—is necessary, to deliver us from "conditioned" (enthroned and established) evil.

The Gospels and the Acts abound in illustrative cases of the kind—as Our Lord "went about doing good," using compassionate prayer to bring help-seekers into line with spiritual health. And as His disciples went into action after Pentecost, spreading the good news of the Resurrection while also being very practical "physicians" in the field of men's tribulations—according to the Master's example.

The "uninvolved" man of faith, detached from the problem (which inheres in the victim's "psychology"), can pray without stress on his friend's behalf. And it's help such as this you should get, I'm convinced.

Medic Says Smog Health Menace

CLEVELAND (AP) Smog is described as a menace by Dr. C. M. Mayberry of East Liverpool.

He told the 41st annual convention of the Osteopathic College of Ophthomology and Otorhinolaryngolgy that smog interferes with the normal functions of the nose, throat and lungs, "even to the point of causing death."

Dr. Mayberry said smog acts as a mechanical irritant to the mucous membrane and as a poison to the lungs.

Wasp Sends Boy, 9, On Mystery Flight

TALLULAH, La. (AP)—Nine-year-old Danny Kirkpatrick disappeared from home after he was stung by a wasp.

Two hours later about 150 men, an airplane and two bloodhounds combed the surrounding countryside.

Three hours later, searchers found Danny in bed at the home of schoolmates, unharmed, unconcerned and unexplaining.

Four hours later he was in his own bed after a good parental hug, a good lecture and a good supper.

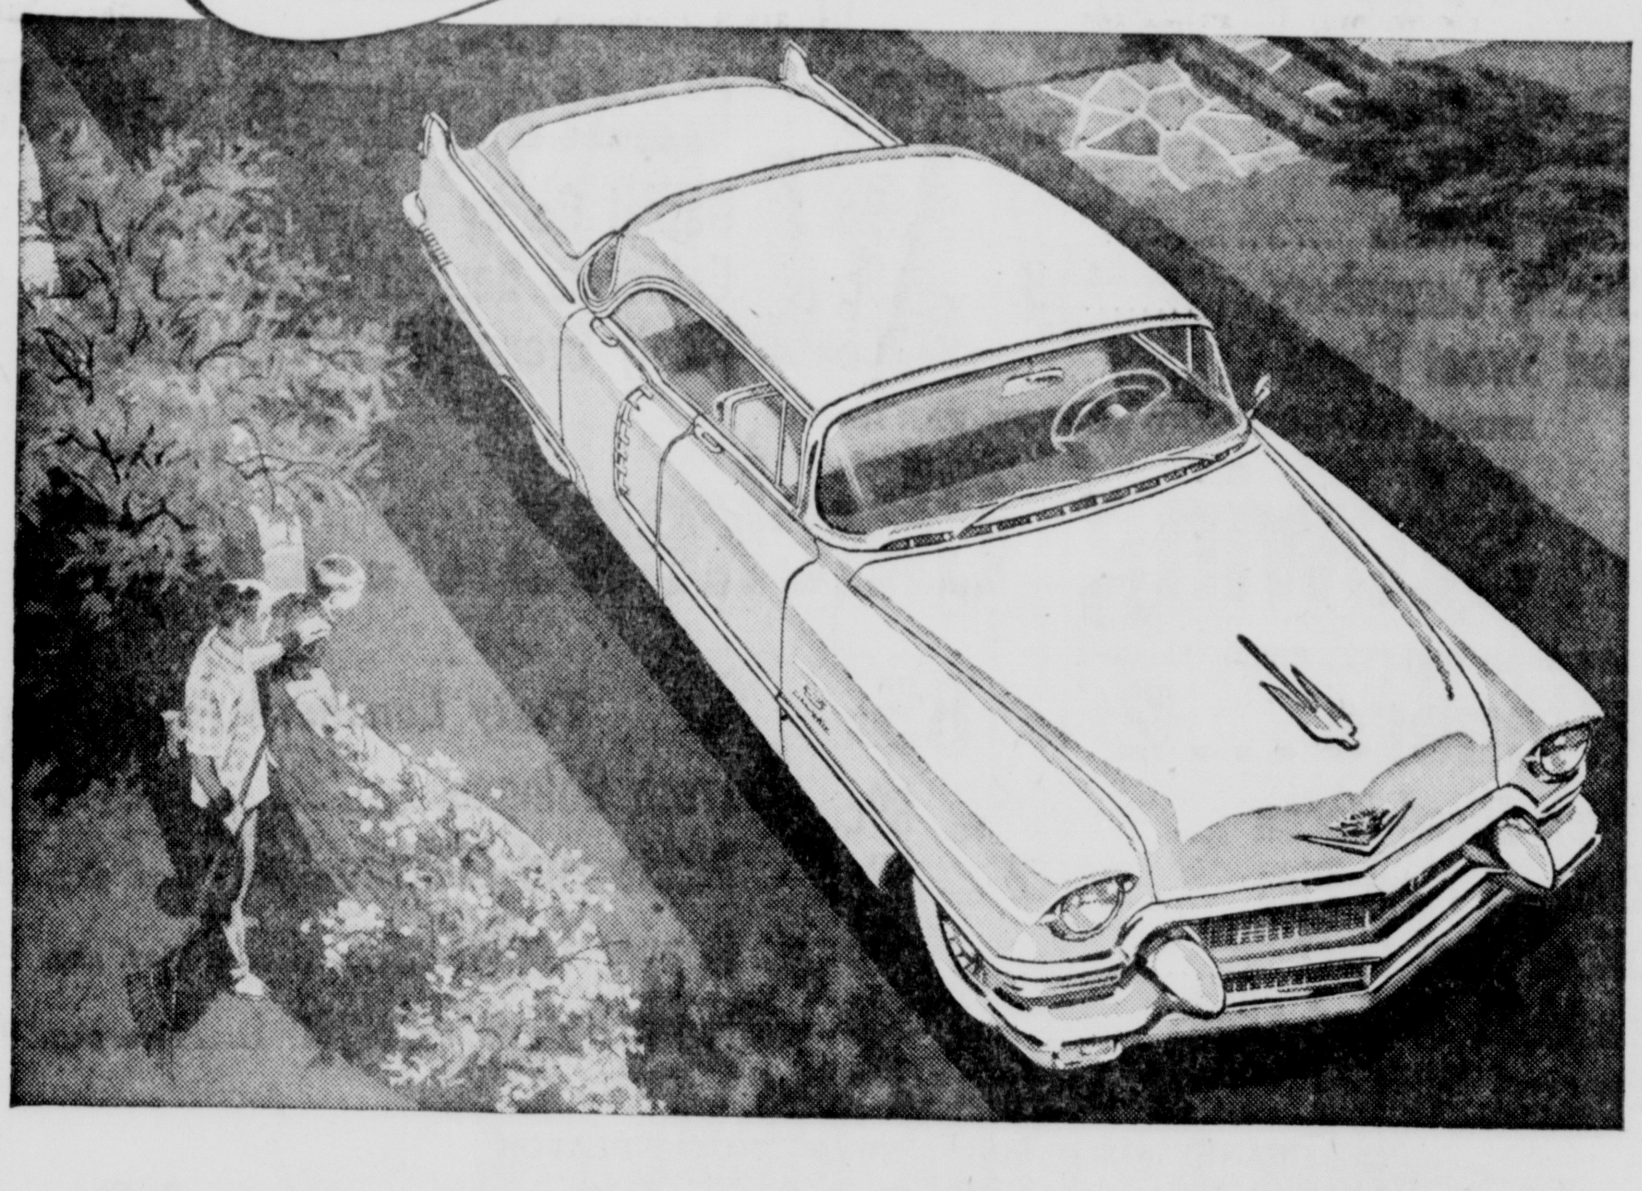
Cadillac



No Reason to Wait Any Longer!

There's not much question about what this man and his young son have on their minds.

They're thinking about Cadillac—and about how wonderful it would be to have one in their own driveway!

And because dreams of a Cadillac are hard to put aside, we suspect that it won't be too long now before we'll have an opportunity to give them the facts about Cadillac ownership.

And when that time arrives, they'll find that we have some wonderful news for them about how practical Cadillac ownership has recently become.

We will explain that it is now possible to become the happy owner of a 1956 Cadillac for little more than the cost of far lesser cars.

We will also tell them how economical a Cadillac is to operate — and how extraordinarily free it is from the ordinary requirements of service.

And we will show them how, at resale time, Cadillac returns a greater share of its owner's original investment than any other motor car.

But the best news will be yet to come. For then we will talk about the generous allowance we can give them on their present car—and how short the waiting period is on the Cadillac of their choice.

They will find, we feel certain, that they have lost their last logical reason for waiting any longer to enjoy a new Cadillac.

Incidentally, have you considered how wonderful a Cadillac would look in your driveway? If you have, then we sincerely urge you to come in soon and get the facts.

We'll be waiting for you with the car and the keys—and a story too wonderful to resist!

Redlegs Seen As Starting To Fold In Stretch

Milwaukee, Brooklyn Put On Heat; Ohioans 'Look Like Fall Guys'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The heat's on in the long-simmering National League pennant race and the Cincinnati Redlegs look like the fall guys who get burned.

Talk around the league pegged the second-place Redlegs as a club living high on a day-to-day business, with home run power shielding a pitching staff on borrowed time. Now Cincinnati is starting to crack just when the Milwaukee Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers are playing pennant ball.

The third-place Dodgers finally got to Brooks Lawrence, who was 3-0 against them, for a 2-1 decision Wednesday night. Duke Snider's 24th home run in the ninth broke up a duel between Lawrence, now 14-2, and Don Newcombe, 14-5.

The defeat sent Cincinnati skidding 4½ games behind the first-place Braves, who fattened up on the last-place New York Giants 7-4. Ex-Giant Bobby Thomson brought then from behind with a grand-slam home run.

Brooklyn and Milwaukee have four-game winning streaks while the Redlegs have lost five of nine in a week and are only 1½ games ahead of the Dodgers.

In the other NL games, Roberto Clemente gave Pittsburgh a storybook finish with a grand-slam, inside-the-park home run that beat the Chicago Cubs 9-8 in the ninth inning. And the St. Louis Cardinals pushed across two in the 10th to beat Philadelphia 8-7.

In the American, southpaw Whitey Ford and the New York Yankees put an end to Chicago's nonsense with a 10-1 breeze over the White Sox. Second-place Cleveland remained 8½ games behind the Yankees, walloping Washington 11-3. Detroit tied Baltimore for fifth place, beating the Orioles 6-2. And Kansas City scored eight runs in the seventh to whack fourth-place Boston 9-6.

All the runs came on homers in the Dodgers' victory at Jersey City, with Snider tying Redleg Ted Kluszewski for the NL lead. It was only the fourth Dodger hit and the first off Lawrence after Car Furillo tied it at 1-all with his 12th homer in the fourth inning. Rookie Frank Robinson smacked his 22nd in the third inning.

Lawrence now has lost two of his last three decisions while Newk has won five straight. Newcombe gave the Redlegs five hits, walked but one and struck out nine—retiring 13 in a row over one span.

Bob Buhl wasn't at his best, but his 11-hitter was good enough to beat the Giants. Ed Mathews homered and added three singles for Milwaukee. Al Worthington lost his 12th.

Logart Collects Unanimous Decision

CHICAGO (AP) — Isaac Logart still was in the running to bring another world welterweight boxing championship to Cuba today after cutting up a game and rugged Jed Black to win a unanimous 10-round decision here last night.

The classy fighter from Camaguay, former stablemate of Kid Gavilan, another Cuban who held the weltwerweight championship, took command fairly early in a hard fought scrap to win his 10th victory in a row. The Cuban was a 4 to 1 favorite.

Black, just three months out of the Army, fought hard and was still in there swinging in the 10th.

Archie Moore and Willie Pep are the only active fighters who have fought more than 200 bouts.

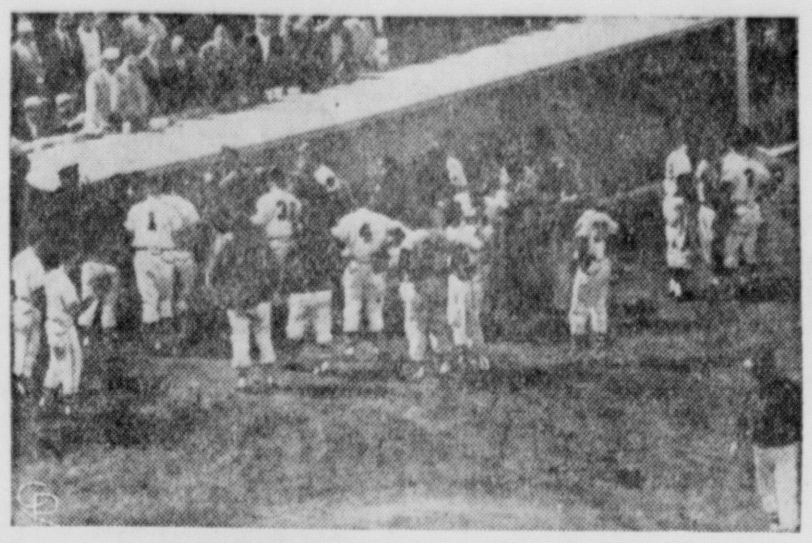
Adcock rubs arm as he starts for first.



Milwaukee players mass around Giant dugout.

MILWAUKEE'S County stadium becomes scene of the year's biggest baseball rhubarb after Reuben Gomez, New York Giants' pitcher, twice hit the Braves' Joe Adcock with the ball. Things started when Gomez hit Adcock on the left wrist with a pitched ball in the second inning. As Adcock walked to first he and Gomez shouted at each other. When Joe ran to the mound Gomez threw the ball, hitting Adcock again, then fled for safety into the Giants' dugout around which Milwaukee players quickly massed. Police restored peace. (International Soundphotos)

Herb Score Looks Good As Batsman, Too

CLEVELAND (AP)—Herb Score, the Cleveland Indians strikeout artist, has been showing another talent lately—hitting.

Since June 28, he's got two doubles and three singles in 18 trips to the plate for a .278 average. Before that he had only four singles in 29 trips.

He bounced one over the center field fence for a ground rule double in yesterday's 11-3 rout of the Washington Nationals. He also pitched a five hitter and struck out 10 to make his league-leading strikeout total 140.

It was Herb's second complete game in his last nine starts. His last previous nine-inning stint was June 29, when he beat Chicago. Before that you have to go back to June 2.

Part of June he was laid up with a digestive ailment which forced him to go on a diet.

Yesterday Score had a shutout until the eighth inning, when Roy Sievers homered with two aboard.

The Indians didn't get a hit off Camilo Pascual, also a strikeout specialist, until the fifth inning, when Bob Avila hit a three-run homer. Jim Hegan homered with one on in the sixth.

The Tribe scored six more in the seventh on three hits, three walks and two Washington errors.

The Indians extended their winning streak to five games and now stand 11-5 over the Nats.

Lions Sew Up Second Round With 8-5 Win

The Lions Kid baseball team won the second round of Babe Ruth League play by gaining an 8 to 5 victory over GE in a thriller played Wednesday night at Ted Lewis Park.

The winners' record stands at four victories and no losses in second round play.

Fireballer Joe Adkins, hurling for the Lions crew, gave up four hits and registered five strikeouts. GE pitcher, Phifer, made the battle a real pitchers duel by allowing the winners only four hits.

The GE lads, playing good ball in the early innings, held a 5 to 4 lead in the top of the sixth frame. But the winners came back in their half of the stanza and scored four big runs to ice the game.

HERE IS the line score:

GE	301	010	0 —	5	4	2
Lions	021	014	x —	8	4	4

Phifer; Caudill
Adkins; Sark.

The Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers have played 74 football games with the Bears winning 43, losing 25 and tieing 6.

The original 1876 baseball was the same size as the major league ball used today, with a circumference of 9 to 9¼ inches.

Moore Seeking Patterson Bout

TORONTO (AP)—Archie Moore is ready to "defend" his private version of the world heavyweight title against Floyd Patterson in New York Sept. 18 "if the price is right" after stopping James J. Parker in nine rounds.

The ancient ring Gypsy from San Diego, Calif., chopped up Parker with the greatest of ease last night. Referee Billy Burke called a technical knockout in 2:02 of the ninth. The outclassed lanky Toronto heavyweight dripped blood from cuts around the left eye and was absorbing punishment when the end came.

Dayton Hurler Chalks No-Hitter

BOWLING GREEN (AP)—Dayton National Cash Register's Walter Jacobs gave up one walk and struck out 16 men last night as he pitched a seven-inning, no hit 10-0 victory over Howard's Service of Napoleon.

In other International Soft Ball League tournament matches: Idle Hour of Napoleon defeated Mesa Local 71 of Napoleon 7-4, and Howard's Service edged the Toledo Playboys 7-6.

Dave Smalley of Albuquerque, N. M., is the first Navy player to win the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League batting title. He hit .419 for the Middies.

Ohio Weekend Fishing To Be Poor To Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fishing conditions ranging from poor to fair in Ohio this weekend we forecast today by the state division of wildlife.

The sectional outlook:

Northwest — Practically all streams roily to muddy and above normal level. Stream fishing is fair to poor with catfish and carp being taken. Best prospects are in the lakes, most of which are clear and at nomal levels. Lake St. Marys has been reporting fair catches of crappies and catfish. Oxbow Lake in Defiance County should be good for the next few days. Fair catches of largemouth bass and bluegills are being taken.

East Central and Southeast—The outlook for stream fishing is poor with most streams high and muddy. A few catfish and carp being taken from the Muskingum River. Lake fishing should continue fair to good with largemouth bass, bluegills, crappies, catfish and carp being reported from Burr Oak, Atwood, Leesville, Tappan and Forked Run.

Central and Southern — Lakes are reporting fair to good catches of largemouth bass, bluegills, catfish and carp. Best lake fishing expected at Delaware Reservoir, Buckeye Lake, Griggs Reservoir and Knox Lake. Stream fishing poor.

Southwest—Stream fishing poor. Some catfish and carp being taken in the streams of Miami, Shelby, Clinton and Brown counties. Trout fishing reported good in the Mad River in Champaign County. Best fishing expected in Grant, Kiser, Hosterman, Stonelick, Cowan and Echo lakes. Fair to good stringers of bluegills, largemouth bass, crappies and catfish are reported from these lakes.

Patty Berg Eyes Home State Meet

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — A tight-lipped Patty Berg, 38, still a relentless competitor in her third decade of championship golf, set out today to "win one for the home folks" in the start of the Women's National Open.

For Patty, it was an incentive that wasn't there for her long time colleagues like Betty Jameson and Louise Suggs. More through pride than sentiment, Patty wants to win a big one before a home state crowd.

It was here at the beautiful but severe Northland Country Club course that Minneapolis-born Patty won her first state title 21 years ago, the Minnesota Amateur.

Steamin' Demon Double Winner At Fayette Fair

Steamin' Demon, George Van Camp's trotter - turned - pacer, romped home to win both heats of the Three-Year Old Pace event at the Fayette County Fair Wednesday.

Eddie Boyer drove the colt to winning times of 2:05.3 and 2:04, pretty fast at any track. With this being the last week for racing at Hilliards, it is not known whether Boyer will pilot Steamin' Demon again at the Washington C. H. oval or at Hilliards.

Van Camp drove another of his entries himself. He gained second place in both heats of the Two-Year Old Trot with Jody Hanover.

Another local driver also finished in the money. Porter Martin drove his own Air Pilot to a second in the first heat and third in the second heat of the 18 Pace.

* * *

TODAY'S ENTRIES at Washington C. H. list a number of local drivers. These include the following:

Two-Year Old Pace OCRA—Virginia's Dream, with Jimmy Mace; Terminal, with Martin; Cindymite, with Forest Short; and Gold Mine, with Boyer.

Three-Year Old Trot — Circus Rose, with Merle Thornton.

30 Pace Overnight — Adio Hill, with Boyer; Scottish Light, with Mace.

Bucs Forgive Clemente For Scoring Run

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Roberto Clemente, the Pittsburgh Pirate's fleet-footed Puerto Rican, deliberately ignored his manager's sign to stop at third last night. He roared in to score in a cloud of dust after hitting a ninth-inning blow with the bases loaded.

The run beat the Chicago Cubs 9-8.

Manager Bobby Bragan not only forgave the 21-year-old Roberto but made it plain there will be no fine.

"Phew," said Bobby. 'Here, Clemente ties up the game for sure and I throw up the stop sign. After all, we have some long ball hitters coming up, no one out and getting Bobby home with the winning runs looks easy. I hold up both hands and say 'Stop' but not Roberto.

"Roberto, he just keeps going and, of course, he scored and we won. But it was a close play. Wow!"

Roberto promptly admitted after the game that he had deliberately missed Bragan's stop signal, declaring:

"I say to Bobby—'Geet out of my way, and I score.' Just like that! I theenk we have nothing to loose as we got the score tied without my run and if I score, the game she is over and we don't have to play no more tonight."

Grandma Doing Bang-Up Job As 'Newspaperman' In Town

By HAROLD HARRISON

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—It usually is a bit difficult to convince most veteran newspapermen that a woman ever can be a "good newspaperman."

But it would be better if the diehards stay away from this quiet little college town.

Mrs. Avis Cullen, an attractive, graying grandmother, can produce facts and figures that will disturb their beliefs. In fact, it can be downright shattering to your views if you think the only place for a woman on a newspaper is as the society editor—or maybe as a stenographer in the business office.

As publisher and generalissimo of the Oxford Press, a sprightly weekly paper, Mrs. Cullen has seen her paper win more than two score awards and citations since 1951. They have come for general excellence, makeup, features, typography, sports and news coverage, editorials and community service.

There are a lot of others, too. The sparkling-eyed Mrs. Cullen is quick, however, to spread the credit.

Her editor, Bob White, a young fellow with a lot of pep, recently won a first in a National Editorial Assn. editorial contest. Mrs. Cullen is quick to give him and Mrs. Jo Brickels credit for the paper's success.

And then there is a fellow known as Bill Cullen who gets a lot of her praise. He is her husband and operates a wholesale photo finishing shop in Cincinnati. Originally, he was supposed to have had a hand in running the paper, but she got along so well he just continued with his own business. Now he's just an "advisor" but Mrs. Cullen says she often calls on him for advice.

It was about 20 years ago that Mr. and Mrs. Cullen decided they wanted to buy a small newspaper somewhere in southwestern Ohio. She had done advertising work in Chattanooga, Tenn., St. Louis and on the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, and he was the Cincinnati representative of a magazine publishing company.

They tried a paper in another town but it didn't suit them. Then they found the Oxford Press which, at that time, was a "give away" paper.

They bought it and started a regular weekly.

The paper now has more than 2,500 circulation and has 12 to 24 pages weekly. It covers the entire area. Now, Mrs. Cullen also publishes a paper on the Indiana side of College Corner which straddles the Indiana-Ohio Line. Her plant prints the papers for Western College for Women and Miami University here. An offset plant recently was opened in Hamilton.

Mrs. Cullen says she and her husband started their business in the belief his experience in circulation and hers in advertising would give them a background. But Cullen quickly dropped out and that Mr. Cullen acquired the editorial background is shown by the awards her paper has won.

Seated in the office of the trim plant of the Oxford Press, Mrs. Cullen said:

"The publisher of a small town newspaper has to be a versatile person, a reporter, a salesman, a collector and a hard worker. Each ad and each item is read by at least one person with a magnifying glass.

"The publisher should be a leader in the community, working for the promotion of things that are good for the town.

"We are proud of the fact that we have enjoyed a larger volume of business each year and never have missed an issue regardless of fire or war."

"While a business must make a reasonable profit if it is to continue to prosper," she said, "chief satisfaction is in being of service to the community, in doing a job well whether it be printing 500 business cards or promoting a 500-acre lake in Hueston Woods State Park.

"And speaking of accuracy, we've been known to make three phone calls to find out how to spell a name."

The question of community service is dear to Mrs. Cullen. Last year the Oxford Press won the Ohio Newspaper Assn. award for that for the third consecutive time and decided to bow out of the competition.

"When several people get together to discuss something," Mrs. Cullen said, "they often surprise themselves at how many new and wonderful ideas are developed. That is the secret of our success in community service. We ask for help from everyone we can think of and usually get splendid response."

But Mrs. Cullen actually is just like all women. When asked for a picture, her reply was:

"Oh, I never take a good picture."

But she does.

Jet Trainer Falls On Pennsy Building

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP)—A stricken Air Force jet training plane dropped out of the twilight last night, crashed into a building housing a grocery and apartments, and burst into flames, leveling the structure.

The two crewmen bailed out of the plane shortly before it crashed. They suffered only minor bruises as they landed in a field.

Only Mrs. Sylvester Bockum was in the building when the plane hit. She ran screaming to safety and was hospitalized for shock.

Lee Cook To Resign Post As 2nd Ward Councilman

Purina Official Promoted To Richmond Plant

Vacancy On Council To Come In August; Decision Important

Lee Cook, who was appointed to the post last year to fill a vacancy, disclosed today he will soon give up his job as councilman for Circleville's second ward.

Cook, who is now assistant credit manager at the local plant of the Ralston Purina Company, is being promoted to credit manager of a new plant the firm is building in Richmond, Va. Cook said the next meeting of council will probably be the last he will attend here.

He received notice of the new assignment about one week ago and since that time has been making the necessary arrangements to leave here. Cook, married and the father of twin daughters, lives at 379 E. Franklin St.

Cook said news of his promotion was somewhat unexpected, but he added he was looking forward with enthusiasm to his new duties in Richmond.

* * *

HE WAS appointed to council last year to fill a vacancy caused when Ray Cook moved from Circleville to Byesville, O. Since taking over the councilmanic post, Lee Cook has been a quiet but important figure in study and action on several top pieces of legislation.

He was a vigorous supporter of the defeated move to rezone residential acres north of Hargus Creek to clear the way for a shopping center.

Naming of Cook's successor by council will be an especially important move because of the top-ranking projects already before the lawmakers and still others in the preparation stage. Cook himself said he has not had an opportunity as yet to recommend someone to take over his job.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook traveled to Richmond last weekend to view the new plant being constructed there for the big grain concern.

Cook is to report for his Richmond duties on August 27 when the still incompleted Ralston-Purina unit will be operating as a warehouse. Completion of the new plant is scheduled for next December, Cook said.

* * *

MEANWHILE, he will be in charge of the warehouse operations.

Though pleased with his promotion and the opportunities it will afford, Cook said he will leave city council with reluctance.

"I was just beginning to get my feet on the ground in council," he explained. "I was just beginning to find out what it was all about."

U. S. Winding Up Marine's Trial

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP)—The government expects to complete its case today against Marine Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon for the death march of Recruit Platoon 71.

McKeon is the 31-year-old Worcester, Mass., drill instructor who led that platoon in the tide-swept waters of Ribbon Creek marsh here last April 8. Six of the recruits drowned.

Yesterday the seven-member court-martial panel heard that McKeon had been drinking before he led his "boots" into the marsh.

McKeon, eyes closed and body rigid, heard the statement he made after the march read into the record.

In the statement, dated April 9, McKeon recounted his disciplinary difficulties with Platoon 71. Then, he wrote:

"About 1300 (1 p. m.) I got the idea to take them out into the swamps that night, thinking I could teach them some discipline.

* * *

"ALL DURING the afternoon I had some drinks from a bottle, I think three or four drinks.

"Three fourths of the platoon were squared away but the rest were full balls."

The drill instructor told of marching the platoon in column of twos into Ribbon Creek.

Previously, the prosecution had raised the possibility that McKeon may have been drunk when he entered the creek.

This suggestion brought defense attorney Emile Zola Berman of New York City to his feet in roaring protest.

Maj. Charles B. Sevier, prosecutor, gained permission to enter the results of a midnight test for intoxication into evidence.

Navy Capt. Irving N. Klein, the court's law officer, ruled it was not admitted as evidence of intoxication, but only as evidence that McKeon had been drinking.

The record of the test on McKeon was brought into court by Navy Hospitalman 1c Billy G. Redmond of Nashville, Tenn.

Under direct examination, Redmond said the alcoholic content of McKeon's blood was .015 per cent. The test was taken at midnight. Platoon 71 entered the march about 8 p. m.

Sevier sought at one point to obtain an evaluation of the .015 reading, but the defense objection was sustained by Klein.

Postal Truck Deals Rapped By Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee today accused the Postoffice Department of illegal procedures in buying trucks from Twin Coach Co., Kent, Ohio.

The government operations subcommittee found evidence of "a certain affinity" by the department for Twin Coach products, although it also reported no sign of "culpable conduct" by any specific person.

At issue were three contracts with Twin Coach in 1954 for 250 light, sit-stand trucks for postal use. The contracts totaled $717,500.

The subcommittee said that originally two lower bids than Twin Coach's were submitted for the 250 vehicles, but the lower bidders took certain "exceptions" to the Postoffice bid specifications.

The Postoffice subsequently decided to negotiate a contract with Twin Coach instead on the grounds the purchase was for "experimental purposes," the subcommittee said. It added:

"The weight of the evidence points to the fact that the designation of the vehicles as 'experimental' was a thinly disguised attempt to avoid a competitive procurement."

The department had said it made the move to avoid litigation over the contracts.

Plastic Eyes Don't Match, But Boy Happy

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Mike Sibole's two artificial eyes don't quite match but it doesn't worry the happy 4-year-old.

He's glad to get the bandage off.

"Do I look pretty again?" he asked his father after an artificial left eye was fitted yesterday.

The Rev. James Sibole assured his son he did and the boy went home happy to play on the swing set in his back yard.

It was only a week after an operation removed Mike's cancerous eye. But the bandage bothered him when a heat rash broke out under it and he asked for his new eye.

The surgeon who removed Mike's right eye two years ago and the left one last week approved the boy's request. He had expected it would be several weeks before an artificial eye would be fitted over the plastic sphere inserted at the time of the operation.

An optical firm representative from New York also was caught by surprise and didn't have an eye that quite matched Mike's right one. A better matching job will come later.

Mike is getting around the house well, his father reported, and is looking forward to going to Miami next month where he will attend a preschool class for blind children.

'Blackout' Blamed For Auto Tragedy

TROY (AP) — A Troy woman "blacked out" yesterday as she drove on a residential street. Her car killed one little girl and seriously injured another.

The car of Mrs. Evelyn Wright, 28, climbed a curb and rolled into the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smitley. Their 5-year-old daughter, Kathleen, was killed. A neighbor playmate, Beverly Slack, 9, suffered skull and pelvis fractures. Her condition is fair.

Police still were investigating the tragedy. Mrs. Wright told them she has been suffering severe headaches recently.

Star Gets Divorce While Lying Abed

ENCINO, Calif. (AP) — Actress Marie McDonald won a divorce from her wealthy shoe manufacturer husband while lying in bed in her air-conditioned boudoir.

The 32-year-old actress, who is expecting a baby in September and has been ordered to stay in bed until the event, donned a coral chiffon nightgown and bed jacket for the special court session in her home yesterday.

She broke into tears twice while recounting some of the details of her stormy marriage to Harry Karl, 48, whom she accused of cruelty.

Melon Price Drops; Fruit Given Away

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A farmer who wouldn't sell a truckload of cantaloupes at the market price of 25 cents a bushel gave them away.

Norman R. Satterfield left the Birmingham Farmers Market when the price of cantaloupes dropped from 50 cents to 25 cents a bushel. He parked his truck downtown and passed out the cantaloupes to passersby.

"I believe in selling things, but selling them for two-bits a bushel just wouldn't be selling," he said.

Satterfield estimates he gave away about 250 cantaloupes in 20 minutes.

Ohio-Midland Asking PUCO For Increase

The Ohio-Midland Light and Power Company has asked the Ohio Public Utilities Commission to authorize its first increase in electric rates in 25 years.

An application to revise the firm's rate schedule was filed with the PUCO Wednesday.

Ohio-Midland supplies power to customers over a large portion of Pickaway County, chiefly in the section northeast of Circleville.

The new proposed schedule calls for a "very slight" increase in residential rates and a "moderate" increase in rates for commercial and power consumers. A spokesman for the firm did not specify the amounts of increase, and did not immediately know how many customers in Pickaway County county would be affected.

If the PUCO grants the increase, the return on the estimated present value of the property used in providing electric service will still be less than three percent, according to a company statement.

Building Rule Given

COLUMBUS (AP)—Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill ruled today that township trustees may use public funds to build a firehouse on land under long term lease, extending through the expected life of the building.

Woman Mistaken For Prowler, Is Shot By Husband

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mistaken for a prowler by her husband, Mrs. Marjorie Woodruff, 35, was shot in the head and critically wounded today at her home on Ohio 125 near Bantam, Clermont County, police reported. She was rushed to a hospital here.

Russell Woodruff, 35, said he mistook his wife for a prowler several hours after they and their 14-year-old daughter, Sandra, saw a man hiding in the bushes near the living room window.

He reported the three of them watched the man for some time, then the daughter went to bed.

Then, he continued, he saw the silhouette of a head at a bedroom window and "when it appeared the second time I fired."

It was his wife, however, Woodruff said. He said she had slipped into the bedroom while he still thought she was behind him in the living room.

Akron Couple Wed For 73 Years

AKRON (AP)—Thomas W. Lee, 94, and his wife, Elizabeth, 91, today observed their 73rd wedding anniversary.

"I can sleep and eat fine but I can't walk so good," said Lee.

They make their home in Copley Twp. with a daughter, Blanche Hart, an Akron school teacher, and her husband, C. W. Hart.

Young Actor Still Nailed To Cross

REYNOSA, Mexico (AP) — That young actor is still nailed to a cross here. Yesterday, it was reported that he had given up his exhibition and had headed south.

But an American reporter trekked to this village today and found the 25-year-old ventriloquist still in town and still undergoing his strange stint.

The young man said he learned to bear pain by sticking cactus spurs into his flesh as a child. And he expressed hope of remaining 15 days on the cross to which he has been nailed siice Sunday.

The ventriloquist, known as Tagore, lay on the cross as he talked through an interpreter. His hands were still nailed to the cross. His feet, bandaged on the bottom, had been removed from the cross but the nails were still in them.

He said they hurt but he gave no indication of suffering great pain. He did not appear to be in a trance.

Tagore was dressed in a white silk suit. The cross, supported by two carpenter's saw horses, was in a small room he rented near the bull ring where a crowd of 5,000 persons paid admission to see him nailed to the cross at sunset Sunday. The cross, which was never raised to an upright position, was carried to the room an hour later.

Tagore, who comes from Villa Gomez, Chihuahua, and whose real name is Ijenio Garcia Carmona, said he was putting on the exhibition solely to make money.

Tagore said he will donate 10 per cent to the Roman Catholic Church in honor of the Virgin of Gaudalupe.

"Have church officials authorized this exhibition?" the reporter asked.

"I talked to them about it and they didn't seem to mind," he replied.

Earlier Father Jose Castillinas, a Reynosa priest, said neither he nor his church had given permission for the exhibition and that as far as he knew the church would not get any of the money.

Tuesday the mayor of Reynosa ordered that Tagore's permit to charge admission for an exhibition be canceled.

Tagore said he had been nailed to a cross on three previous occasions, once for 15 days.

Tagore said he planned to remain on the cross if he could stand the pain and if government officials would grant a special permit for the exhibition.

Window Smashed In Phone Dispute

Incident Reported At Exchange Located Near Steubenville

A brick was thrown through a large plate glass window of an exchange in the Steubenville area today as union and management spokesmen prepared to renew their efforts to end the Consolidated Telephone Company strike.

Negotiators seeking to end the 12-day walkout of 600 operators and service personnel are holding their meetings in Portsmouth. The window-smashing incident was reported from the Smithfield exchange in the Steubenville area.

Two supervisory men, James Dunn and Leyton Roan, both of Celina, were on emergency duty in the exchange when the window was shattered. Neither was hurt.

Pickets and onlookers were gathered around the exchange building at the time, but police said none of those present admitted knowing who tossed the brick.

AT PORTSMOUTH, there was little optimism.

Company spokesmen and officials of the Communications Workers of America (CWA) met twice Wednesday without any apparent progress toward an agreement on a new one year contract. The old contract expired at midnight July 14.

Meanwhile Richard N. Cole, company vice president has inferred that strikers are responsible for several acts of vandalism against Consolidated property.

Officials of the CWA have said strikers were not involved in the destruction of company property.

But Cole replied in a formal statement:

"Even though the union consistently denies responsibility for the acts of vandalism, these acts necessarily are intertwined with the strike activity. The six cable cuts that have occurred could only be made by persons having intimate knowledge of the company's cable distribution system."

The company serves parts of 24 southern Ohio counties.

Hodge Seen As 'Shield' In Illinois Scandal

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Orville E. Hodge, deposed Illinois state auditor, takes full responsibility for the $1 million scandal in his office but, says a prosecutor, it sounds as if Hodge is "shielding someone."

This was the summary of Hodge's 176-page statement on missing state funds as presented by George P. Coutrakon, Sangamon County (Springfield) state's attorney.

Coutrakon interviewed the one-time big man in the Republican state administration after the scandal broke and, on the basis of the interview, a county grand jury returned 46 indictments against him Tuesday. Each was based on the fraudulent cashing of state warrants (checks).

These indictments were in addition to 54 indictments returned last week by a federal grand jury in Chicago, which accused Hodge, his office manager Edward Epping and the former president of Chicago's Southmoor Bank and Trust Co., Edward A. Hintz, of mishandling $872,000 in federally insured bank deposits.

All told, money missing from the state treasury is estimated to amount to more than $1 million.

Coutrakon said the implication of Hodge's statement was "I'll take full responsibility." He added:

"He could be shielding Epping. He could be shielding Hintz. It could be somebody we don't know about."

Dad's Car Kills Tot

AKRON (AP)—A 1½-year-old boy fell out of the car his father was driving near here and was run over and killed last night. Police identified the boy as Raymond Slater Jr. of Stow.

Congress Eyes End Of Session

Adjournment Expected To Come Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (AP)—An adjournment-bent 84th Congress tackled another heavy load of work today with many of its weary members expecting the final gavel to bang—sometime tomorrow.

A few optimists thought there was a faint chance to get through late tonight. Some pessimists talked about Saturday. The Senate worked last night until 11:48, putting in a 13-hour session.

These were the major bills left to be sent to President Eisenhower before final adjournment:

A $3,766,570,000 foreign aid money bill on which conferees reached final agreement. The House was expected to act promptly on this and send it to the Senate.

A Democratic-sponsored Social Security bill permitting disabled workers to draw benefits at 50 and women to receive retirement payments starting at 62. Conferees also have agreed on this, but must polish the language.

* * *

AN OMNIBUS housing bill which both the House and Senate passed and headed toward a conference to resolve conflicts. The Senate bowed to the House and held the public housing program to the two-year total of 70,000 units asked by Eisenhower.

The $2,315,000,000 second supplemental appropriations bill, the last money measure of the session, which was passed by the Senate and sent to conference with the House.

The Senate also passed the compromise version of the first supplemental appropriations measure and sent it to the President. It contained $1,691,000,000, most of it for military construction.

The Senate planned to work today on a depressed areas bill to establish a broad new program of federal aids to areas of chronic unemployment; and a $1.6 billion bill already passed by the House, to authorize rivers and harbors projects all over the nation.

Playwright Cited In Congress Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Playwright Arthur Miller today faced possible prosecution for refusing to give the House Committee on Un-American Activities the names of persons with whom he attended Communist party writers' meetings in 1939 or 1940.

The House voted 373-9 yesterday to cite Miller for contempt of Congress and to send his case to the Justice Department.

Miller, now honeymooning in Britain with Actress Marilyn Monroe, told the committee last month that he never was a Communist party member, but he did concede past associations with various Red front groups.

Dior Now Shows 'Magnet Line'

PARIS (AP)—Christian Dior electrified Paris today with his new "magnet line," puffing out the hips and emphasizing the bust.

Gasps and applause seemed to assure another "scandalous success," as the French call it. Unless the critics puncture it, Dior may have another New Look.

The magnet line rounds the shoulders, bust and hips, and often drops necklines daringly low. Skirts are wider at the hip than at the hem, being set-in in soft folds at the natural waistline.

1,709 Rescued, But Big Italian Ship Goes Down

Vessel And Swedish Liner Crash In Fog Off Atlantic Coast

NEW YORK (AP) — Two great transatlantic liners, laden with thousands of carefree passengers, collided with a rending crash in dense fog off Massachusetts last night. One, the Italian liner Andrea Doria, keeled over and plunged beneath the sea at midmorning today.

But before the luxurious Andrea Doria vanished beneath the gentle swells of the relatively calm sea 45 miles south of Nantucket Island, its 1,709 passengers and crew were snatched to safety by other ships in history's greatest rescue operation.

Four died later. An undetermined number were injured.

The Andrea Doria had collided shortly before midnight off Nantucket Island, Mass., with the Swedish liner Stockholm.

The Andrea Doria went into the watery deep in just a little less than 11 hours after the collision.

The end came at 10:09 a. m.

This succession of radio messages from a Coast Guard cutter at the scene gave this dramatic picture of the multi-million-dollar liner's final moments:

"Settling rapidly, abandoned by captain and senior officers.

"Sinking. Just her fantail is showing."

"SS Andrea Dorian sank in 225 feet of water at 10:09 a. m."

* * *

THE CAUSE of the staggering collision remains a mystery. The Andrea Doria was equipped with modern radar facilities which should have enabled it to spot another vessel miles away, even in fog.

Its skeleton officer crew managed to start pumps going and for a time managed to halt the increase in its starboard list. But the effort finally failed.

A news reporter flew over the scene shortly after daylight.

Despite a heavy haze which clung to the sea, he said he could see that the Andrea Doria looked like a "broken toy" and that the Stockholm's bow looked like a "bowl of spaghetti."

This would indicate that the Stockholm had struck the Andrea Doria amidships.

The Stockholm was damaged but not dangerously, and aided in the rescue of Andrea Doria's personnel.

Capt. Piero Calamai and a handful of senior officers stuck grimly with the stricken Italian vessel for hours, but finally were forced to abandon her.

One of the dead was identified as Alf Johannsson, 30, a crew member of the Swedish liner. He died after being flown by helicopter to Nantucket Island, about 45 miles north of the crash area. He was one of five persons, including a 7-year-old girl, taken off the Stockholm by helicopter.

DROODLES

"LONG TIME NO E"

As this Droodle is based on a complicated non-Aristotelian pun (i.e. it is sort of coo-koo) I decided I'd better see what public reaction to it would be, so I took a survey in one of the busiest sections of Manhattan. The consensus turned out to be split right down the middle. Fifty per cent of the people I showed it to said it "didn't make any sense" and the other fifty per cent stated that I was dropping cigarette ashes on their lapels. But later, as I was riding home on the Fifth Avenue bus, I did meet one old lady who said it was the funniest thing she'd ever seen. Made me feel so good I was almost tempted to scrooch over and give her half of my seat.

chant fleet, was inbound to New York from Genoa, Italy, carrying many Americans.

The 11,000 - ton Stockholm had sailed eastward out of New York yesterday.

The crash occurred shortly before midnight at a point about 200 miles northeast of New York. Heavy fog shrouded the area, but the seas were relatively calm.

Frantic SOS calls came from the Andrea Doria as it began tilting over at a dangerous angle, and other vessels raced from all directions for the rescue.

Upon arrival, they spewed lifeboats into the sea at feverish haste toward the Andrea Doria, which could not lower its own craft because of its 45-degree list.

Within five hours, all but a handful of its passengers and crew had been lifted to safety.

Among the rescue vessels were the giant French liner, Ile De France, which took aboard about 730 persons; the United Fruit Company freighter Cape Ann, with 168; and the military sea transport Thomas, with about 165.

All headed for New York, with arrival times listed as late today.

The Stockholm also was returning to New York. She had 425 of the Andrea Doria's passengers aboard.

Officials of the Italian line in Genoa said they "could not imagine" their ship might sink.

They said she was divided into 111 security compartments "which should keep her afloat even with grave danger." They said the prow and engine sections of the ship had a double hull.

No Need Seen For New Tax Levy In Ohio

IRONTON (AP) — Michael V. DiSalle, Democratic candidate for governor, sees no need for a state income tax or, for that matter, for any additional taxes whatsoever in Ohio in the next two years.

The former Toledo mayor told an audience here last night:

"I'm convinced that barring any economic depressions or severe changes, the state can be operated during the next two years without an increase in taxes."

DiSalle added: "Nor do I feel that there is a need for a state income tax. I believe the cities which are now using the income tax to solve their local financial problems should not have that source of funds jeopardized."

He said entry of the state into the income tax field would force the cities out, since the law would not permit both to levy the same tax.

DiSalle was to travel to McConnelsville and Caldwell before going to the Monroe County Fair at Woodsfield and the Knox County Fair at Mount Vernon today.

Earlier yesterday, DiSalle took in the Fayette County Fair in Washington C. H. While there, he visited the "Friendship Booth" set up by Republican backers of Sen. George Bender.

Residents Warned Concerning Trash Tossed In Streets

City residents are being given another warning about throwing trash in the streets.

Service Director Dewey Speakman said that unless the situation comes to a stop, some residents will face arrest. He pointed out that there is a city ordinance which calls for fines of $10 to $50 for this offense.

"Lots of people mow their lawns and then either leave the clippings piled up or they throw them in the street," he noted. "Then, the mess blows over to some neighbor's property and we get a call from that neighbor complaining that someone else's trash is cluttering up their property.

"You would be surprised how many calls of this kind we get. We just can't spare the men to go out and clean up the mess every time someone calls us."

Quakers Rip Conduct Of Red Probers

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The conduct of a House UnAmerican Activities subcommittee hearing here last week was under fire today by nine leaders of the religious Society of Friends.

The nine Quakers sent a letter of protest to the seven members of the committee who did not attend the hearings here, conducted by Reps. Francis Walter (D-Pa) and Gordon Scherer (R-Ohio). Copies of the letter also were sent to Walter and Scherer.

The Quaker leaders said they made the strongly worded letter public today "because we earnestly believe that the issues raised by the conduct of this hearing are of grave significance to democracy."

The letter contended that the two congressmen "slanted" the hearing in such a way as to make it critical of the Plymouth Meeting, a Quaker group, for retaining Mary G. Knowles as librarian of the Jeanes Library, operated by the Meeting, despite the fact she pleaded the Fifth Amendment in an appearance before the committee in Washington. Mrs. Knowles recently was cited for contempt of Congress.

County ASC Office Lists 1956 Price Support For Corn

Producers who have complied with the 1956 government corn allotments will receive $1.55 per bushel of grain, Mrs. Margaret Downs of the Pickaway County Agricultural Stabilization Conservation office announced today.

Growers who did not comply with the 1956 grain quotas will receive $1.30 per bushel, according to Mrs. Downs.

"The corn may be stored on farms or in bonded warehouses," Mrs. Downs said. Bonded storage buildings in the county are located in Ashville, Scioto Township and Derby.

Mrs. Downs added that growers may obtain loans on their corn after harvest, providing the moisture content is not greater than 20½ percent.

Poll Reveals Nixon Still Top Choice In GOP

Party Leaders Fail To Be Impressed By Stassen's Maneuver

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon still is the overwhelming favorite of Republican leaders across the country for another nomination as President Eisenhower's running mate.

An Associated Press poll of GOP governors, state chairmen and national committeemen showed today that Harold E. Stassen's bid to unseat Nixon in favor of Massachusetts Gov. Christian A. Herter caused hardly a ripple in Republican organizations.

Many kind words were spoken about Herter. But the GOP leaders made it plain Nixon still is their man even though Eisenhower has not tapped him specifically for the nomination.

The great majority voiced confidence their state delegations to the nominating convention feel the same way.

Stassen didn't give up his campaign, a one-man drive so far, to ditch Nixon. He hinted he hopes Eisenhower will give it some encouragement. Presumably he means the chief executive might say something to the effect that the vice presidential nomination still isn't settled and that there are a lot of good possibilities around, such as Nixon and Herter.

* * *

STASSEN HINTED, too, at more blasts of his own, including release by the weekend of results of a poll of strength of various vice presidential possibilities which he said he and four or five others financed. Stassen said preliminary results give Nixon the poorest showing of eight possibilities listed. Of the eight, Stassen would name only himself, Nixon and Herter.

But the AP toll turned up no Republican leaders who seriously doubted Nixon has a solid grip on the nomination. The Stassen-for-Herter drive seemed to have collapsed, 24 hours after it started, with Tuesday's announcement that Herter will put Nixon's name in nomination at the convention.

Stassen said that creates "some difficulty psychologically," but still doesn't rule Herter out.

An AP poll among the state leaders last March showed Nixon was a definite 13-1 choice to succeed himself, with support rising to 16-1 if you counted those who said they wanted Nixon if Eisenhower did.

In the new poll, which included 110 of a possible 165 state leaders this is the score:

Flatly for Nixon — 73.
For Nixon if Ike wants him—14.
Undecided, or "Let's leave it to Ike" 12.
For Nixon unless Ike vetoes him — 4.
For Nixon "as of now" — 3.
Leaning toward Nixon — 3.
Leaning away from Nixon — 1.

Except for Herter and a few favorite sons, such as former Colorado Gov. Dan Thornton, not a name was mentioned by any of those replying as a possible substitute for Nixon.

Motorist Crashes Lowered Gate At Railroad Crossing

An elderly Columbus motorist took big risks here Wednesday when he drove right through a lowered gate guarding the railroad tracks on S. Court St.

Officer Leroy Hawks, who investigated the accident, said 85-year old Charles A. Argarbuight claimed he did not see the lowered gate nor the flashing red lights signalling, nor hear the warning bells.

Argarbuight's southbound car broke two sections of the gate and the neon tubes which outline the gate at night. After crashing the barrier, Argarbuight stopped his car between the two sets of double tracks at the crossing.

Although Argarbuight's car was damaged, he was not hurt. He told Officer Hawks he had been headed for Wellston.

Portsmouth OKd For Air Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil Aeronautics Board Examiner John A. Cannon recommended today that Lake Central Airlines be given a temporary permit to stop at Portsmouth, Ohio.

This, he said, would make Portsmouth a stop on a Lake Central Cincinnati-Columbus route and for the first time link Portsmouth by air with the East, West and North.

Cannon told the board that Lake Central should be given this Portsmouth stop until a current proceeding on Great Lakes local air service is settled.

Flood Of Beer-Wine Permits To Be Issued By State Soon

COLUMBUS (AP) — The State Liquor Department expects to issue several hundred new beer and wine carryout permits throughout Ohio as a result of a Franklin County court decision upholding the department's new "freeze."

The new regulation takes the lid off beer and wine carryout permits. Forty carryout permit holders from Hamilton and Franklin counties had filed action in common pleas court here seeking to knock out the new regulation.

Had they succeeded, part of the old regulation freezing issuance of new carryout permits would have continued in effect.

All their suit did was delay the effective date of the new "freeze" regulation on hard liquor permits, thereby opening the floodgates to permits for selling liquor, beer and wine by the glass.

State Liquor Director William C. Bryant said there were 482 applications on file in mid-June for 3.2 beer carryout licenses and 837 for high-powered beer and wine carryouts. New permits can be issued, he said, as soon as Common Pleas Judge George B. Marshall puts the final entry on court records here.

* * *

JUDGE MARSHALL held yesterday the Liquor Board's new regulation, which was to have become effective last May 28, is not unreasonable, as contended by the Hamilton and Franklin County interests.

The new regulation replaces a seven-year-old freeze knocked out by the Ohio Supreme Court last March 31. The high court order did not apply to sections of the regulation limiting carryouts.

Under the new regulation, the number of permits (liquor and beer and wine-by-the-glass) that may be issued will be based on a license-population ration as of April 1, 1950, applying that ratio to 1956 population figures (number of licenses to increase in proportion to the population increase).

Bryant said he hopes to have the 1956 figures within a week. They are being compiled by an expert hired by the Liquor Department.

The number of applications for new permits of all kinds, which totaled 4,136 in mid-June is dropping off each week, the liquor director said. In the last two weeks, he noted, the new applications came in at the rate of only 30 per week.

Cedar Heights Rd. Area Street Work Nears Completion

Street work in the Cedar Heights Rd. area is nearing completion according to Dewey Speakman, city service director.

Speakman said that the primer cost is now being placed on the streets, with the sealer coat expected to be put down next week. This will take care of an area where residents have often complained of poor streets.

For several years, home owners in the Cedar Heights Rd. vicinity have declared that the streets were unpaved and "full of ruts." During heavy rains, the area frequently becomes flooded, with water backing up into basements and back yards.

Autoist Liability Ruling Outlined

COLUMBUS (AP)—Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill has ruled that Ohio statute requires drivers or owners at fault in traffic accidents to post deposits sufficient to satisfy any judgments against them regardless of reimbursements other drivers or owners involved might get from their own collision insurance.

The opinion, interpreting a section of the state motor vehicle financial responsibility law, had been asked by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Relief Cases Up Due To Steel Strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — The nationwide steel strike has caused a sharp increase in the number of persons seeking relief here, Cuyahoga County authorities report.

County Welfare Director John Schaffer said approximately 55 steelworkers had applied for relief benefits this week, bringing to more than 100 cases being processed by this department. He said the cases are linked directly to the strike, which has idled approximately 22,000 employes of steel plants here.

21 Kids Ready To Testify For Cocker Spaniel

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Twenty-one children waited patiently through hours of judicial procedure yesterday for a chance to tell Police Judge Edward J. Burleson how they felt about Blackie, a 4-year-old cocker spaniel.

Blackie, the pet of the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan G. Kasper, is charged with biting a 3-year-old neighbor girl. If convicted the dog can be ordered either confined or destroyed.

The complaint against Blackie was brought by Mr. and Mrs. James C. Shuszer. They said their daughter Lynn received a bite on the lip which required four stitches to close. The Shuszers seek a court order to prevent the dog from biting anyone else.

When the Kaspers' attorney asked for witnesses, hands shot up all over the courtroom. Judge Burleson allowed six youngsters to testify. They ranged in age from 5 to 15.

Some appeared awed in the witnesses stand and cracked bubble gum nervously. They all agreed, however, they had played with Blackie before and after the incident and that the dog was "fun."

Judge Burleson took the case under advisement until next Wednesday.

Steel Accord Delayed For About 24 Hours

Negotiators Reported Stumped At Writing New Union Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Final agreement on a new contract ending the 26-day-old steel strike was put off at least 24 hours today.

Meetings scheduled to present a new contract to union chieftains for their approval were postponed until tomorrow.

Neither steel nor union spokesmen would go into details. It was understood that while general outlines of the new contract have been accepted, the negotiators are having trouble putting detailed provisions into contract language.

However, John A. Stephens of U. S. Steel, chief industry negotiator, and David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, have not denied the accuracy of widely circulated reports that a three-year no-strike contract was all but signed.

Arthur Goldberg, general counsel of the union, was smiling and apparently undiscouraged when he left the hotel conference room at 1 a. m. today, after eight hours of intermittent meetings.

* * *

HE SAID THE lengthy closed-door conferences were "normal operation procedure at this type of meeting," and admitted the negotiators had "been doing some drafting."

The negotiators were said to be struggling to put into contract language details of the agreement reportedly reached orally and generally two days ago.

Meanwhile, the presidents or top executives of the 12 major steel firms involved in the talks arrived in New York, apparently to be on hand for an official settlement announcement.

The reported agreement is said to contain a 50-cent hourly package increase spread over the three years. From 20 to 25 cents of this would be given in the first year.

Of this, 9 cents would be direct wages, 5 cents toward a 52-week layoff pay plan, and the balance for pensions, insurance, premium pay for Sunday and other benefits.

Prestrike pay in the industry averaged $2.46 an hour.

Some 650,000 steelworkers walked out July 1 when contract talks here broke down.

Another 103,000 persons, employed in allied industries, have been laid off.

Shortly after announcement of a settlement, most observers expect the Big Steel companies to boost prices. Some small steel mills already have hiked their prices in anticipation of a settlement with the USW.

Eventually, the observers say, these price increases will be passed on down the line so that the ordinary consumer finds himself footing the bill. Such a procedure has been virtually automatic in the past.

Lack Of Materials And Big Equipment Holding Up Repairs

Lack of materials and equipment is holding up repairs on several city streets, according to City Service Director Dewey Speakman.

One big project, the widening and improving of S. Pickaway St. is being delayed because the city has to wait on a contractor to move sufficient equipment there to get the job sarted, Speakman explained. He said the city does not own such machinery and therefore cannot proceed on its own.

"Some day," he said, "the city is just going to have to invest in some big equipment. We just can't keep going on this way."

Walnut Creek Pk. Undergoing Some Extensive Repairs

Walnut Creek Pk. is undergoing some extensive repairs, according to Pickaway County Engineer Henry McCrady.

He said that a layer of crushed rock has already been put down on the northbound lane to seal up some holes. Patching of holes in the road has continued for several months.

Next month, the county expects to pave approximately four miles of the road with asphalt, McCrady added.

City Court Reports Two Traffic Cases

Let's All Go Shopping!

By MRS. LEORA SAYRE
Home Economics Agent
Extension Service

July is the time to enjoy fresh small fruits. So let's all go shopping for cherries and berries.

This is the time when food-shoppers will find Ohio grown sweet and sour cherries, red and black raspberries, blueberries and currants at local counters and at roadside markets.

These fruits make wonderful pies, cobblers, muffins, and jams and jellies. They are excellent ingredients in salads, milk desserts, frozen desserts, or just as is—with some cream and sugar.

Shoppers should take advantage of the current somewhat lower prices and prepare for later wants, needs and interests by freezing or canning.

* * *

CHERRIES CAN freeze quite satisfactorily. The berries are especially good frozen. Use top quality, fresh fruit and remember—the quality of the final product can be no better than the food with which you start.

Berries to be cooked are best packed in dry sugar or unsweet dessert are best packed in syrup. If the stems are off, the resulting broken skins of fruits hasten deterioration.

One pound of fresh cherries will yield about 2 and ¾ cups of stemmed and pitted fruit. Two quarts of fresh cherries or berries usually will yield three pints of the frozen or canned product. When making jelly, plan on one quart of berries yielding one cup of juice.

Currants have a short life and should be used within a day or two. Handle these small fruits carefully. Store in containers so they may spread out. If they are piled too deeply, the weight of the fruit may damage that which is on the bottom.

The fruit, if it is firm ripe, should be kept in refrigerated storage, covered loosely with waxed paper. Moisture hastens molding and breakdown of fruit in storage.

Have you tried adding fresh cherries to cottage cheese, or currants to a gelatin salad?

* * *

ACCORDING TO Dr. Hazel K. Stiebeling, director of the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics Research, U. S. Department of Agriculture, "Nutritionally, the difference between good diets and usual diets lies chiefly in the larger quantities of protective foods." (By protective foods, she means fruits, vegetable, milk and its products and eggs.)

Currently, we have plenty of available nutrition protection in the fields, gardens and markets. Reports from cabbage producing areas indicate that good quality Ohio grown cabbage is available. Other economical aids to colorful nutrition are the small red and blue fruits, green onions and lettuce and red beets.

* * *

Extension Economists report that the spread between farm and retail prices of food has increased 83 percent since 1945 because of substantial increase in all costs of performing marketing services.

Food costs of the "market basket" for an urban family in the Spring of 1956 was at a monthly rate of $79 and required about 40.7 hours of a factory workers time. In 1952, it required 51.6 hours and in 1947-49 about 60 hours of the factory worker's itme.

Consumer spending, for food averaged $406 in 1955. This was only slightly higher than in 1954, and represented about 25 percent of disposable income. Present indications are that expenditure for food will continue at about the same level during 1956. Does this mean usual or good diets?

FROM THE FILE of Mrs. Winfred Bidwell, a local homemaker, comes a recommendation for a lime-cucumber salad as an aid in providing good diets. She says it is very refreshing on a hot day and even looks cool.

The recipe is: Dissolve one package lime-flavored gelatin in one cup of hot water, add ¼ cup vinegar, 1 teaspoon of salt and 1 teaspoon of graded onion. Chill until gelatin begins to thicken. Stir in 1 cup of sour cream and 1 medium cucumber, coarsely grated. Pour into individual molds or a flat pyrex idsh. Chill until firm and serve on lettuce.

Leave the covers off your plastic containers when they are not in use. No odors developed this way!

Daytonian Named To UNESCO Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has nominated a five-member U.S. delegation to attend the 9th session of the General Conference of UNESCO in New Delhi next November.

UNESCO is the United Nations Education, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Names Eisenhower sent to the Senate included Stanley C. Allyn of Dayton, Ohio.

40 Gas Stations Close In Protest

BEAVER DAM, Ky. (AP) — More than 40 local gas stations have closed to back demands for wholesale gasoline rates equal to those in adjoining Daviess County.

Spokesmen said Daviess County operators were given a 2.2 cents per gallon cut in wholesale prices recently while those in this county got only a 1.3 - cent reduction.

Local autoists can save two cents a gallon by buying their gasoline in Daviess County.

Woman, 45, Given Life Sentence

HAMILTON (AP)—Common Pleas Judge Fred B. Cramer yesterday sentenced Mrs. Irene Thomas, 45, to life imprisonment on her plea of guilty to second degree murder in the fatal stabbing of Ernest Buchanan Jr., 31, last May 15. The stabbing took place during a quarrel.

Widow Accepts Lump Sum Estate

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Constance Wilson has agreed in court here to take $1,263,700 from the estate of her husband, L. B. Wilson, instead of a life-long trust agreement.

Judge W. F. Blanton approved the settlement, which also gives Mrs. Wilson ownership of 300 shares of stock in Cincinnati Radio Station WCKY, but allows an employe group option to buy it from her.

Wilson, who also owned an interest in Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky., died in Cincinnati after a heart attack in 1954. He left an estate valued at $4,226,732.

Mrs. Wilson last February asked the court to give her clear title to about one-third of the estate under a 1948 will.

The approximate cost of the Pentagon building in Washington was $64 million.

Virginia Coal Industry Sees High Prosperity

90 Pct. Of Export Total Goes Through Big Port Of Norfolk

By SAM DAWSON

RICHMOND (AP) — There's one fast growing Virginia industry that the steel strike is more likely to help than to hurt. That's the mining, transportation and exporting of coal.

Europe's waxing industrial activity and its waning coal output unite today to underwrite a market for the American product. Some of this coal is mined in southwest Virginia. And 90 per cent of all the coal going overseas passed through Virginia and out its port of Norfolk.

The Chesapeake & Ohio, Virginian and Norfolk & Western railroads are enlarging their terminal facilities there to expedite the shipping of coal through Hampton Roads.

The steel strike's impact, coalmen note, could be to make available for the export market more metallurgical coal — the kind sought by the European steel makers. And the railroads (with their domestic steel mill business lost for the time) may find more cars for the run across Virginia from the Appalachian coal fields.

But what a steel strike settlement might eventually do to the cost of coal and its transportation, coalmen don't like to guess.

Officials of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond see the export coal market as a steady one from now on, rather than the highly sporadic affair of years past. It started picking up in 1954, when Europe's industrial spurt ran into a storage of high grade European coal. In that year 15 million tons of American coal went overseas. Last year 34¾ million tons did. In the first six months of this year 22½ million tons have been shipped.

In Washington, F. F. Estes, executive secretary of the Coal Exporters Assn. of the United States, predicts that 1956 may see nearly 45 million tons exported to set a new record. That would contrast with 1950's less than 2½ million.

The boom seems to have firm foundations, in the opinion of a leading Richmond banker. He says England can't supply the European coal market adequately any longer and Germany is short of metallurigical coal. And any Communist move toward the Mid East oil fields would only increase the demand for American fuel.

Officers of the Federal Reserve Bank here, whose fifth district includes West Virginia and a few other coal mining centers, think the coal outlook, both domestic and foreign, will be bright — once the steel strike is over.

Westinghouse Sees Earnings Clipped

NEW YORK (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corp., back in production again after a five-month strike, earned $6,862,000 or 38 cents a share in the April-May-June quarter, the company reports.

This was 58.7 per cent below the $16,635,000 or 98 cents a share earned by Westinghouse in the like three months of 1955.

Backlogs, however, were 38 per cent higher than a year ago. Biggest gains were in orders for heavy industrial equipment.

Cleveland Mayor To Back DiSalle

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze is supporting Michael V. DiSalle, the Democratic nominee, in the campaign for governor and will serve on DiSalle's Mayor's Committee.

The mayor is a Democrat, but ran without organization support when he was elected in 1953 and repeated the victory in 1955.

DiSalle, former Toledo mayor, is opposed by Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill, Republican, in the governor's race.

Bond Issue Loses By Only 16 Votes

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Another 16 men or women were needed to plug up the floods in this Jefferson County village with a Dutch name.

A bond issue of $25,000 to control the flooding of Yellow Creek was defeated in a special election Tuesday. Sixty-five per cent of the votes were needed for approval and only 209 voted for and 135 against. Sixteen votes would have swung the approval.

Yellow Creek, floating down the middle of this village of 2,000, overflows its banks regularly and the Army Corps of Engineers figures damage at $10,000 a year.

STORAGE AND CARS

DESPITE THE huge increase in both commercial and farm storage for grain during the past five years, the grain belt may be up against the same old problem of finding room in the bins for the new crops.

Uncle Sam has a bin capacity of 984 million bushels. The commercial warehouses, under the stimulation of federal guarantee of occupancy and important tax concessions, have expanded by hundreds of millions of bushels. The producers have added nearly 300 million bushels of capacity to their farm bins since 1949.

But the federal glut is as formidable as ever. When new crops are harvested, the commercial warehouses are often so nearly filled that the harvests soon overflow them. The federal government does not always manage the situation so that its old supplies are moved out of the harvest area for the new grain. The railroads have their problems of shifting both old and new grain so there is room for all.

Though the rails have added 21,000 new freight cars to their fleets this year, compared with 9,600 last year, the old and new grain shipments are in tremendous volume. They are, of course, an important source of revenue for the railroads.

When order finally comes again, after disposal of a large part of the stored surpluses, there will probably be an over-capacity of grain storage. Whether there will be too many box cars as well doesn't necessarily follow. The rails haven't been accumulating rolling stock with the same enthusiasm the grain storage builders have shown.

NOT OUT OF WOODS

THAT PRODUCTION is the basis of prosperity has been known for centuries. Farms in the over-production, cut back phase are worrying others besides farmers.

Acreage has been reduced by many millions of units by farmer consent in approving the price support program.

One of the big worriers is the farm equipment industry. Its prosperity is derived from maximum farm operations. When farm operations slide, as they have the past two years, sales suffer.

Department of Agriculture experts figure that 50 million acres will be put into the soil bank in the next year or two. This will take total crop acreage back to the level of 1909 when the population of the U. S. was only 70 million.

Another worrisome thought is that the soil bank, after idling that much land for several years, will become effective and the over-production problem will return.

It is certain that the nation is not out of the woods on agriculture. Perhaps other and more drastic programs will be brought forward.

WHERE WERE THEY?

ILLINOIS investigators estimate more than $800,000 of fraudulent or forged state warrants were paid out from the office of Orville E. Hodge, state auditor, who has resigned under fire. Where were all the official checks against fraud which are supposed to be built into a state administration?

These things happen in business institutions as well as in government. It is always a mystery why no one on the scene ever becomes inquisitive and stops the crookedness before it has lasted many months and accumulated heavy losses.

Hodge was reputed to have abundant private means. Whether he was handing money not his own to his friends or was in fact insolvent, a lack of balance and moral fiber is evident in such conduct.

The point is that any government administration ought to be alert to the signs of crookedness which must be plain while such heavy and prolonged defalcations are under way.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

As the election approaches, the Republicans in New York State find themselves in a more desperate situation than most of them are willing to admit. They can lose that state with its 45 electoral votes because of an internecine fight over the candidacy for the United States Senate.

Thus far, the most successfully projected aspirant is Jacob Javits, the Attorney General, whom most Republicans do not want for many reasons, some of which no one wants to say out loud yet. On the other hand, there is a deal between Javits and Oswald Heck, a powerful member of the State Legislature who aspires to be the candidate for Governor.

Heck is hardly known in the New York City metropolitan area but is popular upstate; Javits has organized political power among the minority groups in New York City and has a following among the socialistic Liberal Party members but is disliked by up-state Republicans who wonder how he ever worked his way into the Republican Party. So Heck and Javits combined to boost each other—Javits for U. S. Senator in 1956; Heck for Governor in 1958.

The danger to the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket this year is that this plan is splitting the Republicans in this crucial state and that many will stay at home on Election Day rather than vote for Javits. If the Democratic candidate is Herbert Lehman, these Republicans will have no one to vote for. And this has nothing to do with anti-Semitism. It is just that most Republicans are conservatives and do not care to vote for Left Wingers.

So, they are pinning their hopes on the ability of the party management to convince Tom Dewey, the erstwhile candidate for the Presidency, to run for United States Senator. They hold that Dewey can win hands down. Thus far, Dewey has shown reluctance. He is said to be delighted with his private law practice and the comfort of earning some money after a long career in public life.

On the other hand, it is generally believed that John Foster Dulles is reaching a saturation point in the amount of intrigue he has to surmount in the State Department. With Harold Stassen, W. H. Jackson, C. D. Jackson (out of office), Dr. Milton Eisenhower, Paul Hoffman and now Sherman Adams, all putting their mixing spoons into the foreign affairs pot, with the Acheson left-overs sticking their legs out for Dulles and Herbert Hoover, Jr., to trip over, it is beginning to be a bit wearisome.

Therefore, if Dulles should resign after Election Day, if Eisenhower is re-elected, it is believed that the President would offer Dewey the Secretaryship of State.

Dewey would make a competent Secretary of State and would clean up the kitchen mess in which too many cooks have already spoiled too much. Harold Stassen is also said to aspire to this position or any other, but it is generally accepted that the President would prefer Dewey.

Therefore Thomas E. Dewey finds himself besieged by New York State Republicans to announce himself as an aspirant for the U. S. Senate candidacy; many national Republicans want him to hold himself in readiness to succeed Dulles; and his partners undoubtedly want him to stay with his present firm to which he has brought considerable business.

Challenge For Dr. Mays

SYNOPSIS

A group of doctors in the Midwestern suburb of Burbank try to establish a free screening clinic despite lack of money and opposition from the County Hospital. Dr. John Blandin, a strong booster of the project, returns from a meeting and tells his wife, Helen, that enough money has been donated by the wealthy Mrs. Alice Milburn to set up the clinic. Mrs Milburn donates the money to spite the Women's Club because they voted against helping the project. Dr. Chad Mays, brilliant but eccentric young medical administrator, is hired to organize the clinic. Dr. Blandin and his associates feel that Mays will be more than a match for the opposition, led by influential Dr. Wilkins-Smith, head of the County Hospital.

CHAPTER 4

JOHN BLANDIN was as close to being a general practitioner as one is apt to find in the near-suburb of a large city today. So he was a busy doctor. At five that summer-rainy afternoon a half-dozen patients still sat in his waiting room when Helen hurried in to see John.

"I couldn't find him!" said Helen, softly but urgently. "Either he didn't come, or I missed him. You're sure he said Delmar?"

"Helen. You read the telegram. Chicago train at Delmar."

"He didn't come then. I couldn't have missed him. Only one man got off—he was fat, and elderly, and six women met him. Three of them called him 'Papa.' The photographers and reporters didn't think he was Dr. Mays, either."

She could see John's attention going back to his patients. "Something must have changed his plans. He'll get in touch with me," he said.

Helen had the car, and she decided to wait to take John home rather than come back for him. She snatched a magazine from the waiting room table and went out to the car parked in the lot behind the row of shops and office buildings. John would be more—well—expeditious if he knew she was waiting.

* * *

He was bare-headed, but otherwise the young man who accompanied John across the stretch of rain-dark gravel seemed well dressed. He wore a dark blue woolen suit, a striped tie, and carried two bags. He was a good six inches taller than John, and tilted his red-bronze head downward to talk to him as they approached.

Helen tossed the magazine into the back seat, opened the door and stepped out. The introductions were made—"Helen, my wife—Dr. Mays."

Helen, somewhat excitedly, explained that she had met his train—tried to—

"Yeah. I saw you. But doggone, you had reporters. So I rode on down to the main station."

Smiling a bit, John got under the wheel. "Could we invite the doctor for dinner, Helen?"

She got in beside him. "Of course. It's Monday night casserole, naturally, but—"

"I'm not a difficult feeder," said Dr. Mays, putting his bags into the back seat, joining his hosts in the front.

"I'll give a statement to the press later," he was telling John. "I like to pick my own time—also I'd like to know a little about what I'm supposed to talk about."

That seemed reasonable enough. When the newspapermen phoned, Helen said that Dr. Mays could be seen at their home later in the evening, and went back to her dinner preparations.

After dinner Dr. Mays glanced around their long and pleasantly worn living room. "That couch'll do me fine," he said absentmindedly.

Helen froze. She glanced at John, but he sat behind his pipe and offered no help.

"Oh," she said to Dr. Mays, "we don't have a guest room. And you know we have two children."

"I can sleep through thunder," said Dr. Mays, getting to his feet. "Now!" As if he had settled the whole thing, Helen thought darkly. "If you'll give me those directions, I'll go over to the clinic and look around. I'd like to go alone."

"How long will you be there?" asked Helen, her tone still prim with affront. "It will make a difference to the reporters who are trying to find you."

"What's all this about the newspapers?" Chad demanded.

"You're news, Doctor."

"What sort? Good? Or bad?" He spoke sardonically.

John flushed, and Chad nodded, as if satisfied to have accomplished something he wanted out of his way. He fished around in the side pocket of his coat, pulled out a glossy three-by-five picture, and handed it to Helen.

"This isn't you!" She shook the picture of the distinguished blonde gentleman at him.

"Of course not. Looks like he'd be a doctor, though. They'll be happy with it. They want a picture of the eminent Dr. Mays. Not one of me! Gad!"

He paced around the room, lifting his legs gracefully over the barriers of footstool and magazine rack.

"The point is," he said, turning to face his hosts, "I don't want the work I hope to do here identified with me. My name, perhaps. But I, in person, want to be completely free to operate—to circulate—to navigate."

Helen held up the picture so that John might see the neatly mustached gentleman it portrayed. "What," she asked their guest politely, "about a statement for the press? To go with this?"

"Oh," Chad said disinterestedly. Then he took out a handkerchief and wafted it toward the front door of the house. "If your reporters come . . ." he drawled. "Tell them, if they ask for my background—and they'll do that, too! Tell them I was born in India. Inja. Say it that way. They'll believe it. That my father was a geologist. An engineer."

John laughed, and Helen unwillingly joined him.

"You really mean that about anonymity, don't you?" John asked.

"There's no bigger help to a snooper," Chad Mays assured him, seriously.

He rattled along so rapidly that no word of protest could have been wedged in. "John, you're to give Helen here twenty-five a week out of my salary, give me fifty every Monday morning, and you keep the rest of it. I'll spend the fifty on Monday, and after that I'll try to mooch more. But don't let me have it."

John managed to keep his face and tone as calm as if this sort of arrangement was exactly what he could expect from any famous medical administrator. "What do I do with the rest of your money? Keep it on hand for bail?"

"Oh, no. Never bail me out. I like the pokey—get most of my reading done then. No, you send the rest of it, regularly, to the First National Bank of Little Rock, Arkansas. For deposit."

"In your name?"

"It's as good as any." He walked rapidly out of the house.

Some Serious Symptoms Can Show Up In Eyes

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

YOUR eyes are the gateway to your brain.

The human eye, you see, actually is a portion of the body's nervous system. Because of this, many serious conditions can be detected by a careful examination of the eyes.

For instance, various changes which might be occurring in your body such as development of high blood pressure, diabetes, atherosclerosis and various diseases of the blood might be diagnosed through ophthalmological examinations.

The ophthalmologist is the only one who can see living blood vessels in the back of your eyes and is able to diagnose any changes he might detect.

Even some strokes may be anticipated and avoided through such an examination. Transient blacking out of vision coupled with certain other neurologic troubles may be a warning of impending blood-clotting problems.

Recent experiments with certain drugs which slow blood-clotting appear to indicate that these strokes may be averted.

Ophthalmological examinations may also uncover tumors of the pituitary gland and even of the brain itself.

The first indication of a brain tumor sometimes is an alteration of the vision of one or both eyes.

By studying such alterations it is frequently possible to locate the trouble with great accuracy. And sometimes it is possible to predict the exact type of difficulty.

Prompt diagnosis, of course, is essential in all the cases I've mentioned if doctors are to be of much help. For this reason, you shouldn't pass off eye difficulties simply as "eyestrain" and let it go at that.

See An Expert

If your eyes give you any trouble at all—whether or not you wear glasses — see an ophthalmologist.

And if you're over 50, you should have an eye examination at least once every two years. If you have trouble with your vision, get a check-up more frequently.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

R. B.: I have excruciating headaches behind my left eye. What could be the cause of this?

Answer: There are numerous causes for this type of headache, such as nervousness, nervous disorder, a blood disorder, a tumor, migraine and other such diseases.

Gotham-A Small Town Now

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—In the good old summertime New York City becomes the biggest country town in America.

It is now not only a great place to visit, it's a swell place to live in.

For Gotham, unlike bears, which hibernate in winter, does its hibernating during the warm months.

Life slows to a dog trot and finally a lazy walk. All the two-and-three ulcer men, the nervous folk who live on pep pills, have fled to beach and mountain, leaving the city to those who love it for more reasons than the mere fact they make a living in it.

All the usual social bars are down. No velvet rope halts you in the night clubs. The headwaiter greets you as a human being instead of a sheep it is his distasteful duty to shear of its fleece.

The streets and subways are less crowded. You no longer have to write an indignant letter to the mayor in order to get a cab. Most of the Broadway theaters have seats for sale, and you don't have to go to your banker and float a loan to buy a ticket.

If you go through a revolving door, nobody gets in behind you and tries to come out ahead of you.

The stores are full of wonderful bargains. Luggage is 50 per cent off, sport shirts are marked down 25 per cent.

Everybody is relaxed and easy-going. The big town has time for all the little niceties that make living in a small town so pleasant.

You can get a haircut without standing in line. The cop on the beat gives you a nod or a cheery "Hello." Old ladies lean out of tenment windows, leaning on fat arms that look like white pillows, and talk comfortably.

Even in traffic jams the truck drivers cuss out the "civilian" drivers in a way that show they don't really have their heart in it.

The whip of tension that people usually live under here has been put upon the shelf.

Even the pickpockets take it easy here now. Most of the people with big wallets are out of town.

Now is the time for all good people to come to Manhattan if they want to see and enjoy it at its friendliest—in the good old summertime, when every night is like Saturday night back home.

Pin-Curling Hair Can Be Problem

How long does it take you to pin-curl your hair?

Some gals can do it in 15 minutes and look, no mirror. They sort of find the hair that needs rolling up and do it by the touch system. Others have to study every curl.

Whichever category you fall into, you will be delighted, so will your dentist, with the latest in bobby pins. They are made of plastic and there is absolutely no need to open them with your teeth, a habit that resulted in wearing unattractive grooves in front teeth. Think I was kidding about this? Ask that dentist.

Anyway the new pins really cut pin-curling time. They are designed with a short top, a longer bottom. The longer piece slips easily under the curl and, somehow, the top piece goes neatly over it without any prying open.

Oh, yes, there is one more advantage the pins have. They are pink and because of the color they do look prettier than just plain bobby pins. This is not to say they will make a girl a raring, tearing beauty when her hair is up. It is just to mention that they make the best of what is usually a bad situation.

At this point, the bobby pins are not sold separately. They come with a pin curl permanent that is new, too, because it has a lotion that is completely free of any unpleasant odor.

Once Upon A Time

There dwelt a husband who became weak and weary over the way his wife jam-packed even her biggest pocketbooks with a bewildering array of junk, all of which had to be plowed, furrowed and excavated every time the newsboy at the door needed a half-buck, or the guy paying garage rent needed a bill changed. (For lo, this was a cagey husband—in a way—who refused to take "petty cash" out of his own pocket, lest the idea become a costly habit.)

So, as time went by and the pocketbooks got bigger and the junk more bewildering, the husband did begin to talk to himself while clawing at the depths, until suddenly he got a humdinger idea. And quickly he purchased for a few pence one tiny flashlight, "for your convenience, my dear, to help you find what you want—when you want it."

Then he went off into a corner and snickered to himself, this sly devil, because he knew the little flashlight would be carried in the biggest pocketbook, and hence could be used to plow through the stuff and quickly locate the important dough.

Silly knave, and for shame!

Served him right when he discovered the flashlight itself was buried under everything else.

And that, when he finally found it, the battery was burned out long ago!

Well?

The "flying saucer" believers are not the only ones who are waiting for more of a follow-up on the strange story of the Air Force plane that was hit by an "unidentified object" while flying at 16,000 feet over California the other day—in clear weather at 11 a. m.

More than half the plane's left elevator control surface, part of the tail assembly, was knocked off or smashed.

What are the best qualified theories? And what were the laboratory reports after routine examination of the metal of the damaged surfaces?

Maybe it was "a weather balloon", huh? Or the planet Venus.

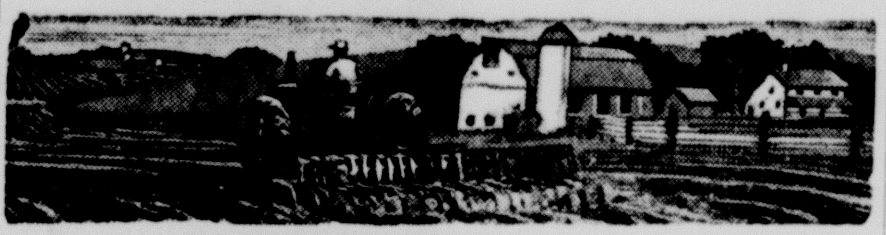
FARM NEWS and VIEWS



By R. S. SWENSON, County Agent

Fly Control:

There are two residual wall fly sprays which are very effective in dairy barns against DDT-resistant flies. They are Malathion and Diazinon.

Malathion should be mixed in the following manner: 1 gallon of 57 percent concentrate and 10 pounds of sugar in 50 gallons of water.

No sugar is needed in the Diazinon spray. Malathion will last 3 to 4 weeks and Diazinon 5 to 6 weeks if the material is properly applied. The spray should be applied to the walls and ceilings of dairy barns when cattle are out doors.

Malathion of Diazinon should never be sprayed on animals or used in the milk house. Manufacturers directions should be followed very carefully.

* * *

Parasite Control:

July or weaning time is the most effective time to drench lambs for stomach and tape worms with Phenothiazine-lead arsenate drench. The drench can be purchased ready mixed as a suspension.

As soon as the lambs are drenched they should be given clean pasture and should not be returned to the same pasture for about one month. Lambs usually become fairly heavily infested with worms before weaning time but may show no ill effects while they have plenty of milk and pasture.

On farms where worm infestation is a serious problem it may be necessary to drench lambs at monthly intervals.

* * *

Soil Bank:

According to Wallace Barr, Extension Economist, the soil bank payment rate for wheat in 1957 has been set at 60 percent of the price support level. If quotas are approved, the 1957 support price will be $2.00 per bushel nationally.

The national unit rate for wheat in the 1957 soil bank acreage reserve would be $1.20 per bushel. The rate for Pickaway County would be slightly higher than the national average.

However, if quotas are not approved price support on wheat would drop to 50 percent of parity. The wheat unit rate of the soil bank would also be 60 percent of the support price then in effect.

Field Days:

Pickaway County farmers may be interested in several field days scheduled during the next few days. The 29th Ohio Dairy Day will be held at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station on Friday, August 19, 1956.

Visitors will hear discussions on feeding of silage and hay, different kinds of silos, legume pastures, and may inspect the various exhibits and tests currently being conducted at the station. The Ohio Cattle Feeders Round-up is scheduled for the Madison County Fair Grounds at London on Saturday, July 28.

This annual Summer event of the Ohio Cattle Feeders is open to anyone in Ohio interested in beef cattle. The various activities of the Cattle Feeders, the National Beef Council, the Corn Belt Livestock Feeders, and the trends of beef cattle business will be discussed.

All Pickaway County beef cattle feeders and breeders are invited to attend.

Sokolsky's

Dewey is a peculiar personality in that while he makes few warm friends, he is admired for his ability as an administrator and his capacity to grasp the innards of a problem. He was an extraordinarily competent Governor of New York. Twice he tried for the Republican Presidential nomination—really three times, if all the facts are clear. He was beaten for election by his own obstinacy.

He, Sherman Adams and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., picked Eisenhower and boomed him so competently that Republican businessmen made pilgrimages to Paris where Eisenhower then was. They put Eisenhower over on the first ballot at the 1952 Republican Convention, although most of the professionals in the party favored Senator Robert A. Taft.

Taft followers have never forgiven Dewey for 1952. However, as a United States Senator, he will have opportunities to win them over for what political value they now have. As Secretary of State, he could only antagonize them. If the Republicans should succeed in organizing the Senate, Dewey's position would immediately become a significant one, for whereas he would be a junior in the Senate, he possesses marked seniority in his party.

Harriman Aide To Talk With Cleveland Boss

CLEVELAND (AP)—One of Gov. Averell Harriman's political backers has arranged another talk with Cleveland's Democratic mayor, Anthony J. Celebrezze.

Carmine G. De Sapio, the Tammany Hall leader who is helping the New York governor's presidential campaign, asked the mayor for a conference here next week, or in Chicago before the Democratic convention.

The mayor said "I told him I would be happy to sit down and talk with him."

The pair has had a number of conversations in New York, and once it was reported Celebrezze was seeking De Sapio's support for the favorite son candidacy of Ohio's governor, Frank J. Lausche. The mayor is on the Lausche slate of delegates.

De Sapio's request for a talk with the mayor came less than 24 hours after Harriman and Lausche had a dinner meeting in Columbus. After that private session, Lausche said no agreement dealing with presidency or the vice presidency had been made.

O'Neill's Next 'Picnic' Slated Tonight In Lima

NORWALK, Ohio (AP)—C. William O'Neill's next campaign picnic will be in Lima tonight. His seventh, at the Huron County fairgrounds Wednesday night, drew approximately 1,200 persons to the big tent.

Atty. Gen. O'Neill, who is the Republican candidate for governor, reveiwed his campaign platform and discussed such topics as highways, education, mental health and conservation.

He was introduced by Rep. A.D. Baumhart of the 13th Congressional District. Other candidates for state offices were presented briefly.

The picnic rally followed the same pattern established earlier in the campaign. A principal feature was a battery of photographers. They snapped hundreds of photographs showing O'Neill greeting visitors to the rally.

Sparrow Scores KO Of Big Trucker

CLEVELAND (AP) — A sparrow that flew into a truck cab on U.S. 21 between here and Akron has been credited with knocking out a 215-pound truck driver, stopping a 10-ton truck and obstructing traffic.

The driver, George Knapper, 61, of Broadview Heights, told officers he was delivering a load of caskets to Akron when the bird flew into his cab, hit him in the right eye "and knocked me out or at least almost unconscious" and then flew out.

Knapper said he remembered bringing the truck to a stop, but that traffic was blocked while he recovered. He was treated for a cut and bruise on the eye.

No Observances In Area Mark National Farm Safety Week

Women's Group Takes Survey On Accidents

Reflector Tape For Use On Machinery One Of Suggestions

National Farm Safety Week, now half gone, apparently has no special significance in Pickaway County. At least, no observances were planned.

Most people feel that this event only applies to the rural areas. Little if no attention is paid toward machinery which uses highways and even come into Circleville.

One method to cut down on accidents involving farm machinery is being adopted by Farm Bureau Women's groups throughout the state. They are distributing reflector tape for use on this machinery.

Although most of this equipment is used during the daylight hours, there are occasions when farm machinery travels at dusk and even night time. It is during these times that danger of accidents is at its greatest peak, according to traffic surveys.

* * *

THE WOMEN'S GROUPS conducted a door-to-door safety survey among the farm organization's membership. Here are some of the statistics they uncovered, which may come as a surprise to many farmers:

1. The average cost of each farm accident is $78 in injuries and $121 in property damage.

2. Each accident results in an average of 13.7 days in loss of work time. (This can be disastrous to a farmer during the planting or harvesting season.)

3. Men between 45 and 65 are the most likely to be involved in an accident.

4. The hours from noon to 6 p. m. are when the majority of farm accidents occur.

* * *

HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS head the list among Ohio farmers, followed by mishaps in the home and in the fields, according to the survey.

Mrs. Litta K. Roberson, director of women's activities for the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, said she believes the survey will result in many Ohio farm women "appointing themselves as unofficial safety director on their farms."

According to Mrs. Roberson, the purpose of the survey, which covered farm accidents reported in 1955, is to:

1. Make farm people more safety conscious;
2. Gain adequate statistics to know where to start in reducing accident hazards; and
3. Reduce insurance rates.

* * *

MRS. ROBERSON noted that women in many Ohio counties are already promoting safety projects. Not only are these women concentrating more on safety but they are also pointing out "danger spots" in roads to highway officials, she added.

"This is only the beginning," Mrs. Roberson declared.

State Fair Expands List Of Exhibits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bigger and better exhibits will be on display at this year's Ohio State Fair, says Fair Manager Sam C. Cashman.

Cashman, at a press luncheon Wednesday, said Aug. 1 is the deadline for entries by exhibitors in all classes. He expects entry lists to be bigger than they were last year in every department.

The 102nd Ohio State exposition opens Aug. 24 for eight days and Cashman said he hopes attendance will pass the 750,000 mark.

Premium awards for exhibits this year will total $278,169, or $26,005 more than in 1955, Cashman said.

More than 12,000 animals will be at the fair, which boasts of being the world's largest livestock exposition.

Highlights of Youth Day, scheduled for Aug. 24, will be dedication of the new Youth Center on the fairgrounds.

Grandstand attactions include five afternoons of harness racing, eight shows by native Ohioan Roy Rogers and stock car races.

One new attraction will be a farm animal babyland, featuring mothers and their young of domestic and farm animals.

The annual horse show is scheduled for six evenings and one afternoon at the Coliseum. Singer Pat Boone will fill engagements the other two nights.

The fair also will provide more than the usual number of commercial, agricultural, civic, state departmental and artistic exhibits, Cashman said.

Juvenile Delinquency Expert Comes To Defense Of Parent

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — An expert on juvenile delinquency today came to the defense of parents.

"The mothers and fathers are always getting the blame when their children get in trouble," said Sal Mineo. "I think that's wrong. Sure, some parents are responsible for delinquents because of neglect and poor upbringing.

"But more often it is the fault of the kids themselves. If a kid of 16 doesn't know the difference between what's right and what's wrong, there's something wrong with him."

Sal is 17 and an actor. How does he qualify as an expert on juvenile delinquency? Because he is the most notable portrayer of delinquents in films and TV.

He got his start in pictures playing Tony Curtis as a boy in "Six Bridges to Cross." That's the film in which Curtis pulled off a Brinks-like robbery. Sal got an Oscar nomination for his delinquent part in "Rebel Without a Cause" and is playing a troublemaker in the current "Crime in the Streets" and "Somebody Up There Likes Me."

He did still another in "Dino" on TV, and he'll repeat the role in the film version, his next assignment. Right now he's enjoying a respite from crime, playing a non - delinquent drummer in "Crazy Love." "But people will be expecting me to be taking injections in my arm," he laughed.

Aside for his portrayals of delinquents, Sal draws knowledge of the problem from his boyhood in New York City.

"I didn't grow up in an especially tough neighborhood," he said. "My mother and father did, and they were determined that their children would be brought up in a better place.

"But neighborhood doesn't mean everything. I remember seeing a young kid who lived near us. He was groggy from drinking too much. Two days later he was arrested for murder. Now he's serving out a life sentence.

"My point is that it's the kids themselves who are to blame most of the time. The parents have no way of knowing that their boys may be out with a bunch of tough guys getting into trouble.

"For instance, my mother wouldn't have known that I had gone out to a theater with 10 other guys and made a racket so that we were asked to leave. It was the kind of mischief that any kids might get into. But supposing it had been something worse. It would have been up to me to have the sense to stay out of it."

Most kids get in trouble in a bid of recognition, Sal observed.

"They want to distinguish themselves in some way," he said. "They think if they get in trouble it makes them bigshots.

"It's up to the city and state authorities to find other ways for them to get recognition.

Army Asks 3 More Ohio Training Units

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says it has recommended construction of three reserve training units, each to handle 400 men, in the Dayton, Ohio, area.

The Army request has been submitted to the Defense Department for further study before being included in a request to Congress for money to build the centers.

The Army wants one center built in 1958, another in 1959 and the third in 1960. A 300-man training center is being built in the Dayton area now for use by Army and Navy reserve units.

Design For Airpower

(Editor's Note: This column is furnished as a public service, by the Office of Information Services, Air Research and Development Command, U. S. Air Force.)

Shoveful of Airplane

A monstrous vehicle that makes toys has been developed for the Air Force to shovel crashed airplanes off runways in a hurry.

Called an "Aircraft Crash Pusher," the vehicle is designed to get crashed airplanes weighing as much as 400,000 pounds out of the way in less than 20 minutes. Formerly, it took from five to 15 hours to clear a wreck from a runway so that other aircraft could land and take off.

The pushers work in pairs, using scoops to shovel a wreck aside. This is done as carefully as time and conditions permit so as to keep additional damage to a minimum.

This airplane shovel on wheels—six of them, with a ten-foot diameter—weighs about as much as 45 modern automobiles. It costs over $150,000 and is one shovel your neighbor won't try to borrow from you.

Electronic Crystal Ball

Using a new electronic "brain," engineers will soon be able to "fly" a jet engine while it is still on the drawing board. This brain — a giant computing machine—could save up to two years in the costly development of engines for our latest airplanes.

Operating the computer, engineers become "arm chair test pilots" who, in a few hours, can put their blueprint engine through its paces and find out exactly how an actual model would perform under all operating conditions.

Developed for the Air Force by the General Electric Company, this electronic "jet expert" took six years to build and covers a floor area about that of three average-sized houses. To keep its 6,000 vacuum tubes and sensitive instruments at the desirable operating temperature, it needs as much air conditioning as 15 homes.

As engineers will start asking it questions about the performance of jet engines which have not even been built, the computer's answers will come quickly and accurately—but not easily. To think up its solutions it uses enough electric power to run from 30 to 50 electric kitchen ranges, with all burners and ovens going full blast.

Eyes Like a Cat

Cats reputedly can see in the dark. That's why "Cat Eye" is the popular name given to a new technique which is expected to enable airmen to do as well or even better.

Under development by ARDC's Wright Air Development Center in Ohio, "Cat Eye" is, in effect, a closed-circuit television system, consisting of a special TV camera and receiver. The camera is similar to the ones that televise boxing matches and live shows, except that it is expected to be a great deal smaller and thousands of times more sensitive.

The receiver is, essentially, the same as your television set but would also be much smaller and less elaborate. The receiver shows what is seen by the camera which is pointed toward the ground from an airplane.

No matter how pitchdark the night may seem, there is always a little light—not enough for the human eye to detect but enough for "Cat Eye's" supersensitive camera. The picture it sees below is electrically amplified millions of times and then reproduced clearly on the screen of the receiver in the cockpit.

When fully developed, "Cat Eye" will become an important aid to military aircraft night-prowling over blacked-out enemy country. Undoubtedly, there will be many other military and peaceful uses for it.

7 Boys Admit Trying To Derail Columbus Flyer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Seven youths, aged 7 to 12, whom police say admit trying to derail a passenger train in Columbus Tuesday night, have been remanded to the custody of their parents pending appearance in Juvenile Court.

Patrolman O. J. McDonald of the Juvenile Bureau said the youths admitted piling rocks, metal strips and a collapsible stretcher on the New York Central Railroad tracks just five minutes before the new experimental lightweight passenger train Xplorer was due through here on its regular Cincinnati to Cleveland run.

McDonald said a yard engine operating on the eastbound track forced the crack train to switch to the westbound track as it entered the rail yard, thus avoiding a possible derailment.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold E. Stassen has now put President Eisenhower on the spot by indirectly challenging him to say once for all whether he prefers Vice President Nixon to anyone else as his Republican running mate.

Eisenhower has never gone beyond saying he would be "delighted" to have Nixon on his ticket. His reluctance to express a preference has made it possible for Stassen to question Nixon's fitness and cause conflict in the party.

Republican hopes this year are entirely pinned on Eisenhower. Because that is so, there is no question he could name his No. 2 man anytime. If he had done so already — even if he had picked Nixon — Stassen almost certainly would not have attempted to interfere.

Stassen says he will drop his campaign — to have Nixon shoved aside in favor of Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts as the vice presidential candidate — if Eisenhower says he wants Nixon.

This is pretty much the same as laying down conditions to the President: unless Eisenhower speaks out more forcefully for Nixon than he has so far, Stassen will keep on shooting at Nixon and causing trouble in the party.

This creates an awkward situation for both Eisenhower and Stassen, who is the President's special assistant on disarmament.

It would seem the President now has been forced into one of four choices: speak out for Nixon; tell Stassen to pipe down; fire him if he doesn't; or say nothing while Stassen continues what is so far only his own one-man campaign.

The calendar of Eisenhower's comments at his news conferences this year — on the subject of Nixon and the vice presidency — shows how Stassen found room to do what he did:

Jan. 25. This was after Eisenhower's heart attack but before he said he'd run again. He was asked — if he did run — would he want Nixon with him. He avoided a direct answer. He said he had never talked with Nixon about it.

But he praised him highly: "There has never been a vice president so well versed in the activities of government." Nixon, he said, had his administration, respect and deep affection.

Feb. 8. Eisenhower was asked — if he didn't run again — would he want Chief Justice Earl Warren to seek the presidency. As he had about Nixon, Eisenhower said Warren had his admiration, respect and deep affection. But he added:

"I don't believe it really appropriate for me to go around asking someone to do such-and-such a thing because that implies, I suppose, that I think I can put him there."

Feb. 29. This was the day Eisenhower said he'd run again. He declined to say whether he wanted Nixon along. He said the vice president is always nominated after a party convention has chosen the head of the ticket. He said his choice of a running mate should be left until the convention.

March 7. He again declined to say whether he favored Nixon. But he said he had asked his vice president to chart his own course about wanting to run again.

In early March, New Hampshire Republicans showed an astonishing burst of confidence in Nixon by giving him 22,000 write-in votes in their presidential primary.

March 14. While Republicans still buzzed about this vote, Eisenhower said "I would be delighted to be on any political ticket" with Nixon. Then he said:

'Anyone who attempts to drive a wedge of any kind between Dick Nixon and me is — has just as much chance if he tried to drive it between my brother and me."

Eisenhower hasn't indicated yet whether he thinks Stassen was using a wedge. On April 26 Nixon said he wanted to run again. Eisenhower sent out word he was "delighted."

May 4. He said publicly he was "delighted" but said he didn't know what the nominating convention would do.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Leg of lamb and a mixed green salad, or fried chicken and salad, may be served in a good many homes this weekend.

At least that's the indication of things to come from the specials planned for the nation groceries. Lamb is down as much as 10 cents a pound in some areas, and frying chickens are from four to eight cheaper in many places.

Good weather in potato-growing areas seems to be the key to increased production that could increase the supply and drive prices down.

Sirloin steak and pork are from two to six cents higher in scattered areas, and eggs continue to show higher prices in many areas.

Other outstanding buys for the housewife at the vegetable counter will be beets, squash, cabbage and beans while carrots and peppers also are attractively priced.

Fall From Ladder Ignored By Painter

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Glen W. Dunning toppled eight feet from the roof of his house to the ground, but already had a ladder up and was ready to climb back to resume his house painting when police arrived.

They persuaded him to accompany them to a hospital, where he was found to have a broken back, body bruises and a concussion.

The hospital records also listed Dunning's age. He's 81.

Family Notes 4th Death In 3 Years

MARION, Ill. (AP)—The third and fourth deaths within three years struck the Pulley family of Marion Wednesday.

Robert Pulley, 16, and his brother, Wesley, 12, drowned while swimming in KP Lake near Marion.

Three years ago the boys' father, Guy, was killed by an automobile while at work with the Illinois State Highway Department. Eighteen months ago another brother, Charles, was killed in an automobile accident.

The boys are survived by their mother and nine brothers and sisters.

Dem Solons Called

COLUMBUS (AP) — William L. Coleman of Marysville, Democratic state chairman, and Rep. Paul D. Siple (D-Lawrence) yesterday announced that Democratic members of the Ohio Legislature will meet here Monday.

This Is What District Vets Want To Know

(Veterans who have a question of interest to ex-servicemen should pass it along to Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer Jim Shea. His offices are in the basement of the courthouse at Circleville.)

* * *

Q—I am a World War II veteran. I have recently been discharged from a VA Tuberculosis Hospital. I am currently receiving 100 percent service connected disability compensation. My tuberculosis condition is arrested. What happens to my compensation now?

A—You will continue to receive your 100 percent rating for two years. Reductions will be made as time goes on. If your condition continues to be arrested, you will receive a statutory award of $67 per month. This award is not in addition to your compensation, but is paid to you after your rating has been reduced to zero. As long as your condition remains arrested, you will receive a minimum award of $67. If it ever becomes active again, your award will go back to 100 percent.

Q—I am in a jam. I am drawing service connected compensation. My trouble is financial. Can my creditors take my compensation?

A—All payments made to veterans by the VA are protected against seizure by the creditors of a veteran. Ohio courts have held that payments of benefits retain this protection so long as they are not mixed with other funds of the veteran, and so long as they are not used to purchase anything.

For example, if you were to use your compensation to buy an automobile, the automobile can be attached by your creditors. If you put your compensation in the bank with other funds, that bank account is subject to attachment. However, if you merely cash your check and put the money in your pocket, that is not attachable. If you maintain a bank account in which no funds are placed except your compensation, that bank account cannot be attached.

So long as the benefit money does not lose its identity as such, the money cannot be seized or attached under any legal process — other than that of the federal government for money which you may owe them.

Q—I am 65 years old today. When does my first VA pension check arrive?

A—Not so fast. The fact that you are 65 years of age, at the present time does not guarantee you a pension. You must be totally and permanently disabled and have an annual income of less than $1,400 if you are single, and $2,700 if you are married.

Now, if the new Veterans Security Bill passes, you may be eligible for a pension regardless of your disability, provided you are under the income limitation just mentioned.

Q—I am a veteran of World War I. I am receiving a 20 percent service-connected disability compensation. However, of late, my health has become so poor that I want to make application for total non-permanent, non-service connected pension. If I am granted this pension, will I continue to receive my service connected compensation?

A—The law prevents the acceptance of two benefits based on the same military service. Since your service-connected compensation pays you $33 a month, and the pension, provided it is alowed, will pay $66.15, you would naturally take the pension, which is the greater amount. You cannot draw both benefits.

However, by taking the pension, you do not lose rights that you are entitled to for the service connected disability, such as hospitalization and out-patient treatment.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Why is it that some people have so much difficulty trying to assert their right to proper treatment from others? I seem to try much too hard to put myself over. I extend myself, trying to prove my friendliness and my desire for the good will of others.

Meanwhile others seem to make a point of downgrading me, sensing intuitively that I am trying to forestall enmity and attacks. They invariably sense that I am helpless against aggression, and automatically exert pressure to crush me.

I realize that I am suffering from a badly abused ego that was systematically drained, in childhood, of the natural instincts of self-defense. But knowing the cause of my conditioning hasn't given me the stamina necessary to overcome it.

People who come from homes that gave them a healthy, firm resistance to opposition just naturally handle their problems without much difficulty. But when someone has been trained to back down from every threat and challenge, and to assume guilt at every accusation, and to feel absolutely worthless at the first sign of being "different" — how does that person begin all over, to develop real self-confidence?

DEAR L. D.: Clear recognition of the background of the problem, and diligent efforts at emotional retraining, and anxious prayerfulness, aren't enough, taken together, to undo the damage of the destructive conditioning you've suffered—a fact that you've learned from experience.

Something more is needed, that you can't supply of yourself, that must be brought into play by an outside source — namely, spiritual therapy.

The rugged individualist American theory of "do it yourself" when your lot needs improving, just won't work, in the matter of ridding oneself of certain afflictions of soul. The gist of New Testament teaching has instructed us, for two thousand years, that prayer fellowship—i.e., another's "fervent effectual prayer" on our behalf: his "concern" for us, as the Quakers say—is necessary, to deliver us from "conditioned" (enthroned and established) evil.

The Gospels and the Acts abound in illustrative cases of the kind—as Our Lord "went about doing good," using compassionate prayer to bring help-seekers into line with spiritual health. And as His disciples went into action after Pentecost, spreading the good news of the Resurrection while also being very practical "physicians" in the field of men's tribulations—according to the Master's example.

The "uninvolved" man of faith, detached from the problem (which inheres in the victim's "psychology"), can pray without stress on his friend's behalf. And it's help such as this you should get, I'm convinced.

M. H.

Medic Says Smog Health Menace

CLEVELAND (AP) Smog is described as a menace by Dr. C. M. Mayberry of East Liverpool.

He told the 41st annual convention of the Osteopathic College of Ophthomology and Otorhinolaryngolgy that smog interferes with the normal functions of the nose, throat and lungs, "even to the point of causing death."

Dr. Mayberry said smog acts as a mechanical irritant to the mucous membrane and as a poison to the lungs.

Wasp Sends Boy, 9, On Mystery Flight

TALLULAH, La. (AP)—Nine-year-old Danny Kirkpatrick disappeared from home after he was stung by a wasp.

Two hours later about 150 men, an airplane and two bloodhounds combed the surrounding countryside.

Three hours later, searchers found Danny in bed at the home of schoolmates, unharmed, unconcerned and unexplaining.

Four hours later he was in his own bed after a good parental hug, a good lecture and a good supper.

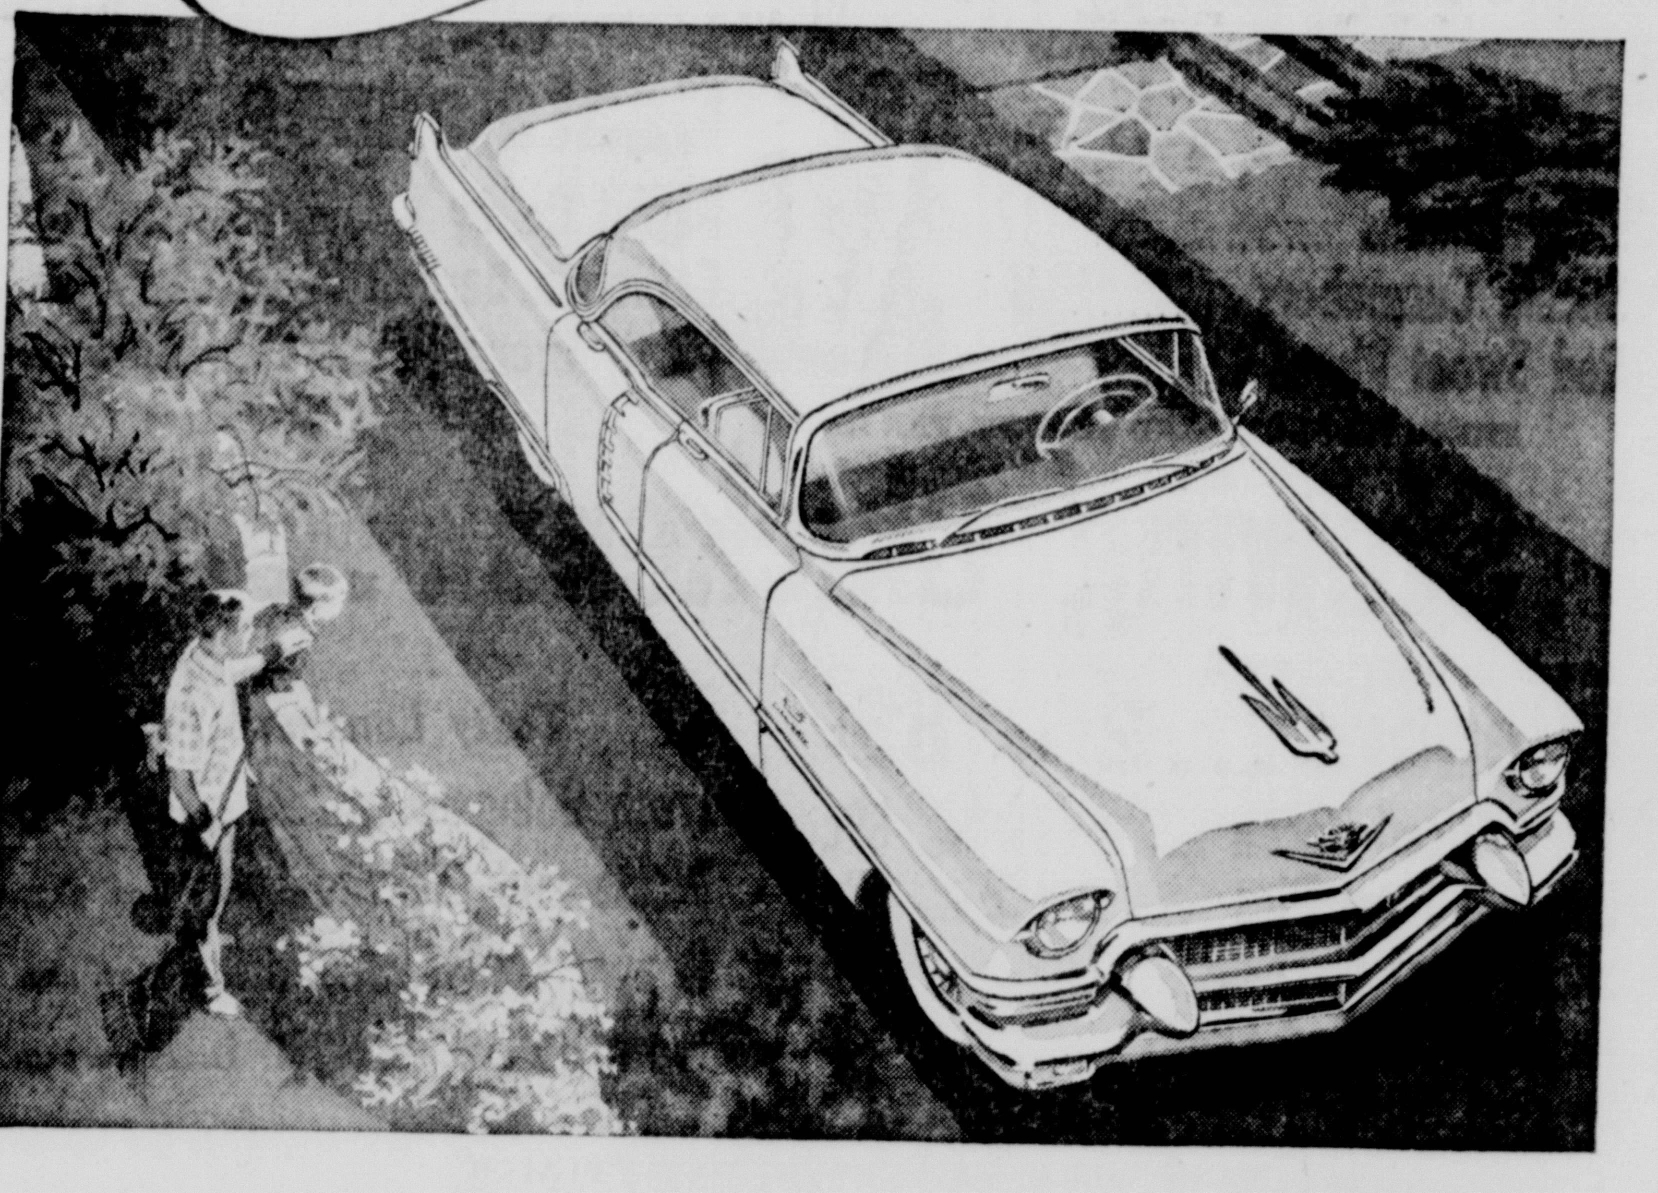
Cadillac



No Reason to Wait Any Longer!

There's not much question about what this man and his young son have on their minds.

They're thinking about Cadillac—and about how wonderful it would be to have one in their own driveway!

And because dreams of a Cadillac are hard to put aside, we suspect that it won't be too long now before we'll have an opportunity to give them the facts about Cadillac ownership.

And when that time arrives, they'll find that we have some wonderful news for them about how practical Cadillac ownership has recently become.

We will explain that it is now possible to become the happy owner of a 1956 Cadillac for little more than the cost of far lesser cars.

We will also tell them how economical a Cadillac is to operate — and how extraordinarily free it is from the ordinary requirements of service.

And we will show them how, at resale time, Cadillac returns a greater share of its owner's original investment than any other motor car.

But the best news will be yet to come. For then we will talk about the generous allowance we can give them on their present car—and how short the waiting period is on the Cadillac of their choice.

They will find, we feel certain, that they have lost their last logical reason for waiting any longer to enjoy a new Cadillac.

Incidentally, have you considered how wonderful a Cadillac would look in your driveway? If you have, then we sincerely urge you to come in soon and get the facts.

We'll be waiting for you with the car and the keys—and a story too wonderful to resist!

Redlegs Seen As Starting To Fold In Stretch

Milwaukee, Brooklyn Put On Heat; Ohioans 'Look Like Fall Guys'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The heat's on in the long-simmering National League pennant race and the Cincinnati Redlegs look like the fall guys who get burned.

Talk around the league pegged the second-place Redlegs as a club living high on a day-to-day business, with home run power shielding a pitching staff on borrowed time. Now Cincinnati is starting to crack just when the Milwaukee Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers are playing pennant ball.

The third-place Dodgers finally got to Brooks Lawrence, who was 3-0 against them, for a 2-1 decision Wednesday night. Duke Snider's 24th home run in the ninth broke up a duel between Lawrence, now 14-2, and Don Newcombe, 14-5.

The defeat sent Cincinnati skidding 4½ games behind the first-place Braves, who fattened up on the last-place New York Giants 7-4. Ex-Giant Bobby Thomson brought then from behind with a grand-slam home run.

Brooklyn and Milwaukee have four-game winning streaks while the Redlegs have lost five of nine in a week and are only 1½ games ahead of the Dodgers.

In the other NL games, Roberto Clemente gave Pittsburgh a storybook finish with a grand-slam, inside-the-park home run that beat the Chicago Cubs 9-8 in the ninth inning. And the St. Louis Cardinals pushed across two in the 10th to beat Philadelphia 8-7.

In the American, southpaw Whitey Ford and the New York Yankees put an end to Chicago's nonsense with a 10-1 breeze over the White Sox. Second-place Cleveland remained 8½ games behind the Yankees, walloping Washington 11-3. Detroit tied Baltimore for fifth place, beating the Orioles 6-2. And Kansas City scored eight runs in the seventh to whack fourth-place Boston 9-6.

All the runs came on homers in the Dodgers' victory at Jersey City, with Snider tying Redleg Ted Kluszewski for the NL lead. It was only the fourth Dodger hit and the first off Lawrence after Car Furillo tied it at 1-all with his 12th homer in the fourth inning. Rookie Frank Robinson smacked his 22nd in the third inning.

Lawrence now has lost two of his last three decisions while Newk has won five straight. Newcombe gave the Redlegs five hits, walked but one and struck out nine—retiring 13 in a row over one span.

Bob Buhl wasn't at his best, but his 11-hitter was good enough to beat the Giants. Ed Mathews homered and added three singles for Milwaukee. Al Worthington lost his 12th.

Logart Collects Unanimous Decision

CHICAGO (AP) — Isaac Logart still was in the running to bring another world welterweight boxing championship to Cuba today after cutting up a game and rugged Jed Black to win a unanimous 10-round decision here last night.

The classy fighter from Camaguay, former stablemate of Kid Gavilan, another Cuban who held the weltwerweight championship, took command fairly early in a hard fought scrap to win his 10th victory in a row. The Cuban was a 4 to 1 favorite.

Black, just three months out of the Army, fought hard and was still in there swinging in the 10th.

Archie Moore and Willie Pep are the only active fighters who have fought more than 200 bouts.

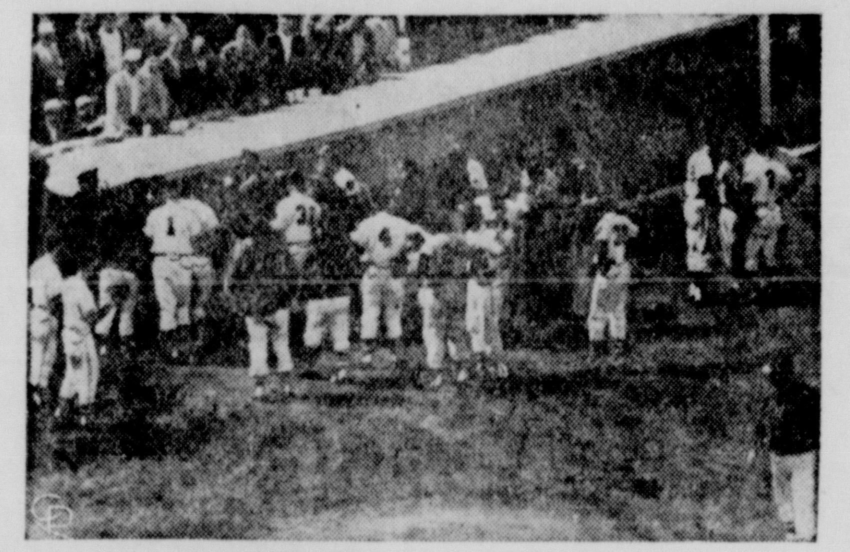
Adcock rubs arm as he starts for first.



Milwaukee players mass around Giant dugout.

MILWAUKEE'S County stadium becomes scene of the year's biggest baseball rhubarb after Reuben Gomez, New York Giants' pitcher, twice hit the Braves' Joe Adcock with the ball. Things started when Gomez hit Adcock on the left wrist with a pitched ball in the second inning. As Adcock walked to first he and Gomez shouted at each other. When Joe ran to the mound Gomez threw the ball, hitting Adcock again, then fled for safety into the Giants' dugout around which Milwaukee players quickly massed. Police restored peace. (International Soundphotos)

Herb Score Looks Good As Batsman, Too

CLEVELAND (AP)—Herb Score, the Cleveland Indians strikeout artist, has been showing another talent lately—hitting.

Since June 28, he's got two doubles and three singles in 18 trips to the plate for a .278 average. Before that he had only four singles in 29 trips.

He bounced one over the center field fence for a ground rule double in yesterday's 11-3 rout of the Washington Nationals. He also pitched a five hitter and struck out 10 to make his league-leading strikeout total 140.

It was Herb's second complete game in his last nine starts. His last previous nine-inning stint was June 29, when he beat Chicago. Before that you have to go back to June 2.

Part of June he was laid up with a digestive ailment which forced him to go on a diet.

Yesterday Score had a shutout until the eighth inning, when Roy Sievers homered with two aboard.

The Indians didn't get a hit off Camilo Pascual, also a strikeout specialist, until the fifth inning, when Bob Avila hit a three-run homer. Jim Hegan homered with one on in the sixth.

The Tribe scored six more in the seventh on three hits, three walks and two Washington errors.

The Indians extended their winning streak to five games and now stand 11-5 over the Nats.

Lions Sew Up Second Round With 8-5 Win

The Lions Kid baseball team won the second round of Babe Ruth League play by gaining an 8 to 5 victory over GE in a thriller played Wednesday night at Ted Lewis Park.

The winners' record stands at four victories and no losses in second round play.

Fireballer Joe Adkins, hurling for the Lions crew, gave up four hits and registered five strikeouts. GE pitcher, Phifer, made the battle a real pitchers duel by allowing the winners only four hits.

The GE lads, playing good ball in the early innings, held a 5 to 4 lead in the top of the sixth frame. But the winners came back in their half of the stanza and scored four big runs to ice the game.

* * *

HERE IS the line score:

GE	301	010	0 —	5	4	2
Lions	021	014	x —	8	4	4

Phifer; Caudill
Adkins; Sark.

The Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers have played 74 football games with the Bears winning 43, losing 25 and tieing 6.

The original 1876 baseball was the same size as the major league ball used today, with a circumference of 9 to 9¼ inches.

Moore Seeking Patterson Bout

TORONTO (AP)—Archie Moore is ready to "defend" his private version of the world heavyweight title against Floyd Patterson in New York Sept. 18 "if the price is right" after stopping James J. Parker in nine rounds.

The ancient ring Gypsy from San Diego, Calif., chopped up Parker with the greatest of ease last night. Referee Billy Burke called a technical knockout in 2:02 of the ninth. The outclassed lanky Toronto heavyweight dripped blood from cuts around the left eye and was absorbing punishment when the end came.

Dayton Hurler Chalks No-Hitter

BOWLING GREEN (AP)—Dayton National Cash Register's Walter Jacobs gave up one walk and struck out 16 men last night as he pitched a seven-inning, no hit 10-[illegible] victory over Howard's Service of Napoleon.

In other International Soft Ball League tournament matches: Idle [illegible]r of Napoleon defeated Mesa Local 71 of Napoleon 7-4, and Howard's Service edged the Toledo Playboys 7-6.

Dave Smalley of Albuquerque, N. M., is the first Navy player to win the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League batting title. He hit .419 for the Middies.

Ohio Weekend Fishing To Be Poor To Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fishing conditions ranging from poor to fair in Ohio this weekend we forecast today by the state division of wildlife.

The sectional outlook:

Northwest — Practically all streams roily to muddy and above normal level. Stream fishing is fair to poor with catfish and carp being taken. Best prospects are in the lakes, most of which are clear and at nomal levels. Lake St. Marys has been reporting fair catches of crappies and catfish. Oxbow Lake in Defiance County should be good for the next few days. Fair catches of largemouth bass and bluegills are being taken.

East Central and Southeast—The outlook for stream fishing is poor with most streams high and muddy. A few catfish and carp being taken from the Muskingum River. Lake fishing should continue fair to good with largemouth bass, bluegills, crappies, catfish and carp being reported from Burr Oak, Atwood, Leesville, Tappan and Forked Run.

Central and Southern — Lakes are reporting fair to good catches of largemouth bass, bluegills, catfish and carp. Best lake fishing expected at Delaware Reservoir, Buckeye Lake, Griggs Reservoir and Knox Lake. Stream fishing poor.

Southwest—Stream fishing poor. Some catfish and carp being taken in the streams of Miami, Shelby, Clinton and Brown counties. Trout fishing reported good in the Mad River in Champaign County. Best fishing expected in Grant, Kiser, Hosterman, Stonelick, Cowan and Echo lakes. Fair to good stringers of bluegills, largemouth bass, crappies and catfish are reported from these lakes.

Patty Berg Eyes Home State Meet

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — A tight-lipped Patty Berg, 38, still a relentless competitor in her third decade of championship golf, set out today to "win one for the home folks" in the start of the Women's National Open.

For Patty, it was an incentive that wasn't there for her long time colleagues like Betty Jameson and Louise Suggs. More through pride than sentiment, Patty wants to win a big one before a home state crowd.

It was here at the beautiful but severe Northland Country Club course that Minneapolis-born Patty won her first state title 21 years ago, the Minnesota Amateur.

Steamin' Demon Double Winner At Fayette Fair

Steamin' Demon, George Van Camp's trotter - turned - pacer, romped home to win both heats of the Three-Year Old Pace event at the Fayette County Fair Wednesday.

Eddie Boyer drove the colt to winning times of 2:05.3 and 2:04, pretty fast at any track. With this being the last week for racing at Hilliards, it is not known whether Boyer will pilot Steamin' Demon again at the Washington C. H. oval or at Hilliards.

Van Camp drove another of his entries himself. He gained second place in both heats of the Two-Year Old Trot with Jody Hanover.

Another local driver also finished in the money. Porter Martin drove his own Air Pilot to a second in the first heat and third in the second heat of the 18 Pace.

* * *

TODAY'S ENTRIES at Washington C. H. list a number of local drivers. These include the following:

Two-Year Old Pace OCRA—Virginia's Dream, with Jimmy Mace; Terminal, with Martin; Cindymite, with Forest Short; and Gold Mine, with Boyer.

Three-Year Old Trot — Circus Rose, with Merle Thornton.

30 Pace Overnight — Adio Hill, with Boyer; Scottish Light, with Mace.

Bucs Forgive Clemente For Scoring Run

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Roberto Clemente, the Pittsburgh Pirate's fleet-footed Puerto Rican, deliberately ignored his manager's sign to stop at third last night. He roared in to score in a cloud of dust after hitting a ninth-inning blow with the bases loaded.

The run beat the Chicago Cubs 9-8.

Manager Bobby Bragan not only forgave the 21-year-old Roberto but made it plain there will be no fine.

"Phew," said Bobby. 'Here, Clemente ties up the game for sure and I throw up the stop sign. After all, we have some long ball hitters coming up, no one out and getting Bobby home with the winning runs looks easy. I hold up both hands and say 'Stop' but not Roberto.

"Roberto, he just keeps going and, of course, he scored and we won. But it was a close play. Wow!"

Roberto promptly admitted after the game that he had deliberately missed Bragan's stop signal, declaring:

"I say to Bobby—'Geet out of my way, and I score.' Just like that! I theenk we have nothing to loose as we got the score tied without my run and if I score, the game she is over and we don't have to play no more tonight."

Grandma Doing Bang-Up Job As 'Newspaperman' In Town

By HAROLD HARRISON

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—It usually is a bit difficult to convince most veteran newspapermen that a woman ever can be a "good newspaperman."

But it would be better if the die-hards stay away from this quiet little college town.

Mrs. Avis Cullen, an attractive, graying grandmother, can produce facts and figures that will disturb their beliefs. In fact, it can be downright shattering to your views if you think the only place for a woman on a newspaper is as the society editor—or maybe as a stenographer in the business office.

As publisher and generalissimo of the Oxford Press, a sprightly weekly paper, Mrs. Cullen has seen her paper win more than two score awards and citations since 1951. They have come for general excellence, makeup, features, typography, sports and news coverage, editorials and community service.

There are a lot of others, too.

The sparkling-eyed Mrs. Cullen is quick, however, to spread the credit.

Her editor, Bob White, a young fellow with a lot of pep, recently won a first in a National Editorial Assn. editorial contest. Mrs. Cullen is quick to give him and Mrs. Jo Brickels credit for the paper's success.

And then there is a fellow known as Bill Cullen who gets a lot of her praise. He is her husband and operates a wholesale photo finishing shop in Cincinnati. Originally, he was supposed to have had a hand in running the paper, but she got along so well he just continued with his own business. Now he's just an "advisor" but Mrs. Cullen says she often calls on him for advice.

It was about 20 years ago that Mr. and Mrs. Cullen decided they wanted to buy a small newspaper somewhere in southwestern Ohio. She had done advertising work in Chattanooga, Tenn., St. Louis and on the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, and he was the Cincinnati representative of a magazine publishing company.

They tried a paper in another town but it didn't suit them. Then they found the Oxford Press which, at that time, was a "give away" paper.

They bought it and started a regular weekly.

The paper now has more than 2,500 circulation and has 12 to 24 pages weekly. It covers the entire area. Now, Mrs. Cullen also publishes a paper on the Indiana side of College Corner which straddles the Indiana-Ohio Line. Her plant prints the papers for Western College for Women and Miami University here. An offset plant recently was opened in Hamilton.

Mrs. Cullen says she and her husband started their business in the belief his experience in circulation and hers in advertising would give them a background. But Cullen quickly dropped out and that Mr. Cullen acquired the editorial background is shown by the awards her paper has won.

Seated in the office of the trim plant of the Oxford Press, Mrs. Cullen said:

"The publisher of a small town newspaper has to be a versatile person, a reporter, a salesman, a collector and a hard worker. Each ad and each item is read by at least one person with a magnifying glass.

"The publisher should be a leader in the community, working for the promotion of things that are good for the town.

"We are proud of the fact that we have enjoyed a larger volume of business each year and never have missed an issue regardless of fire or war."

"While a business must make a reasonable profit if it is to continue to prosper," she said, "chief satisfaction is in being of service to the community, in doing a job well whether it be printing 500 business cards or promoting a 500-acre lake in Hueston Woods State Park.

"And speaking of accuracy, we've been known to make three phone calls to find out how to spell a name."

The question of community service is dear to Mrs. Cullen. Last year the Oxford Press won the Ohio Newspaper Assn. award for that for the third consecutive time and decided to bow out of the competition.

"When several people get together to discuss something," Mrs. Cullen said, "they often surprise themselves at how many new and wonderful ideas are developed. That is the secret of our success in community service. We ask for help from everyone we can think of and usually get splendid response."

But Mrs. Cullen actually is just like all women. When asked for a picture, her reply was:

"Oh, I never take a good picture."

But she does.

Jet Trainer Falls On Pennsy Building

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP)—A stricken Air Force jet training plane dropped out of the twilight last night, crashed into a building housing a grocery and apartments, and burst into flames, leveling the structure.

The two crewmen bailed out of the plane shortly before it crashed. They suffered only minor bruises as they landed in a field.

Only Mrs. Sylvester Bockum was in the building when the plane hit. She ran screaming to safety and was hospitalized for shock.
